New $220,000 North Side Medical Building Planned in Springs Area

A new $220,000 medical building will soon be constructed on the southeast corner of Hancock Ave. and Columbine Blvd. it was announced Saturday by P.F. Bernabee and William M. Metzler, owners of the project.

The new building will be called the North Side Medical Building.

The plans prepared by architect Walter A. Miller call for four physician suites, two dental suites, a pharmacy, a laboratory and X-ray suite, as well as miscellaneous storage and public space. The Pharmacy suite will be occupied by the North Side Pharmacy owned by Mr. Joseph F. Pieper and presently located at 3113 North Hancock.

The building will be two stories in height with the second floor served by two concrete stair ways and an elevator. A full basement will be provided for utilities and equipment, and storage. The main entrance is on the north side of the building with access to Hancock Avenue on the west through a landscaped court yard.

Parking will be provided for 23 cars.

The entire building will be constructed of incombustible materials using a concrete frame and a concrete floor and roof structure. Exterior walls will be face brick and marblecrete. A solar screen will be installed over all second floor windows. All suites will be heated, ventilated, and air condition with air handling units supplied from a central boiler and chiller located in the basement.

General contractor's bids will be received by Walter A. Miller-Architect. It is estimated that the project cost will be approximately $220,000.

Peak Region Transformed Into Winter Wonderland by Sudden, Heavy Snowfall

By MARGUERITE MITCHELL
Gazette Telegraph Staff Writer

Colorado Springs residents looked out on a winter wonderland scene early Saturday morning.

The snowfall that began fitfully on Thursday had stopped its spasmodic stop-and-go action and production was in high gear.

Snow shovelers fought a losing battle with the elements Saturday, trying to keep ahead of the game, as the snow continued its graceful fall throughout the daylight hours.

By noon, the U. S. Weather Bureau at Peterson Field had recorded 11 inches of snow, with a baker's dozen expected to blanket the region by nightfall, however the snowfall for the 24 hour period up to 5 p.m. Saturday was only 11.6 inches. In spite of additional fall during the afternoon, settling and melting left only 9 inches on the ground at 5 p.m.

Manitou Springs had 9 inches on the ground at 5 o'clock, and Pueblo reported 8 inches on the ground at the same hour.

However, the car - stalling snowfall held very little water content, weathermen said. Un-

Three Palmer Lake Robbers Caught After Wild Chase

Three men Saturday morning robbed McCalls Mercantile at Palmer Lake, forcing three persons into the cooler - wrecked their getaway car - hijacked a milk delivery truck to Colorado Springs - got haircuts - and ended up in county jail, all within three hours time, El Paso County Sheriffs Office said.

Ernest Stedson Ross, 21, 2555 Clarkson St.; Charles Ray Wortham, 47, 1716 E. 33rd St., and Michael Clevon Morehead, 18, 2728 High St., all admitted taking part in the robbery, sheriffs officers said.

Kenneth McCall, operator of the mercantile store told officers three men came into the store and ordered bread and bologna, after that, no one offered to pay for the items. At that time, McCall said, he was ordered to open the cash register, and that they said (the robbers) they had a gun. McCall said that he and two customers, Homer Ira and John Wood of Palmer Lake, did not see a gun, but did as they were told.

After taking about $3 from McCall and $7 or $8 from the register, $1 from Ira and $4.50 from Wood, the victims were

Dead Man's Hand Proves Bad Transplant

BOSTON (UPI) — Surgeons Saturday amputated the hand an Ecuadorian sailor received in a historic operation from a dead man because it appeared the transplant would jeopardize the health of the sailor's own arm.

Julio Luna, 28, was in satisfactory condition at Peter Bent Brigham Hospital following the surgery.

Luna was flown to Boston Friday in an attempt to treat a gangrene infection which developed in the grafted right hand.

"Examinations and tests conducted during the night indicated that the natural rejection mechanism of the patient had progressed to the point that prolongation of the transplant would jeopardize the health of the patient's own arm," a hospital spokesman said.

Luna lost his own hand and forearm in a hand grenade explosion Feb. 13 in Guayaquil. Physicians quickly transplanted a hand from a laborer who died of ulcers, and for a while physicians seemed cautiously optimistic that the hand would function.

Cyprus War Erupts With Heavy Fight

By RAY J. MOLONEY

NICOSIA, Cyprus (UPI) — Greek and Turkish Cypriots, perched in the minarets of mosques, fought a bazooka and machine gun battle Saturday in the ancient city of Paphos. Heavy fighting also was reported between the rival communities at Kyrenia.

At least four persons were killed and 22 wounded in the fighting at Paphos, 50 miles of Nicosia, before British troops moved in and established an uneasy cease-fire.

A British soldier was hit in the wrist by a ricochetting bullet but his condition was not serious.

Fighting between Greek and Turkish Cypriots at Kyrenia was reported "fierce." There was no report on casualties.

British officials said Greek Cypriot irregulars fired on British troops in armored vehicles but none was hit.

Gigantic Waste In Foreign Aid Found by Solons

By NORMAN G. CORNISH

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A highway that ends in a river.

A railroad with a 173-mile gap in it.

And $8 million worth of unnecessary grants and loans from the U.S. taxpayer.

That was what a group of congressional watchdogs said Saturday they found in a recent check of U.S. foreign aid projects in the Middle East.

The report was sent to Congress by the General Accounting Office which keeps a continuous tab on government spending.

It was almost certain to spark new demands for tighter control over U.S. aid money. And, as a result, it spells more trouble for the new foreign aid bill which President Johnson is forwarding to the Capitol soon.

The highway and railroad projects examined by GAO are in Turkey, Iran and Iraq. They originally were undertaken during the Eisenhower administration in an effort to tie the

Malaysia Reports New Guerrilla Attacks on Borneo

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP) — The Malaysian government reported today a new attack by Indonesian guerrillas on Borneo as developments in other southeast Asian capitals dimmed prospects for settling the Malaysia crisis.

A Malaysian spokesman said Indonesian guerrillas killed three gurkhas attached to British forces and wounded two others Friday in the Malaysian Borneo state of Sarawak. He said about 50 guerrillas opened fire on a Malaysian patrol, and retreated into Indonesia, carrying what were believed to be a number of casualties.

In another part of Sarawak Friday four uniformed intruders, including one wearing the insignia of an Indonesian army sergeant, were killed by Malaysian forces and British troops, who suffered no casualties in the fight.

The new outbreaks on Borneo followed by one day the collapse of a second peace conference of foreign ministers of Indonesia, Malaysia and the Philippines after President Sukarno's government refused to withdraw guerrillas from Malaysian Borneo territory.

Judge William G. East asked Keenan to stand. The judge asked:

LBJ Promises New Steps To Trim Budget Still More

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson argued Saturday that "the buoyancy of the tax cut" already is boosting employment. And he announced new steps to trim his already reduced budget.

Johnson began his seventh news conference—broadcast live by television and radio networks from the historic East Room of the White House—by stating that greater-than-normal February increases in employment reflected the expectation of the $11.5-billion tax cut.

He reported also that new figures on businessmen's plans to expand their investment in modern plants and equipment will be released Tuesday and "will confirm rising business optimism."

Politics figured in the 30-minute session, too, with a series of questions dealing with a campaign to solicit write-in support in Tuesday's New Hampshire primary for Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy as a potential Democratic vice-presidential nominee.

Johnson said one reason for primaries is to "ascertain the sentiment of the public." And he said the New Hampshire results will be "very interesting."

But Johnson emphasized that the No. 2 man on the Democratic ticket "will be selected after the president has been nominated, and after his suggestions and recommendations have been sought." In other words, Johnson, if nominated as expected, will make the decision.

In the foreign field, Johnson declared he would be very happy to meet with French President Charles de Gaulle and he sees "no irreconcilable differences" between the United States and France. He predicted the two countries would be together "when the chips are down."

Johnson mentioned no date for seeing the French chief, however. Aides indicated Johnson was making a friendly gesture in the direction of Paris—with whom Washington has been at odds—rather than lining up a specific meeting at this point.

The President, who sent Congress in January a $97.9-billion budget for the new fiscal year that begins July 1, said that total will be trimmed further by additional cuts in the federal payroll.

Johnson said payroll estimates included in the budget will be reduced by some 7,000 to produce an estimated annual saving of $42 million.

While the amount involved is small in relation to the total budget, it was evident Johnson was delighted with the results of efforts to curtail federal spending.

Individual Initiative New Fashion on Russian Farms

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev wants the Soviet Union's state-run collective farms to stress individual initiative, reward hard work and continue copying U.S. agricultural methods.

Calling for a relaxation of bureaucratic controls over agriculture, Khrushchev said that each farm should decide for itself what to plant and how to operate.

Khrushchev praised American farm techniques—"we borrowed some," he said—and described Soviet farmers as particularly capable pupils of U.S. mechanized corn production.

Khrushchev made the speech Feb. 28 at a rally of party and agricultural workers in the Kremlin. It was first published today in the party newspaper Pravda.

Khrushchev's remarks indicated his continued determination to draw away from the rigid agricultural controls of Stalin's era. That policy is regarded as one cause of the Soviets' lagging farm output that forced them into major grain imports from the West.

Under Stalin, Khrushchev said, "the work of the majority of collective farmers was practically unpaid.

"We must ensure higher pay to those who work more efficiently, who create more products with less expenditure of labor and means, who make a more weighty contribution to the construction of the new society," he said.

Ruby Had Brain Damage, Defense Plans to Claim

By ARTHUR EVERETT

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — The state has traced the footsteps of Jack Ruby across a sad and solemn page of American history. Saturday, the defense was preparing to ask his jury to believe that he didn't know where he was going, nor why.

Ruby, 52, operator of a Dallas strip-tease joint, is on trial for his life for the Nov. 24 shooting of President John F. Kennedy's accused assassin, Lee Harvey Oswald. The fourth week of the trial begins Monday, after a weekend recess.

Chief defense attorney Melvin Belli, a San Francisco lawyer, has told the jury of four women and eight men:

Flaking Paint Key Factor in Child Poisonings

The presence of flaking paint where it can be eaten by children is the essential factor in lead poisonings, a study showed today.

A Cleveland medical team analyzed information obtained on 906 children in a door-to-door survey to determine what environmental factors were involved in lead poisonings.

Writing in the current Journal of the American Medical Association, the researchers said youngsters normally explore their environment by placing many nonfood items in their mouth.

Factors which might influence this habit are limited parental supervision of the child, previously existing brain damage in the child, and the parents' lack of knowledge of the consequences of ingestion of nonfood items, they commented.

"The essential factor, however, would be the ready availability of material containing lead derived from paint which can be ingested by the exploring young child," they concluded.

Authors of the report are Robert C. Griggs, M.D., Irving Sunshine, Ph.D., Vaun A. Newill, M.D., Burritt W. Newton, M.D., Stuart Buchanan, M.D., and Cleo A. Rasch, M.D.

The neighborhood studied during the summers of 1959 and 1960 consisted of three areas with old houusing and one with relatively new housing as represented by a housing project.

Of 906 children, aged 1 to 5, urinalysis revealed an abnormal amount of lead in 219, or 24 per cent. However, an abnormal presence of lead was found in only 3 per cent in children living in the newer housing compared with 25 to 37 per cent in the old housing areas.

Among 549 children, aged 12 to 35 months living in areas of poorly maintained housing, evidence of increased exposure to lead was found in 28 per cent and a diagnosis of lead intoxication was made in 6 per cent, the study showed. Among 119 children in the same age range living in the newer housing project, only 3 per cent had abnormal lead findings and none could be classified as having lead intoxication.

"The present study, carried out in this 'lead belt,' demonstrates that a large number of children with evidence of increased absorption of lead can be found in such an area, while children living only a few blocks away, in families with similar socioeconomic backgrounds but residing in relatively new and adequately maintained housing, were not so afflicted," the group commented.

The use of lead in paint has decreased steadily since 1940, and in dwellings built in recent years the paint is less likely to contain a large amount of lead, the report pointed out.

Lead poisoning is still a common and serious disease of children, despite knowledge of both its cause and means of prevention, the authors commented. From 1952 through 1958, they said, about eight to nine Cleveland children were hospitalized per year for lead poisoning with a death rate of 30 per cent.

The investigation concerned the operation of an alleged marijuana ring at Abraham Lincoln High School. At least 10 more students, including several girls, probably will be arrested, said Lt. Duane Borden, supervisor of the intelligence bureau in the Denver Police Department.

Those in custody were identified as Jerry R. Gierhart and Leroy C. Romero, both 16, and Cyrus R. Garcia, 18.

Your Outdoors

By MARY L. SHIRER
For the Pikes Peak Group of the Colorado Mountain Club

Of Colorado Mountain Club Mentality And Manners Of Wild Animals

We like to turn our minds to wild life. The intelligence and ways of wild animals is really a large subject that would take volumes to discuss and a vast field of interest and fascinating study lying just outside your door, within reach of all.

Wild animals express their thoughts by sign language and in some species, by vocal sounds. Sometimes under stress of new emergencies or in great pain animals that have been considered voicles suddenly give a peculair sound.

Hundreds of species of mammals and birds use their voices promoting movements for their safety and birds give expressions to their pleasure or joy by singing.

Some wild creatures do not say much, because of danger of attracting enemies that might destroy them. Bears in their native haunts are not given to much talk but in captivity they develope vocal powers, Buffalo bulls will bellow and the puma will scream like a woman in distress.

The woodpecker drums on a dead tree as a signal call to the female.

The magpie will talk but we do not understant what he is saying. The lion roars, the hyena laughs, the wolf gives a mournful howl, the coyote barks, the fox yaps, elks bugle, the moose roars, the red squirrel chatters, frogs croak. One could go indefinitely with animal language.

The question often arises as to which is the most intelligent wild animal. The chimpanzee is the most intelligent of all animals below man, that is, his mind approaches most clearly to that of man and he learns more by training. The oragutan ranks next and Indian Elephant in mental capacity is third from man. The domestic horse is wise because of his long association with man.

The beaver manifests more mechanical skill than any wild animal. The grizzly is the wisest of all bears. The dog's mentality is in closest touch with the mind, impulses and feelings of man. The packrat is the intellectural phenomenon of the group of gnawing animals. We must not suppose that animal mentality is limited to the brain bearing vertebrates. The minds and habits of ants, bees, wasps, spiders and other insects display a certain amount of mentality.

Rabbits are wonderfully skillful in hiding their homes and young. The white-tailed deer is the shrewdest in recognition of its enemies. The mule deer is alert and quick to escape hunters.

Bighorn sheep are extremely alert and fast runners from hunters. A lot of credit is due the wild life which is interesting to observe. Wild animals are able to reason from cause to effect along simpler lines that vitally affect their existence.

Fred Monk Will Seek Nomination For Reelection

Fred H. Monk, county commissioner for the Second District, has announced his intention to seek nomination for reelection.

His announcement was made to Weldon M. Tarter, chairman of the El Paso County Republican Central Committee.

Monk said the decision to run for re-election was made after he had been urged to do so by many business and professional people, and by ranchers in various parts of the County.

He has served in that position for five terms and during that time has served as chairman of the Board of County Comissioners, as Road Commissioner, and presently is serving as the Commissioner in charge of welfare.

Monk emphasizes that he has no outside business interests and can devote full time to the duties of his office as he has done in the past.

Prior to serving as commissioner, Monk owned and operated a store in Fountain.

He and Mrs. Monk reside at the Medalion Apartments.

They have one daughter who is married to an Air Force Officer. He was born in Nebraska but has lived in El Paso County all of his adult life.

He states that he is looking forward with pleasure to further service to the people in El Paso County.

Lighter Colors For Spring Ties

By WALTER LOGAN

NEW YORK (UPI) — The 1964 Spring ties are out now and men will find them lighter than usual, in bolder patterns and in irridescent finishes to go with the increasingly popular irridescent finished suit.

Shantung, still the leader in warm weather ties, is back in new patterns, new weaves, new finishes and new color treatments in contrast with days of old when they were usually stripes or solid colors. Notable are woven patterns and all-over handblocked prints.

Italian designer Alberto Fabiani, who is almost violently anti-Ivy League look, emphasizes composite, or irridescent colors in his Spring line and colors are brighter and more alive looking than anything seen in previous seasons.

Many grade from dark to light or light to dark. The knot, for example, may be a deep cerulian blue that grades to light blue toward the tip. He also has revived moire and makes it in several combinations, a favorite being brown with blue.

"A tie is the only way a man can dress up and he should take advantage of it to add life and color to his outfit," he said.

Countess Mara has taken shantung ties and added a velour finish in solid colors, prints and stripes. The velour finish adds a linen-like look but retains the qualities of silk. There are also bold prints in black and white, checks and silk brocade.

Berkley uses shantung for all-over prints. Blank's uses nautical stripes on shantung and gives some of them an irridescent finish. Ernst's uses oriental colors in a Rajah series. Stratford uses woven heraldic underknots and a new nailhead weave.

Beau Brummel has improved wash and wear ties in a Mr. Wonderful line to make them look more like silk. They also are fully lined for the first time.

American designer Mr. John drew the inspiration for his Spring line from patterns of electrons traced on a highly sensitive plate. He calls it the electra collection and it features a wide path of irregular color placed diagonally against a solid colored ground. Colors? Orbit White on a Blip Blue background and Martian Red on Outer Black.

Other tie news: John Fredericks uses a pale yellow-gold satin and decorates it with a sprinkling of almost invisible circles. Prince Consort matches up its ties with striped shirts. Superba shows shirting stripe shades on a camel colored background.

Something new for ties: The Safe Way Products Co., makes an aerosol spray called Sili which can be sprayed on a tie of any fabric to make it spot resistant, water repellent and wrinkle proof. It protects the tie from everything from hot coffee to cold soda.

Survey: The Men's Tie Foundation polled tie furnishers throughout the United States to see what sort of trends had developed and what was popular.

Some of the findings: Dark ties led over mediums and lights in the nationwide averages by percentages of 79, 17 and 4. In patterns, stripes led all the rest with under knots, "neat designs" and solids in that order. The 2-inch wide tie led by a margin of 56 per cent. The west coast states led in the narrow (1½ inch) category and the more conservative New England states led in the 2-inch. Ties costing $1.50 and under led in sales with $2.50 ties next and $3.50 ties well behind. The most popular fabric was acetate and rayon followed by polyester, silk and silk and polyester blends.

Pikes Peak Region Yesterdays

By DORA FOSTER

One of my neighbors has a birthday anniversary Monday, and I brought a birthday card a week or so ago to present on the proper day and now I can't find it anywhere in the desk.

My friend tells that he was named after Albertus Magnus, and all because his father seeing that name on the Haggerstown calander of a famous man who was born that day, decided to name his son after him. Now the son grown older does not know just who Albertus Magnus is, or was. Hope I find that lost card.

One of the first birthdays that I can remember was made glorious by the fact that my father had brought home to me from town a brown paper bag, filled with rock candy. Ever see any? I have never felt so rich either before or since. The little sack was so full of the goodies that the strings hung out of its top and showed the white crystals clinging to the cords in a delicious shower. Wonder why they don't make such candy any more. I suppose if one boiled several white cords in a dish of sugar and water and allowed the sugar to crystalize all along the strings it would be the same as that mouth-watering concoction that my father handed me. If I remember rightly, sister and I feasted on those strings for several days. No expensive box of chocolates has ever pleased me more—few as they have been. Another birthday party that was given for my younger sister stands out in our minds even though there were but three of us invited to attend. Mother had set our little play table in the "big" bedroom so we might be exclusive, away from the others of the family and we felt highly honored. In society exclusiveness has marked many an affair which otherwise might not have been so enjoyable.

What mother had put on that little table for us three sisters to eat that afternoon, I do not now remember but all three of us still recall with pleasure a little plate of sliced eggs, hard boiled and then pickled in red beet juice and vinegar. We still think that little supper party was one of the highlights of our childhood, and all because of that dish of red eggs.

When I see busy mothers fussing over elaborate preparations for their children's parties I can but wonder if times always change for the better.

Not always, it seems, do birthday parties prove a source of happiness. One such has been remembered by a neighbor, Mrs. John W. Parsons whose early home was in the small town of Campus, Ill. Her older sisters and her mother had planned a party for her 16th birthday anniversary and since she had never had a party before, she was looking forward to it with great expectations. She had not as yet had a beau and among the boys and girls who had been invited she had believed there were great possibilities for friendships.

The night of the birthday party was a rainy one, with a heavy downpour of water that showed no signs of letting up and the roads, muddy from previous April rains, were fast getting impassable. But still Gertrude kept hoping and hoping that her party would be a success.

"I was sick," she tells, "just sick with disappointment, for not a soul came."

Later the family learned that one lone boy came on horseback to the yard but seeing no one else had come did not let them know that he had ridden up and so went home again.

Here, we might remark, is one advantage of living in Colorado, even if we don't have enough water to wet up the sand, we don't have any Illinois mud to keep us home from good times.

Another neighbor, Bert Winger, tells that although there were nine children in his mother's family, she did not let a birthday anniversary pass without some recognition of it and usually she made a pie for the dinner that day. Their home was a Kansas farm and the pies were often of cherries or rhubard or sweet potatoes.

Not having ever tasted a pie made of sweet potatoes, I asked him what a sweet potato pie tasted like.

"It tastes like a sweet potato pie," he informed me. "Mighty good."

Those nine children had pie quite often through the years since one birthday occurred in February, another in March, one in June and three in October, on the 26th, 27th and 28th with the last one of the year in December.

My eldest sister, Helen told me that the first birthday party she can recall was given in the early 1870's and for a little girl who lived in Broadmoor. The little hostess was Etta Myers, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert Myers, whose farm was the only one then located on those broad acres. The log cabins, two of them, were connected by a covered runway and it was between these two cabins that Mrs. Myers set the little dinner table for the four little girls who had been invited. The guests were my two sisters, Minnie and Helen, and Viola Kinsman whose home was on Cheyenne Road, in what is now the 1100 block.

My sister did not recall the menu that was served that day but she remembers very clearly that they had sliced cucumbers, a vegetable of which she is and was very fond. Coming upon the happy little quartet, Etta's Uncle Charley, her father's brother, told the children that the seeds in the cucumbers were poisonous and that they must be picked out before the rest of the cucumbers could be eaten safely.

So the innocent little ladies patiently de-seeded the slices and that my sister remembers very well indeed.

It seems only fair to history to tell that after the death several years later of Etta's father, her mother finally was persuaded to marry Uncle Charley but this union resulted in a long-time separation with Uncle Charley spending his last days in some small towns in New Mexico.

Perhaps the moral to this story could be that some uncles thould not attend birthday parties, or that brides-to-be should know better how uncle Charley's act at children's parties.

She has since learned that Albertvs Magnus was a distinguished German philospjer a great teacher and left this world in 1840. No use hunting a birthday card for him now. But we doubt if he had enjoyed any more delightful birhtday festivities than have been held in the early days of Kansas Colorado, where simple food accompanied by keen childish appetites made ambrosia of hard-boiled eggs, sweet potatoes and de-seeded cucumbers.

TB Decreases In Past Decade As Death Cause

Tuberculosis, once a serious menance to the lives of American wage - earners and their families, has continued to decrease as a cause of death during the past decade, statisticians of Metropolitan Life Insurance Company report.

Mortality from the disease among Metropolitan's Industrial policyholders dropped 75 per cent between 1952 and 1962, reflecting in part te effective use of newer anti-tuberculosis drugs.

The relative reduction in tuberculosis mortality in the decade has been greater among females than among males. At present the death rate from the disease among white female policyholders is only about one fifth that for white males.

Past and recent experience also indicates that tuberculosis deaths increasingly are being concentrated at the later ages, especially among older men, the statisticians said.

Nevertheless, as continuing medical and public health problem, tuberculosis is most serious in large cities of the United States. The rate for newly reported active cases of the disease for the 22 largest cities was 56 per 100,000 in 1961, or nearly twice the national average. Still higher were the rates reported in Chicago, Detroit and Batlimore. In New York City last year, the incidence of Tuberculosis exceeded the 1962 rate, the first such rise since introduction of isoniazid therapy in 1953, the statisticians continued.

Further control of the disease can be achieved through measures that already have proved effective. Maximum use can be made of drug therapy, with special attention to problems resulting from emergence of drug - resistant strains of the bacillus. In view of the high relapse rate among persons with inactive tuberculosis, periodic examinations among them is desirable. Long - term follow-up and examination of contacts of persons with newly diagnosed active tuberculosis as well as special efforts to prevent the infection of children will prove fruitful in tuberculosis control," the statisticcians concluded.

Florence City Building Permit Total $12,500

Building permit valuation for the city of Florence during the month of February was estimated at $12,500 this week by Carl Meyers, city building inspector.

Meyers, who submitted his monthly report to the city council last week, noted that 19 permits were issued for February with fees amounting to $117.50. Of the total permits issued, one was for a new home, four covered remodeling, one was obtained for the demolition of McCandless School, and the remaining 13 were for gas, plumbing, and electrical work.

At the end of the month, 22 contractors had been bonded and licensed by the city, Meyers explained.

During February, the city inspector made 22 inspections and took part in four zoning cases.

With the approach of spring, the city is anticipating a busy paving session and Meyers reported that all property owners on East Third Street between Florence Avenue and Gumaer have signed up for paving as soon as the city and county can arrange the project.

It was also noted that Carl Schmidt, Florence contractor who has developed the Schmidt subdivision, will pave East Second Street from Gumaer east to a dead end as soon as the weather permits.

Meyers is making a paving survey of residents and businessmen in the downtown area for paving alleyways from Santa Fe to Petroleum between Second and Front Streets, and on Front and Petroleum Streets.

LONDON — Although England's population is growing rapidly, the number of people in Cornwall is diminishing at a steady pace.

'Poverty Pockets' Will Get Most Federal Aid

DENVER (UPI) —Economically - depressed counties in southern Colorado and poverty pockets in Denver, Colorado Springs and Pueblo probably will get the most federal aid under President Johnson's war on poverty.

The State Department of Employment will handle Colorado's share of the program. The department said Friday it will not receive regulations on the new program until it passes Congress.

A spokesman for the department said the counties now classified as depressed probably would receive a large portion of the aid but that areas in the three major cities also would benefit.

The Area Redevelopment Agency said it has designated 11 counties as depressed areas —Montezuma, Archuleta, Conejos, Costilla, Las Animas, Alamosa, Huerfano, Fremont, Teller, Clear Creek and Gilpin.

The depressed area designation is given when a county's unemployment level rises above the national average of 6 per cent.

The federal spokesman said Alamosa and Gilpin counties would be dropped from the ARA program soon because Alamos unemployment has dropped below the national level and Gilpin County officials have failed to submit an over-all economic development plan.

Loss of the designation will mean the counties will not be eligible for government loans for commercial and industrial purposes, job retraining programs or technical assistance.

Four other counties are listed as depressed under the federal accelerated public works program. They are Dolores, Mineral, Pueblo and Crowley.

'64 CHEVROLET—THE GREAT HIGHWAY PERFORMER

Chevrolet Impala Convertible

Nothing feels steep in a Chevrolet Impala (including the price!)

A hill is just something to admire the view from when you're driving a '64 Chevrolet. With engines up to a 425-hp V8*, getting from one side to the other wouldn't be much easier if somebody had put a tunnel there.

And if Chevrolet can go over a whole mountain so you hardly feel it, you can imagine how it goes over plain old bumps. Jet-smooth, of course. We put a big coil spring at all four wheels (not to mention 700 or so sound and shock absorbers throughout the body and chassis) to soak them up just as fast as they come.

As you'd expect, Chevrolet turns in its usual fine performance with everything inside that big beautiful Body by Fisher, too. All kinds of stretch-out room and wide thick-cushioned seats that let you get in a full day's driving without fatigue. Yards of deep-twist carpeting and elegant fabric and vinyl upholstery that make you feel good just being there.

With all its looks and luxury, you can see how anyone might get the idea that this great highway performer is a high-priced car. Unless, of course, they happened to look first at its reasonable Chevrolet price.

And your Chevrolet dealer will be happy to show you that, wherever you drive, the price is probably what you'll feel least of all.

Air Ace Pays AFA Recent Weekend Visit

The first American to top Eddie Rickenbacker's World War I record of 26 aerial kills covered Air Force history from Thunderbolt to Thunderchief during a weekend visit to the Air Force Academy.

Bob Johnson, customer relations representative for Republic Aviation, Farmingdale, Long Island, N.Y., knocked down 28 German aircraft as a member of the Eight Air Force's 56th Fighter Group. The 56th flew the famed Republic P-47 Thunderbolt.

The firm is presently manufacturing F-105 Thunderchiefs for the Air Force.

Johnson addressed seven cadet history classes on the destruction of the Luftwaffe during World War II.

The Republic representative also presented models of the '105 to each of the 24 cadet squadrons. Models will be displayed in the Air Power rooms of each unit.

Johnson is also author of the book "Thunderbolt."

Two Sinatra Kidnapers Sentenced to Life Terms

before the court passes sentence?"

"No, sir," Keenan said softly, his face expressionless.

Then the judge said:

"I hereby commit you to the attorney general for imprisonment for the term of five years on count one, for the time of the natural life on count two, and for the time of 20 years on counts three, four and five, and 10 years on count six."

Then the jurist placed Keenan under the three-month psychiatric study.

Before the judge passed sentence, the defense attorneys conferred for about 10 minutes in the courtroom.

Attorney Morris Lavine, speaking for his client, Amsler, said he would present grounds for a new trial after Amsler was sentenced to life, plus 75 years, on all six counts.

Amsler got five years on count one—conspiracy to kidnap the victim across the California-Nevada line, imprisonment for his natural life on count two—the actual physical abduction by gunpoint and 20 years each on counts three, four and five — aiding and abetting Irwin in making three ransom demands by telephone to the elder Sinatra.

On count six, Amsler got 10 years for receiving, possessing and disposing of the ransom money.

The judge could have, under the law, added $35,000 in fines to the penalties for both Keenan and Amsler. But he didn't.

Irwin did not receive his sentence immediately. Mrs. Gladys Towles Root, his counsel, asked for a pre-sentence report which will take some five or six weeks to prepare.

Judge East agreed to the delay.

The judge recommended that Amsler, like Keenan, be sent to the Springfield Center for Psychiatric Study.

Irwin did not participate in the actual physical abduction of young Sinatra from his Lake Tahoe motel room last Dec. 8, but did make the telephone demands that Frank Sinatra Sr. pay $240,000 ransom for his son's safe return.

Jury deliberations took 6 hours and 53 minutes.

The first verdict — guilty on all six counts—was read to Keenan, who sat up rigid in his chair while his face reddened.

He showed no other emotions. His father, a stockbroker, was in the courtroom as a spectator. He dropped his head as the verdicts were read against his son.

Amsler, a handsome shellfish diver, took his guilty verdict stoically. He glanced sideways at Bette, his 20-year-old expectant wife.

The defense counsel asked that each juror be polled on each count, a lengthy process. Each of the three women and nine men answered, when asked individually if that was his verdict: "Yes, they are."

After the polling of the jury, Judge William G. East of Portland, Ore., congratulated the jurors thusly:

"Having heard your verdicts and having heard the same evidence that you did, I see that you have reached the same verdict that I did.

"I can't help but feel that you felt as I did when the hallmark of the defendants' case was struck by the witness Torrence, who, of his own free will, came back to change his testimony.

"He said the whole thing didn't seem real until he got into court and then he realized that everybody was lying to protect themselves and that he first thought that he would do the same thing."

Torrence is Dean Torrence, one-half the rock 'n' roll team of Jan (Berry) and Dean which has sold some three million records.

The verdicts ruled out the defense contention that the kidnaping was staged for publicity.

The government charged Amsler and Keenan with abducting young Sinatra on a Sunday evening, Dec. 8, from the motel at Harrah's Club.

Sinatra Jr., a singer whose voice and mannerisms are reminescent of his famed father's, was singing at the casino resort.

The government said Irwin made telephone calls to Sinatra Sr. demanding $240,000 ransom.

The elder Sinatra, following instructions, assembled the money in bills of $5 through $100 denominations. An FBI agent left the cash in a suitcase near a service station in west Los Angeles.

Frank Jr. then was released unharmed near the home of his mother in Bel Aire, a Los Angeles suburb, at 3:10 a.m. Dec. 11, three days after he vanished.

The suspects, arrested by the FBI Dec. 14, pleaded innocent.

The trial opened in U.S. District Court Feb. 10.

Sinatra Sr. told the jury of receiving telephone calls asking ransom.

His son emphatically denied on the witness stand that the kidnaping was a hoax.

Ruby Had Brain Damage, Defense Plans to Claim

Ruby had organic brain damage. We'll show you that he has a psychomotor variant of eplipsey. We'll show you actual brain wave tracings."

The defense maintains that Ruby was triggered into insanity temporarily by the shock of Kennedy's assassination, and that he was blacked out when he shot Oswald in the basement of the Dallas police headquarters during a routine jail transfer. Network television cameras were trained on the scene, and countless Americans saw the slaying.

As the Ruby trial neared weekend adjournment Friday, a jail break on the sixth floor of the courthouse spread confusion along crowded corridors outside Joe B. Brown's second-floor courtroom, where Ruby is on trial.

Two of seven jail breakers sought escape via the second floor. One of them was quickly captured. The second, Charles D. Gregory, 20, armed with a fake pistol fashioned from soap and a piece of rubber hose, terrorized persons outside the Ruby courtroom as he took a woman aide from another court as a hostage.

The gunman was captured outside the building and his woman hostage released unharmed.

Three Palmer Lake Robbers Caught After Wild Chase

ordered into the walk in cooler which was then barricaded with the butcher block and a bag of potatoes. McCall said the bandits then took more groceries and left.

Sheriffs officers said that the next incident occurred when the bandits lost control of their escape car and wrecked it at the railroad overpass near Monument.

At that point, officers said, a Sinton Milk truck driven by Kenneth Nighswonter, saw the wrecked car and stopped to offer help. He told officers that the three men told him that they "had a gun on him, and he would go where they wanted him to." Nighswonter said the hijackers then took $12 from him.

Nighswonter, who was enroute to Denver at the time of the incident, was told to head for Colorado Springs where he was told by the three men to drop them at the Cotton Club.

In the meantime, after Nighswonter let the men out, city police were notified and apprehanded the three suspects at a barber shop near the Cotton Club, where each had received a haircut, officers said.

City police turned the suspects over to the county authorities at 11:35 a.m. time lapse, three hours, five minutes.

Business Leaders Expected to Attend JA Meet

More than 70 Colorado Springs business, civic and industrial leaders are expected to attend the kick-off meeting of the 1964 Junior Achievement campaign for JA funds Wednesday, 5:30 p.m. at the Antlers Hotel, it was announced by George Vradenburg, drive chairman.

In announcing a $17,500 goal for J.A. program funds, Vradenburg said that funds raised though this drive will provide for the administration, operation and development of the J.A. program of economic education.

Vradenburg stated that, contrary to beliefs of many persons unfamiliar with the program, Junior Achievement of Colorado Springs, Inc. — a nonprofit educational membership corporation chartered with the state of Colorado—is not allowed by law, due to its nonprofit status, to use monies earned by its miniaturet teenage companies for corporate expense.

The announcement also stated that any profits made by the J. A. companies are retained by the companies and expenditures to the parent organization for rents, program supplies, profits tax, etc. are placed in reserve for the benefit of the teen-age members in the form of cash scholarships and payments toward achiever conference costs.

The Junior Achievement program in Colorado Springs has grown from two companies operated in 1964 to 17 companies operated in the city this year.

The Nation's Weather

(Report furnished by U.S. Weather Bureau Station at Peterson Field)

Rapid warming occurred over the upper Midwest Saturday, at Bemidai in North Central Minnesota the temperature rose nearly 40 degrees during the day from the overnight low.

In the east, temperatures reached above seasonal normals to produce pleasant conditions. At Syracuse, N.Y., a new record was set as the mercury climbed to 62 degrees, 4 degrees above the old 1946 record.

Across the South and into the Northwest, widespread and mostly light precipitation fell Saturday. Imperial in the Southern California desert reported two-thirds of an inch of rain Saturday.

Far to the east, in a shower area in the lower Mississippi Valley the largest amount reported was ½ inch. Early Saturday evening South Texas and Southern Florida were still reporting temperatures in the 80's.

In northern Montana at the same time some temperatures were still in the teens.

Peak Region Turns Into Wonderland

der normal conditions, the heavy fall should have yielded more than an inch of moisture. But because of its dry content, the weathermen reported only .56 inches of needed moisture.

This .56 inches added to the .22 inches recorded in February brings the amount up to a total of .78 inches thus far this 1964.

"We're getting close to normal, though," the weathermen said, with the reminder that as spring and summer approach, the region can expect more snow and its seasonal rains.

The snow was expected to decrease by late afternoon Saturday, becoming light during the night, and returning to its intermittent gait today.

The three-day snowfall was the best news to visit the region, from a water content standpoint, since the one that fell almost a year ago.

On March 11 through the 13th, weathermen recorded .50 inches of moisture. This was a much wetter snow than the present one, although snow accumulation was only tallied at four inches.

Meanwhile, on the other side of the mountain, Sheriff Rufus Jones in Cripple Creek reported only three or four inches of snow had fallen on the district by noon Saturday.

"You need it down there," the sheriff said neighborly, "but we need it up here too."

The same song was repeated by the caretaker up at the Northfield Plant, northwest of Colorado Springs, who said that area only received about half as much snow as was recorded down here.

"It's windy and disagreeable," the caretaker said, adding that he thought Springs residents were "living right."

The caretaker at the Crystal Creek reservoir in Cascade said about an inch or so of snow had fallen there. "Keep it coming down there," he advised, "and then you won't have to draw water from here."

Meanwhile, back to the shovels.

Sea Elephants To Be Studied In Heart Project

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Some distinguished Mexican scientists have been invited to collaborate in a unique project which will be the forerunner of a floating scientific laboratory with a worldwide cruising range.

Dr. P. F. Scholander, professor of physiology at the University of California at San Diego, and an official of the Scripps Oceanographic Institute, visited Mexico to enlist the cooperation and participation of scientists in two investigations which will be conducted in Mexican waters.

One of the projects is a cardiovascular study to be conducted among the diving sea elephants in the vicinity of Guadalupe Island. "I am especially hopeful," said Scholander, "of finding a cardiovascular specialist at the famous cardiovascular institute in this city who would be interested in investigating the unique asphyxial defense mechanisms of this sea mammal."

He said the survey could have significant applications for the study of the human heart system.

Another investigation, to be conducted off La Paz, Baja California, will seek to unravel the mystery of the process by which the mangrove tree, which grows in shallow sea water, converts brine into fresh water in its root system. The tree gives off a salt solution through its leaves. This study is expected to shed light on human kidney functions.

These two investigations will serve as pilot projects for continuing research aboard a specially equipped vessel capable of sailing anywhere in the world. The "Caprice" will soon go under construction in the United States.

Scholander said the "Caprice" will differ from other scientific ships in that its research will not be limited to investigation of marine life. Each project will have a duration of one to three months, and participating scientists will be transported to the "Caprice" by air to save time.

The project has a grant from the National Science Foundation, and investigations to be undertaken will be selected by a panel of top U.S. scientists. Research projects will be planned together with scientists in the countries where projects will be conducted.

Scholander said he hoped the participation of Mexican scientists would be the first step in expanded collaboration "with colleagues in many other Latin American countries." Two studies in the Amazon River are under consideration, an investigation of its electrical fishes and the echo-location phenomenon of its dolphins, he said.

A study of Antarctic animals in the Palmer Peninsula region will be undertaken in cooperation with polar scientists of Chile and Argentina, Scholander said.

CAPITOL STUFF

By TED LEWIS

WASHINGTON — Gov. Rockefeller's full-blown attack here Tuesday on the Johnson Administration's foreign policy serves as a reminder that this year's Presidential campaign is developing normally.

On the issue of foreign policy, first the incumbent President speaks out. He allows as how politics should stop at the water's edge, that it is a desservice to make foreign policy a partisan issue.

Then comes the retort that it would be a disservice to the nation not to make it a partisan issue.

It would be a relief if, just for once, this pattern of injecting our foreign affairs into the political arena had a new design. But, as President Johnson has insisted on following the same old format, he has now, as expected, drawn sharp fire from Rockefeller in a statement challenging the Administration's handling of global affairs everywhere.

It has to be admitted that Johnson almost invited Republicans to make foreign policy an issue by overdoing his appeal for the GOP to rise above politics.

In his Feb. 11 speech before federal tax agents, the President hit out at "alarmists" and "people who find it quite impossible to be affirmative and constructive." He pointed out that when he was Senate majority leader and Ike in the White House, he, Johnson, never "aligned myself with any enemies of the United States in criticizing him."

Nevertheless, as he well knew, foreign policy issues have figured strongly in every Presidential campaign, beginning in 1940, and will similarly figure in this one.

Because this is so, Rockefeller didn't even find it necessary to make any kind of apology for berating today the Administration's "vacillating and contradictory" handling of foreign affairs. In accordance with the usual ritual for political procedure, he simply said he spoke out strongly in criticism because of "very deep concern" — and that he had found similar concern "among the people."

WASHINGTON WAS BETTER SOUNDING BOARD

And as he has very slick and well-paid handlers, Washington was chosen for the so-called "important statement" on foreign policy. Obviously, it was a statement that needed a better sounding board for national transmittal than could be found in New Hampshire.

Just as the time-worn ritual was followed in developing the partisan phase of the foreign policy issue so, too, has this year's Presidential campaign unfolded with the same old mumbo-jumbo of all past national elections.

Some day, probably, the people will demand a change of pace, a new show, a more up-to-date space age format. But it is too much to hope for this year.

As the Presidential incumbent Johnson will strain to rise above petty politics or, as he put it a month ago, campaign on issues and refrain from "mudslinging and petty politics."

He will take what is called "the high road" and leave the personality slurs to lower-lever Democrats.

This is the expected stance of all Presidents seeking victory in an election year. They must exude dignity, tolerance, and stress national unity.

HIS OPPONENTS ARE PRISONERS OF RITUAL

His opponents, particularly those Republicans like Rockefeller striving for a White House try, have shown already that they are pretty much prisoners of the "out party" ritual.

This showed up first when they "reluctantly" became candidates, only entering the race in response to widespread support.

When the time came to attack the incumbent Administration on any issue, they — Rocky, Goldwater, etc. — similarly made it clear that they were making only "constructive criticism."

What is now happening in New Hampshire is a microscopic example of what the nation is going to be in all the other primary contests before the July Republican convention. The ritual is being adhered to flawlessly. It goes like this:

1. When at all possible, be sure to have the missus campaign with you. Otherwise, there will be whispered questions about how you are getting along at home.

2. Accuse all your opponents in the same party of everything but mayhem, of refusing to debate the "real issues" and of talking "down to the people."

3. Establish yourself as the definite underdog. This is vital. It is the only out available if you turn up with 35 per cent of the primary vote. Otherwise it will be difficult to carry on your "fight for party principles."

4. Charge your opponent is spending millions to win, but if you have the mazooma, try to spend more on the QT.

PART OF RITUAL THAT'S REQUIRED

5. Try your best to wage a serious campaign. This allows you (as Goldwater did yesterday concerning Rockefeller) to charge that your opponent is trying to win votes by kissing babies, eating hot dogs or "buying votes with a smile."

Those five points are, of course, only part of the ritual. When the party conventions are held, there will be more of the dim-witted traditional routine.

One requirement at the convention is for a staged fight over the party platform, involving what "great principles" the party should stand for.

Another is the tedious ritual of boring nomination speeches for Presidential aspirant — the "man who" baloney which blows up a favorite son from a two bit state into a statesman capable of winning a kitchen debate with Nikita.

This could go on and on, for the ritual is exact right up until the election returns are in. What happened today with Rockefeller going all-out on the foreign policy issue was just one of the required parts of the ritual. Johnson dared Rockefeller and others to make it an issue, knowing all the time the Republicans would, because the ritual so prescribed.

Federal Tax Tips

Taxpayers may use the simple card Form 1040A in filing their Federal income tax return, if their incomes are less than $10,000 and include not more than $200 total of dividends, interest, and other wages not subject to withholding.

Taxpayers can elect one of two ways of taking deductions itemize them, or use the standard deduction.

A husband filing a separate return for 1963 cannot claim his wife's $600 exemption if she had income, was the dependent of another, or if she filed a separate return.

Every taxpayer is entitled to use his own personal exemption of $600 in filing his return.

Did you get compensation for sickness or disability in 1963? Special rules apply to amounts received as compensation for sickness or disability. Often, the payments may be exempt or partly exempt from income tax. In claiming sick pay use Form 2440.

If you are an employee and have to incur business expenses in performing your regular work, the amount may be deductible on your return. A taxpayer deducting employee business expenses should under stand the special rules covering these deductions.

CU Extension To Retell Region Rock Story

Understanding the story told by the rocks and minerals, expecially of the Pikes Peak region, is the purpose of a Geology class offered by the C. U. Extension Center this spring.

The class, entitled "Geology of the Pikes Peak Region," will be taught by Dr. Trowbridge Grose, Associate Proffessor of Geology at Colorado College. The course covers a practical approach to the recognition of rocks and minerals and includes a study of major geologic formations, structures, topography and mineral deposits.

The class will meet for 10 weeks on Wednesdays from 8:20 to 10:30 P.M. beginning Saturday and ending May 13.

Registration for the course must be completed at the C.U. Extension offices, 1105 N. Nevada, Ave. prior to the first class meeting.

Travel Guide Gives Broadmoor High Rating

The New York publishing company of Simon Schuster announced this week that the Mobil Travel Guide has again awarded the Broadmoor their highest rating of "five stars."

This award indicates that The Broadmoor is considered "one of the best in the country," and in the entire United States only nine hotels have received this coveted accolade.

Mobile Travel Guides for 1964 describe 3,425 towns and cities, rate 16,661 accommodations and restaurants and describe about 7,900 things to see and do. All this information is compiled by field representatives, Regional and Special Consultants and a National Committee of Consultants: Clementine Paddleford, food writer and restaurant reporter, New York Herald Tribune; Ted Patrick, editor and publisher of Holiday; and Silas Spitzer, nationally known food expert.

A Mobil Guide inspector arrives at an establishment unannounced, and then tours the hotel examining the facilities offered to guests. Quality of facilities, services, and extras offered the guest are prime factors in determining the ratings. He identifies himself only after paying his bill.

The idea for the Mobile Travel Guide originated more than 20 years ago when M. Lincoln Schuster, president and editor-in-chief of Simon and Schuster, was traveling through France using the incomparable Guide Michelin.

The cost of research was so great that the project was postponed until seven years ago when Simon & Schuster joined forces with the Socony Mobil Oil company, who were willing to underwrite the costly and continual research necessary to insure accurate and impartial editorial content for this series of Guides, published annually.

Opitz on Rights and Rationalism

The question of human rights is before us again.

Indeed, there may be no more important question in our time.

In an effort to dispose of some of the thorny problems attendant upon any effort to define just what is meant by "human rights," Edmund A. Opitz of the Foundation for Economic Education has penned a white paper he terms: "Some Reflections on Men and Their Rights." Presumably copies can be obtained from the organization.

In actual fact, although Mr. Opitz starts out to discuss rights, he makes it clear in his second paragraph that what he really wants to do is to attack what he calls the "cult of Rationalism." To this supposed cult he attributes some of the "ambiguities and inconsistencies" which he finds in current discussions on the subject of human rights.

He links rationalism to Descarte, quotes him as contending that by the use of the mind alone all knowledge can ultimately be obtained, and then offers: "Rationalism tends to disparage the actual, the observed, the historical, the concrete, the particular, the individual; it is more at home with the abstract, the general, the theoretical, the elegant."

This he says is the method of the scientist whereas empiricism he sees as the method of the mathematician.

So far so good, altho this has little to do with the subject of human rights. But then, Mr. Opitz cites Dr. von Mises, whose epistemological studies are the quintessence of rationalistic orientation, and seeks to use Mises at his most rationalistic, to dispose of rationalism.

The effect is a trifle strained. And it avoids coming to grips with the issue of human rights, which really is important.

But Mr. Opitz is stimulating, and we would prefer a head-on discussion of rights rather than a circular approach thru any particular school of philosophy or theology. Obviously, rationalism has its weaknesses. So does every other philosophy or school of thought.

Human rights relate invariably to things that men may "rightfully" do. Thus, human rights relate to human action, for what men do on purpose is clearly the by-product of acting man.

The concept of rights, never so nobly advanced as in our own Declaration of Independence, clearly sets down the proposition that there are certain things men may rightfully do. The Declaration makes no effort to catalogue all such rightful actions. It merely stresses four of them: 1. The right to life. 2. The right to liberty. 3. The right to pursue happiness. 4. The right to alter or abolish government.

What is obviously meant is that men MAY do these things rightfully. It does not imply that any means to be adopted in pursuit of these ends would have to be rightful in themselves. It merely posits the case for rightness in these areas. Men MAY live rightfully. It is obvious that some men choose to live wrongfully, but this does not make all living wrongful. It is possible for a man to live rightfully. That is, he has a RIGHT to rightful life.

Similarly, a man may rightfully have liberty. Clearly, it is possible for a man to obtain liberty in a wrongful fashion, viz: he can enslave another, thus assuring his own liberty. The Declaration states that man has a right to liberty, hence a right to rightful liberty. Likewise, he has a right to pursue happiness and he has a right to alter or abolish government.

He may do none of these things in a wrongful fashion. But the things in themselves are not wrong.

All that is intended by this utterance is to introduce the concept that men may rightfully live, they may rightfully be free, they may rightfully pursue happiness, they may rightfully alter or abolish their government.

So Sad

The saddest words of tongue or pen are these, in 1964: "What I could have done with that money the government took away in taxes!"

Non-Delegated Rights

The value of the concept of human rights is that it provides a moral base for the development of proper conduct between men. There are, says the Declaration of Independence, certain human actions which, in themselves, are not wrong. Among these are life, liberty, the pursuit of happiness and the alteration or abolition of their governments.

By applying this concept to individuals we may proceed a further step.

Obviously, if such a thing as a right (rightful action) exists, it must relate to individuals for only individuals act. On this point, Mr. Opitz is quite clear and correct as we see it. He states that he wishes to challenge the concept that rights can be delegated. We join him in his challenge. We do not think that rights can be rightfully delegated.

We will grant, however, that a man not understanding this, may act as though he is granting his rights to another. Our contention is that he may not rightfully do this, for his rights are unalienable.

Equally clear is the fact that if rights are examined as individual attributes, then all men have them equally. And it follows that rightful conduct in any and all cases, must be conduct limited to the place where it does not impose in any way upon the rights (rightful actions) of any other or others.

Thus, though Man A has a rightful opportunity to live, he may not exercise this right by denying an equal and identical right to Man B.

Up to this point, saving for his excursions into rationalism and opposing theories, we are in general agreement with Mr. Opitz. Then, suddenly, he offers the observation that each man has a right to defend his own life and his own property, but, since he cannot delegate his rights, he cannot hire another to protect his life or his property. He views this as a violation of rights.

What he fails to see is that in the hiring of Man B as a defensive agent for Man A, no one's rights are violated at all. The right of each man to defend himself has not even been challenged at this point. Man A has simply adopted the means of hiring Man B for the purpose of his own defense. Assuming that Man B is not coerced to take the job and assuming further that Man B coerces no one in the process, then no rights are violated. Both men have at all times their full rights to defend themselves, even from the other, should it prove necessary.

In contrast, however, if Man A hires the government to defend him, then he has acted as though he delegated his rights and a wrong ensues. For the characteristic of government is that it obtains, with its hiring, the POWER to tax others to pay for whatever amount or kind of defense IT decides upon.

This distinction, Mr. Opitz glides over swiftly by assuming that the hiring of a non-coercive agent and the hiring of a coercive agent are equally invalid. The difference is between a peaceful market place exchange on the one hand, and a grant of power to commit violence on the other.

It is the difference between rightful and wrongful conduct. In the first instance, no one is, or need be, coerced. In the second instance, many are and must be coerced.

Thus, relying on Mr. Optiz' assertion that rights may not be delegated or abridged, each man has a right to defend himself and to adopt any rightful method he chooses to employ in this defense. However, the may not adopt a wrongful method. So he is wrongfully acting when he employs an agent and grants that agent the power to coerce others on his own behalf, for such is a violation of the rights of others and an improper delegation.

We believe that discussions in the area of rights are helpful and we hope Mr. Optiz will continue to explore this area.

Moonlighting Shows Jobs Are Available

By OSCAR COOLEY
Associate Professor of Economics
Ohio Northern University

Those who claim the unemployed are eager to find work but simply cannot find jobs should note the extent of "moonlighting," that is, the holding by the individual worker of more than one job. The U.S. Department of Labor estimates that as of last May 3,921,000 workers, or 5.7 per cent of the labor force, were moonlighting. Some say there is actually far more than this.

If nearly four million people are able to get two jobs, why is it that other millions are not able to get even one job?

In answer, it is said the moonlighter has abilities which are in demand. They are in such demand that he is able to sell two packages instead of one.

But how did he come by those abilities? Was he born with certain talents? So is everyone. Undoubtedly he developed these talents; he educated himself. So can anyone. What he is doing anyone can do.

The moonlighter is not an extraordinary person. He is found in many walks of life. He may be a technician by day who teaches math in evening school, or a mill maintenance man by day who repairs appliances at night, or a truck driver who doubles as a dance-band player, or a city fireman who works in a supermarket on week-ends.

Nor is the moonlighter privileged. Society has not tapped him on the shoulder and conferred a special benefit on him.

As a matter of fact, society obstructs the moonlighter and bids fair to do so increasingly. Moonlighting is decried by government officials, labor leaders, and editors, who imply it is unethical if not immoral. "One job is enough for any man," Elwood Moffett, United Mine Workers official, is quoted as saying, "especially with as many unemployed as there are today."

Some unions are writing into their contracts that the employer shall not hire people who already have other jobs. Any time now we may expect laws to be passed outlawing the moonlighter.

In spite of this opposition, the two-job holder will continue to be with us, for the fact is that the wages a man can earn are limited by the amount he produces, and if the job is such that he cannot produce as much as he wants and is able to earn, either because the work-day is so short or for other reasons, he will look for additional employment elsewhere.

The worker has nothing to sell but his ability and energy. If one employer does not buy all that ability and energy, the worker will sell the remainder to another. Not to do so would be to waste his principal asset.

Moonlighting is simply working. If moonlighting is wrong, so is working. Society should be thankful for moonlighting, not oppose it.

Much of the moonlighting has sprung up as a result of the limitation of the work-week by federal law to 40 hours. Union contracts often limit it still more. This is done on the fallacious theory that there is only a certain, limited amount of work in the world to be done and that therefore it must be rationed or apportioned out to the workers, the way scarce drinking water would be rationed out to shipwrecked mariners adrift on a raft.

Of course this is not true. There is an unlimited, indeed infinite, amount of work to be done, calling for the maximum strength and ability of all the workers. The moonlighter demonstrates this fact by going out and getting a second job, when, according to the theory, there is not even a first job for many.

The sad part about this fallacy, which has been sold to millions of people as gospel truth, is that when a worker's hours are limited, as they are by the federal wage-hour act, his wages also are thereby limited, for in a 40-hour week he cannot produce as much as in a 48-hour week, and his wages cannot exceed the value of the wealth he produces.

Let us be thankful that some four million Americans have the spunk and the skill to go out and get a second job. Far from being annoyed by it, the unemployed should be inspired, for it is a living demonstration that there are jobs to be had. It is heartening proof that there is gold in them thar hills if men will go out and dig for it.

These Days

The 'Expertise'

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Roger Hilsman, the man who inadvertently gave President de Gaulle the opening to extend French recognition to Red China, has resigned his position of assistant secretary of state for far eastern affairs to go into university teaching, and the change raises several points about the flow of so-called expertise backward and forward between government and the educational world.

In one sense, Hilsman is a sacrifice to the need for a new wigwag in the semaphore code which the administration must necessarily use to show that we disapprove of de Gaulle and do not mean to be pushed out of South Viet Nam. Hilsman, in a couple of speeches, had virtually promised a neutralization policy in Asia. He made the implied promise contingent upon "good behavior" on the part of Red China. While this forecast no immediate shift in U.S. Far Eastern policy, it was enough to give de Gaulle the idea that we were tired of the struggle against the Communists in South Viet Nam and Laos.

Despite the exchange of complimentary references between Hilsman and President Johnson that accompanied the resignation, the inference is obvious; LBJ had to stop the neutralization talk about South Viet Nam lest the anti-Communist front collapse in Saigon. But Roger Hilsman certainly never made policy in the State Department by himself. Even as Hilsman was getting ready to go, the head of the department, Dean Rusk, was making a speech to the International Union of Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers which, for its obliviousness to both the theory and history of Marxist behavior, surpassed anything that Hilsman had ever put forward.

ELABORATE

Rusk, in an effort to justify the catastrophe of the wheat deal with Soviet Russia which pulled the plug on our efforts to isolate Fidel Castro's Cuba, made elaborate distinctions between friendly and unfriendly Marxist nations. But even as Rusk was talking, Cubans in Florida were presenting more and more evidence to the FBI that the Russians were continuing to arm Fidel Castro. With Nikita backing Fidel, the Rusk distinction between friendly and unfriendly Marxists must seem incredibly innocent to anybody with a diplomatic IQ of, let us say, 105. Criminal law, it might be observed, considers that the man who knowingly hands a loaded weapon to a ruffian bent on depredations is an accessory before the fact of law-breaking. The state of Massachusetts executed Bartolomeo Vanzetti for behaving as Khrushchev behaves now.

All of which brings us around to the university expertise that is fed into the State Department and which, in turn, goes back to college campuses. For years it was Owen Lattimore and his clique of mis-named "Far Eastern experts" who dominated the academic view of Marxism in Oriental dress. The Lattimore guff about Mao Tse-tung's "Jeffersonian agrarianism" was eventually discredited by events. But the "soft" view of Marxism has continued to hold academic sway in subtler terms.

SOFT

The Walt Rostow idea that a Marxist country must prove amenable once it has reached a "take-off" place in economic development is merely a sophisticated version of British Prime minister Sir Alec Douglas Home's unfortunate theory that "fat" Communists will stop conniving to overturn the world. Rostow, now a State Department planner, worked up his theory as an academic exercise while holding a university post. He may be learning now that all Communists are dangerous. But whether this insight, if it is ever gained, will be transmitted back to M.I.T. or Harvard is a question. Roger Hilsman, presumably, is taking the "soft" theory of communism to academe — and American boys and girls are not likely to be the gainers for it.

The ironical thing is that in spite of an "establishment" we have a minority of professors on our campuses who have made profound studies of Marxist-Leninist history. This minority is seldom listened to in Washington. I think of sixty-year-old Professor Sidney Hook of New York University, for instance. If Princeton's academic adviser to the White House, Professor Eric Goldman, were on the ball, he would have Professor Hook ensconced in the State Department tomorrow. Hook has proposed a freedom academy to instruct prospective diplomats in the wiles and snares of Communist dialectics and in measures needed to counter them. But it is doubtful that anyone has ever mentioned Sidney Hook to LBJ.

Question Box

Question No. 458: "Why do so many act as if they believed that we could have more by producing less?"

Answer: The only thing that we can think of is that man is the most imitative of all animals. And when labor unions strike and greatly reduce production, contending that they can improve the well being of mankind by producing less and they repeat the statement so often and have so much money to propagandize and get laws passed to give them special privileges, many people believe they know what they are talking about.

In other words the masses are followers and believe that by paying the farmers for not producing, and having the government interfere with the free and natural division of labor, and having protective tariffs and immigration restrictions that do not use the talents of all the people in the world to the best advantage, they begin to believe we can have more by having less.

There are too many people who think that peaceful creative competition is bad.

Competition in destroying wealth is always wrong and that is what labor unions do and that is what the government invariably does by taxation, by paying farmers for not producing, by subsidizing this and that, by having protective tariffs and immigration restrictions etc.

Then, again, how can you expect the individual to think and reason when he is grabbed in his formative period of life and turned over to the state to collectivize him and indoctrinate him to believe that he gets his rights from the state rather than from God or nature?

When the leading pseudo-intellectuals at the head of the colleges and schools will not attempt to defend tax-supported schools for $1,000 and people believe that they are really educators, it is natural for them to believe that they know what they are doing because they judge, largely, by the amount of people who believe a thing.

Truly, what we believe is what we are and when they believe that competition in creating wealth is bad, they naturally believe that we can have more by producing less.

Questions are limited to general human relations questions that will improve the well-being of all mankind on this earth.

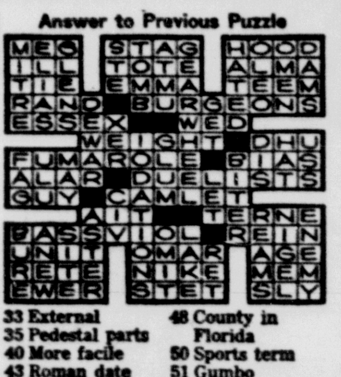
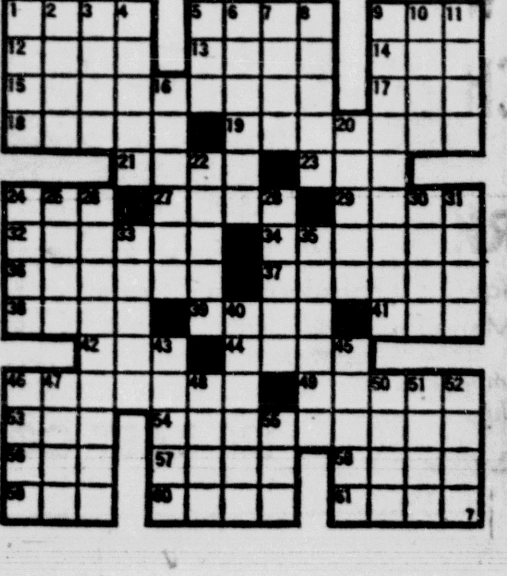
Answer to Previous Puzzle





To The Point

The Need for Roots

By RUSSELL KIRK

Perhaps the worst thing about modern society is that many people no longer have roots. Perhaps they live in apartments; or, if they own a house, it may be a new thing just like hundreds of its neighbors, quickly built, quickly bought, quickly sold again. Perhaps they have moved from state to state, and region to region, so as to have lost any sense of true community. Perhaps "family," for them, means only spouse and children — with no sense of belonging to a line of inheritance.

Children instinctively seek to send down roots. They sense that we all need to belong to some "little platoon," to have some spot that really is home. My own little nephews — who have lived successively in Michigan, New York, Tennessee, Delaware, and Iran — sufficiently illustrate my thesis. In Iran, ill at ease in a civilization a world away from their heritage, they long to be reunited to place and family, permanently, in America.

On his last trip to Michigan, my youngest nephew — Gerald, eight years old — was eager to look over our family properties in Plymouth and Mecosta. To him, rightly, whatever belonged to any member of our clan was "ours." He wanted to know the precise boundaries of the plots we own. At Mecosta, he had himself taken to the old house on the edge of the village, with its five acres round it; to my library, down the street; to the forty acres of woodlot, nearly a mile distant; to our cottage, among its pines, on Lake Mecosta. "My, Uncle," he said, much satisfied, "we have a lot of land."

Little Gerald has been taught to think in terms of family, and always says "our," not "mine," when anything big is in question. In this he is like the great landed proprietors of Britain, who still say, "That farm used to be ours" — meaning, perhaps, that their family possessed it four centuries ago. These poor Michigan acres of ours signify as much to Gerald as the Duke of Norfolk's lands mean to the premier nobleman of England; for five generations of Gerald's family have held them. And the brick barn that is this writer's library seems to Gerald, I take it, a symbol of permanence in an age of change.

The barbarians of the future, says Mr. T. S. Eliot, may camp in their mechanized carabans upon the ruins of our ancient edifices. If so, life scarely will be worth living. The Bedouin have the continuity of tribe and family at least; but rootless man of the twentieth century is only an atom in space and time.

As the economic realm becomes more centralized and impersonal, too, men's roots are destroyed. Owning stocks and bonds cannot possibly convey the sense of security and of place in a community that comes from ownership of even a little cottage, or the proprietorship of a family shop. Why fear exile? asked the old Stoic philosophers. Every city is alike to the lover of virtue and wisdom, they argued. Yet their argument rang hollow to them — as it does to me.

To 'Get Away From It All'

By GEORGE BOARDMAN, PhD

We have lived in this little ghost town for a little more than three years and the most important thing I've learned is that most of the ideas I had before we moved up here from Southern California are wrong. During the months we were engaged in trying to sell out and moving, a lot of people suggested many ideas to me but the most frequently repeated idea was that we should try to prepare a spot to which others might travel in order to spend a few days in peace and quiet, from time to time. From a conversational point of view, they wanted a place which would be away from the regular run of tourist traps and from which they could wander around, take it easy and relieve the strain from which too many big city dwellers suffer.

In 1960, when we arrived here there were no accommodations for overnight visitors closer than 25 miles and no restaurant in Chloride. We had a few visitors and they usually bemoaned the lack of a motel and eating place, while sitting around talking about how they'd like to come up here and spend a few days, just taking it easy. Two or three people actually bought small parcels of land about 20 miles from here and talked about how happy they would be IF they could spend a few days picking up rocks and playing around with clearing their property, knowing they could spend the nights up here. It sounded quite exciting even to a man who had spent too much time listening to political actionists wishing for the moon.

In 1961 we obtained a lease on this property and began the task of trying to rebuild old and delapidated apartments into a very small but clean motel complete with indoor plumbing and hot and cold running water, and the water situation presented us with many problems. About 15 months later, the job was completed and we wondered how we could accommodate all of our imaginative acquaintances with only four rental units and one small apartment for people who might even want to do their own cooking. Seven months later we noted we had taken in a total of just $200.

This is not intended to be critical. Our experiences during almost ten years of involvement in political action efforts provided us with a realistic point of view which saved us from disappointment. We had learned a great deal about conversationalists and imaginative flights of fancy, interspersed with a great many IFS.

The point I wish to make is that a great many people pretend they are not afraid of freedom. A great many like to think about how nice it would be if they could just get away from the almost intolerable malicious vibrations which plague them in large cities. If they could be suddenly transported to a quiet and desolate area, they would immediately be scared stiff of their own thoughts, if any, and we've seen that happen, also. Watching wishful thinkers in action can be very tiresome.

There were others who were quite specific: Oh boy, I wish there was a place so a feller could spend a few nights up here and maybe wander around and find a place he could stake out a claim. If I could do that, I could spend a few week ends working on the claim, but gosh, if you have to drive 40 or 50 miles a day to and from a motel it wouldn't be so good. I had the same idea and did something about staking out a claim and made a round trip of about 120 miles to do it so I thought I knew how these people felt. About a year ago I talked with a man who was not feeling up to doing the necessary assessment work on several claims and he wanted to sell a couple of them. I wrote to the people who had expressed so much interest because the available claims were just about three miles from Chloride and the price was reasonable. Nothing happened.

About that time I decided I was acquainted with too many people who loved to listen to themselves beller ache and I use the word beller because they usually do it in a loud and plaintive voice. This is to suggest to you that a great many people deserve exactly what they are getting or worse. They beller ache and holler and complain but if they have a chance to do something about their complaints, they quit cold, from head to toe.

Good luck and good health to you, in Freedom.

FRILSH

To the Editor:

At first glance you may not recognize the word frilsh or find it in your dictionary. That is not necessary; for words are only symbols to convey a meaningful expression according to their sound. When man first started to distinguish by name different objects seen around him, he named each according to its distinctive nature. A huge bulk animal roaming in the fields was called elephant, which conveyed the idea of this particular animal. Plants likewise were designated. Either by a deep insight or by actual experience a certain dark green grass was called alfalfa, meaning "father of all foods," because it was a complete food for both man and animal. Although many dialects have sprouted out of the first universal language, alfalfa has remained the same word from its origin.

Today, we have a newly created word inadvertently brought into being on a radio program. Its creators are still searching for an appropriate meaning. With an insight into the ways of mankind since human beings decided to disobey the laws and word of their Creator, what meaning does frilsh have to you according to its sound? It appears to be an appropriate expression for all the drugs, would-be foods and other deceptions which mankind adopts. The God of creation causes food to spring forth out of the earth and to form in the sea, but man in his self-conceived wisdom decides differently. Adequate food in his environment is ignored or changed to make substitutes to appeal to his vanity. Rather than to nourish his body for health and to resist disease with the proper food, he mixes drugs with deceptive hopes to keep himself alive.

Man is born to live in freedom as guided by the laws and promises of God. Then he disobeys his Creator to form his own laws, thereby thinking to gain wealth and power for himself. He wants to be free but enslaves himself with immoral and irreligious dictatorships. He forgets that strength and wisdom to live as a responsible free personality comes from an inspiration received from the Word of his Creator and in living in conformity to His laws of health and growth. The following slightly revised quotation of mine published twenty some years ago is worth repeating. "That man is free who receives nourishment from God's garden; whose pleasure is His created wonders; whose friendship has its source in the love of God and whose faith comes from His inspired and recorded word."

DOCKING IN SPACE—Artist's concept of rendezvous of the Gemini spacecraft and the Agena vehicle. They latch together as a result of visual observation by the Gemini astronauts.

CHECKING COCKPIT — Astronaut Walter M. Schirra is briefed on details of the Visual Docking Simulator by Byron M. Jacquet, Aerospace Technologist of NASA's Langley Research Center, Hapton, Va. When cover panel is in place it limits field of vision to size of actual Gemini window.

Astronauts Make Dry Runs For Gemini Preparation

Inside a 20-foot spherical dome at Langley Research Center, two National Aeronautics and Space Administration engineering pilots who are also research scientists are seated within a full-sized replica of the Gemini spacecraft.

They are beginning one of many NASA simulator studies in support of the nation's next manned space flight program.

Thru two small cockpit windows, the dark painted interior of the dome resembles the blackness of space, relieved only by tiny pinpricks of light from a star projector.

One small dot of light grows larger and still larger until it can clearly be seen as the Agena, an upper stage maneuverable vehicle, with which they plan to rendezvous and dock.

Careful control motions nudge the Gemini on a course to intercept the Agena, and even tho their simulated spacecraft doesn't move, the projected image of the target vehicle appears to lessen the distance between the two craft.

Finally, the Agena seems to loom up to its full size and the experiment ends with an accurate, gentle docking maneuver.

This is how NASA research scientists, with the help of an analog computer and an ingenious television system incorporating a two-axis mirror, are evaluating the visual ability of men to rendezvous and dock in space, one of the major objectives of project Gemini.

As the pilots move the spacecraft controls, the computer translates their actions into motions of a miniature Agena, which is constantly being watched by a television camera.

An image of what the camera sees is projected on the inside of the large, black dome, with a starry background for visual reference, and the pilots find it is a realistic simulation of flight in orbit.

The experimental device, called a Visual Docking Simulator, is one of many similar techniques used by scientists of the Langley Research Center in their constant search for more effective ways to aid man in his efforts to master space.

Delattre Will Lecture to CU Undergraduates

Prof. Pierrce C. Delattre has been selected to give the second Karl F. Muenzinger Research Lecture for Undergraduates at the University of Colorado.

Delattre, a member of the CU French department since 1953, will speak at 3 p.m. Wednesday, March 18, in the University Memorial Center Ballroom on "The Nature of Speech: The Life of a Researcher." An informal reception will be held there afterwards. Both the lecture and the reception are free and public.

The lecture has been established by the CU Graduate School to give undergraduates, especially freshmen, an insight into the workings of research and scholarship, according to Prof. Jeremiah M. Allen, acting assistant dean of the Graduate School.

The lecture is named in honor of the late Prof. Karl F. Muenzinger, a member of the psychology department from 1924 to 1953. He died in 1958.

Delattre has gained reknown with his research into the sound difference among various languages. His work has been carried out during the last five years under about $300,000 in National Defense Education Act grants.

Delattre is a native of France and has two degrees from the University of Paris, as well as a doctorate from Michigan.

U.S. Attitude Not Changed by JFK's Assassination

CHICAGO (AP)—The assassination of President John F. Kennedy—although a profound emotional shock to the American people—has not materially changed the basic attitudes and beliefs of Americans, a public opinion survey says.

The survey by the University of Chicago's National Opinion Research Center was made of 1,384 persons a week after the President was fatally shot in Dallas Nov. 22. In its report, the research center said the 1,384 persons were selected to represent a national sampling.

Among th preliminary findings.

1. The news of the President's death spread with unprecedented rapidity. Two-thirds of all adult Americans had heard of the shooting within a half hour after it occurred. Ninety-two per cent new within two hours and 99.8 per cent within six hours.

"Probably never before were the sentiments of the American public engaged so quickly and deeply by a political happening," the report said.

2. Before the identity of Lee Harvey Oswald as the alleged slayer and his background became known, about half the population's immediate reaction was that a crazed person had done the shooting. About 25 per cent thought it the work of a Communist and about half that number the work of a right-wing fanatic.

3. The overwhelming immediate response when they heard the news was one of personal grief and sorrow. Nine out of 10 persons said their first thought was of Mrs. Kennedy and the Kennedy children.

4. Despite indications many Americans first believed a right-or-left-wing plot was involved there was little ideological reaction.

5. Fewer than one person in five expressed satisfaction at the death of Oswald, Kennedy's accused killer. Regarding Oswald's slayer, Jack Ruby, 53 per cent said his fate should be left to the courts. Fifteen per cent said he should be executed. Four per cent said he should be lightly punished or go free. Only nine per cent foresee a successful plea of insanity.

Ruby is now on trial in Dallas on a charge of murdering Oswald.

"Perhaps the most striking find," the report says, "is the immense tide of grief, loss, sorrow and shame and anger which people felt when they first heard the news (of Kennedy's death.)"

"The majority of all respondents could not recall any other time in their lives when they had the same sort of feelings as when they heard of President Kennedy's assassination," the survey said.

The survey added, however, that "the assassination of the President and the subsequent shooting down of his (alleged) assassin in a televised police station had practically no effect at all, even in the short run, on certain basic beliefs and values of the American people, which one might have thought to be profoundly upset by such startling and bizarre events."

There was virtually no change in the intensity of religious beliefs, thoughts or attitudes about death, attitudes toward segregation and civil rights or the trustworthiness of people, the survey said.

Patent Office Faces Almost Insoluble Crisis

"Threatned by today's flood of scientific and technical information," the Patent Office faces a crisis almost without solution, an observer reports in the March issue of "Science Digest" Magazine.

Stacy V. Jones, a veteran reporter who covers the Patent Office, says 200,000 applications for patents were pending at year's end. He adds, "It now takes an average of three and a half years to get a patent."

The trouble, he says, is that today we are inventing not merely mousetraps but computers, atomic power plants, lasers, rockets and space stations, and every application must be checked against previous patents.

"Some progress has been made in the retrieval of information from punch cards," the Science Digest report says, "and a little time has been saved with microfilm readers, but the effect is miniscule."

Storing the technology in electronic memories has been studied by specialists for 10 years, but the problem of linguistics, "involving language that machines will understand," is too complex for solution before perhaps another 20 years.

Adding 400 or 500 to the present 1,100 processors would eliminate the backlog, but the qualified people are not available.

One possible solution: to avoid the examination of patents of little interest, by requiring the payment of fees for seven years, starting two years after the application.

Science for You

By BOB BROWN

PROBLEM: Why can we see our breath on a cold day?

HERE'S WHY: When air has come up from the large moist surfaces in the lungs, it is warm and holds much moisture. Since cold air cannot hold as much moisture as warm air, some of the moisture in the breath condenses into tiny droplets as the breath becomes cooler.

A book of the Science For You experiments and explanations can be bought in better bookstores. Its name is Science Circus.

Wasson High School News

By CAROL JENSEN

A special senior assembly was called last Tuesday at 10:30 to discuss plans for the senior trip in May. Bill Mitchell, senior class president, opened the meeting in the auditorium and introduced Mr. Rottman of the Burlington Railroad lines. Rottman outlined the plans for the trip, which is scheduled for May 28. Students will leave the Santa Fe depot at 8:00 and travel to Denver by train.

This train will be equipped with a dancing room and facilities for playing tapes or records. After arriving in Denver, students will go directly to see the Cinerama feature and then to Denver University at 1:00 for lunch.

After lunch, the seniors will spend about 2¼ hours in City Park, where the boat facilities will be available to them. They can also tour the Museum of Natural History, the zoo, or just walk across the park grounds.

Then a bus will pick the students up and take them downtown for a free 2 hours. This will enable the students to see the shops, places of civic interest, or just rest. They will eat at the American Legion in downtown Denver. Also, the students will receive a ticket allowing them to go to the top of the First National Bank in the capitol.

Buses will then take the students to Lakeside, where they will receive a strip of major ride tickets. The ballroom will be rented for the students' dancing. The homeward bound train will probably leave Denver around 10:15 and will arrive in Colorado Springs about midnight.

The price for this senior trip is $11.65; the extra $1.65 being for the Cinerama. Included in this price is a police escort (if one is needed), insurance, and the renting of the Lakeside ballroom.

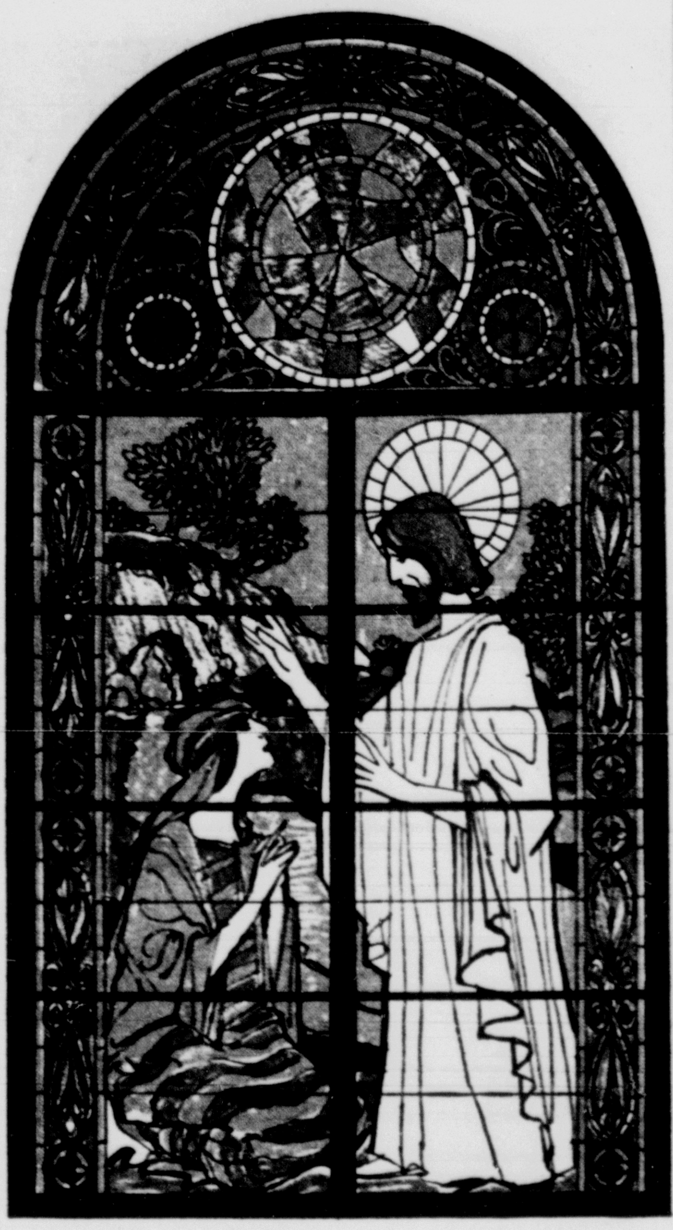
Rules for conduct and dress were established by Bill Mitchell. There will be no fights or wising off; boys can wear no jeans but are required to wear polished cottons or slacks; and girls cannot wear shorts or slacks, but dresses or divided skirts.

A $2.00 down payment was taken on Wednesday and the rest of the money for the trip can be payed in installments. Students will be given two cards, one for their records and one that council keeps.

Wasson's yearbook staff, the Wahian, took pictures of transfer students last Friday. The students had to enter Wasson after Nov. 12 to be eligible for the picture.

The Penman, Wasson's literary magazine of original student work, is again requesting and encouraging contributions. The plans for two issues of the magazine were not put into effect, and so more material is needed for this issue. Students are to turn their works into the Penman office, back of the audio visual room, or to a staff member.

The Wasson bookstore now has in stock such demanded books as 7 Days in May, The Cardinal, and The Incredible Journey. The book store, located near the library, is open to all students.



Jesus said unto her, I am the resurrection, and the life: he that believeth in me, though he were dead, yet shall he live: and whosoever liveth and believeth in me shall never die. Believest thou this? She saith unto him, Yea, Lord: I believe that thou art the Christ, the son of God, which should come into the world.

John 11:23-27

Nixon Would Take Second Again, He Says

NEW YORK (AP) — Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said here he is ready to accept the Republican nomination for the same post again.

He stressed that he is not a candidate for either the presidential or vice presidential nomination but that he would do what his party asked.

Nixon, appearing on the NBC-TV "Today" program, was asked by interviewer Hugh Downs whether he would accept second spot on the ticket.

"I know you are going to expect me to say 'no' because I have been vice president for eight years and have run for president," Nixon replied.

"But I don't go along with the current talk among the present candidates for downgrading the vice presidency. I think it is time to upgrade it. And as far as I'm concerned I'm making it clear that I'm not a candidate for president and not a candidate for vice president but I will do whatever my party asks me to do and I feel everybody else should, too.

"The vice presidency, as Lyndon Johnson's present position proves today, is as important as the presidency."

Nixon said that the big surprise in the New Hampshire primary next Tuesday may be on the Democratic rather than the Republican side.

He said there were so many contenders in the Republican presidential primary that nobody could win a decisive victory.

Nixon forecast a large write-in vote for Atty. Robert F. Kennedy for the Democratic vice presidential nomination — one that might start a groundswell that would propel him into second spot on the ticker.

Severe Bleeding Recorded in Mild Hemophiliacs

Persons suffering mild hemophilia are susceptible to severe bleeding and ignorance of their bleeding tendency can lead to results more serious than those in a known severe hemophiliac, according to an article in the current Journal of the American Medical Association.

Hemophiliacs with a mild form of the disease may be entirely unaware of their disability since they are often able to lead a full and normal life, it was pointed out in a report by Arthur M. Pappas, M.D., Joseph S. Barr, M.D., Edwin W. Salzman, M.D., Anthony Briten, M.D., and Edward J. Riseborough, M.D., Boston.

"They are nevertheless susceptible to severe bleeding, particularly after surgery or major injury; sometimes ignorance of their inherent bleeding tendency can lead to results more serious than those in a known severe hemophiliac with the same type of bleeding because of delay in instituting specific therapy or failure to take precautions necessary in hemophilia," they said.

Hemophilia is an inherited condition in which blood clotting is delayed or does not occur. The trait is transmitted by the female but affects only males.

Hemophilia is thought to occur in about 1 in every 10,000 male births, the authors reported. However, they said, as sensitive laboratory methods have become available, more and more mild cases are being detected, and the condition is generally appreciated.

Few mild hemophiliacs have been entirely free of bleeding episodes when first seen by a physician, they added, but these symptoms are often not sufficiently serious to have caught the attention of the patient or his family.

A diagnosis of mild hemophilia should be considered in any male who has a history of abnormal bleeding, particularly spontaneous hemorrhage into a joint, or persistent bleeding after surgery, tooth extraction or injury, or who has the characteristic family history, the authors advised.

The Pepperette Club had a cake raffle on Friday for a fund raising project.

Attending the C. U. National Honor Conference on Feb. 29 were Judy Bonke, Ann Nichols, Phyllis Shipp and sponsor, McEngstrom.

On Thursday our Mustangs clashed with Florence in the District Tournament. To set this day off the cheerleaders urged every student to wear clashing clothes. The cheerleaders also sponsored a penny voting election last week. Students were asked to vote for their favorite basketball player, or players. Cheerleaders had jars for the votes. The "penny king" was presented with a crown of "pennies" at the Pep Assembly Thursday March 5.

On Saturday, March 14 there will be a Medical Careers Day at Penrose Hospital. The program will begin with registration at 9 in the Margery Reed Auditorium at Penrose. A film will be shown, and various aspects of the medical careers open to young men and women will be presented. The fields to be covered include physician, physio - therapy, occupational and speech therapy, x-ray and medical technology medical library, diploma and practical nursing, dietetics, pharmacy and business opportunities. The program will end at 1, when the students will be taken to the hospital of their choice for lunch and a tour. The only expense to the student will be a $1 for lunch.

This summer there will be a one week journalism camp to be held at CSU in Fort Collins, June 22-26. High school students may attend this camp to learn about school newspaper and yearbook journalism. Cost for the week is $55, which covers all but personal incidental expense.

Those who played on the "B" squad are Jim Davis, John Fletcher, George Whitt, Marvin Layman, Joe Kraig, Roger Liby, Mark Miller, Bob Nakai, Fred Koster, Ron Smith, Ken Yager, Dennis Eason, and Denny Bartly.

The Mustang "C" squad, under Coach Bill Phelps, won the consolation trophy last Saturday night by a score of 25-23 over the Harrison five in the Mustang gym. This game closed the "C" squad season. Players for the "C" squad for this year are Mike Flynn, George Manley, Jim Nakai, Dee Corum, Bruce Heidenreich, Rodney Jarvis, Roy Boardman, Ron Larson, Lee Corum, and Gene Court.

Carson Training School Has Been Completed

Another Installation Supply School has been completed, training 200 more specialists from all units on post here at Ft. Carson, Colorado, home of the 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized).

Men in groups of 40 took the four-hour course covering all phases of supply. They were given special guidance in supply procedures, reports, and current supply phases.

Maj. Donald R. Roney, installation supply officer, said he believes the school saves many hours in attaining appropriate supplies, permits more accurate reporting and serves to bring all members of the supply field closer together.

He termend the school a great success based on the reports of those attending the classes and the instructor.

Asthma Listed By AMA as Chronic Illness

Asthma is a chronic illness in which the victim has difficulty in breathing. It is not contagious and, fortunately, most attacks of asthma are relatively mild, but if neglected, it increases in severity, and endangers health as time goes on.

A majority of asthma attacks are triggered by an allergy. It could be almost anything — foods, furs, feathers, pollens — that starts the flare-up. Sometimes a bacterial infection of the throat, nose or sinuses can touch off an asthma attack. Nervous tension sometimes is a factor.

In a severe attack, the victim appears to be suffocating. He becomes pale and turns bluish, perspires heavily. He is using all of his strength to breathe. Fortunately, these attacks can be relieved by your doctor or by treatment in a hospital.

Finding the allergen is the first step in dealing with chronic asthma. Occasionally it is obvious, but most often a series of tests and studies are required.

The important thing is to seek medical advice and counsel if you supect that you have an asthmatic condition. Self-diagnosis is almost impossible.

Only a physician can make an accurate diagnosis. If the allergen is something you can avoid, such as a dog or a cat, your problem can be solved with relative simplicity. If it should be pollen in the air, the case is more difficult. But it still can be kept under control, with proper medical direction.

Occasionally, an asthma patient will be helped by a change of climate, but doctors advise that you proceed with caution in making a cross-country move. You may develop a new allergy to things in the new climate which you haven't encountered before. If you must move, try to arrange an extended visit to the proposed new home to find out for yourself whether you feel better.

Asthma can be controlled in most cases. In almost all cases, a doctor can provide relief from asthmatic attacks, and by careful management reduce the frequency and severity of attacks.

Blood Tests Hold Hope for Diagnosis of Ills

A Johns Hopkins Medical Institutions research team is closing in on a successful method that eventualy may lead to diagnosis of chronic diseases such as tuberculosis, rheumatic fever, cancer and cardiovascular illness. The method is a complex series of blood tests.

Dr. Winston H. Price, epidemiologist at Johns Hopkins started the project in 1955. Recently Dr. Price announced a break-thru and hopeful progress on diagnosis of tubercular patients.

The researchers studied blood samples of 190 people; 100 from tubercular patients and 90 from healthy persons. The names and physical condition of the people from whom blood samples were taken were unknown to the investigators.

From the 100 tubercular patients they were able to pick out 97 and identify the disease. The remaining three cases which they labeled "normal" were found to be persons who had a slight tubercular condition.

Less extensive tests were made with blood from people suffering with rheumatic fever, heart damage, schizophrenia, lung cancer and other diseases.

Using a little known technique called disk electropherisis, the Hopkins team took from samples a fraction of blood called serum mucoid. Through research, the doctors found that serum mucoid in persons afflicted with a certain disease differed both in quality and quantity from the serum mucoid of healthy persons.

When the serum mucoids were split up by disk electropherisis, the mucoids were placed in a gel within a small glass tube. Then a blue strain, that attaches itself to the protein portion of the mucoids, was added.

The strain was then drained from the gel. As a result several blue bands appeared, indicating the various serum mucoid fractions. A specimen from a healthy person's blood showed only two or three blue bands. A blood sample from a tubercular patient showed five or six bands. Each band indicated the existence of a special serum mucoid fraction, and the size of the band revealed the amount of each special fraction.

Dr. Price, and his colleagues at Johns Hopkins, depend on a long-range research program in cooperation with 28 hospitals throughout the country, which send in numbered samples of blood from patients with different diseases. Names of donors and disease of each are unknown to the Hopkins laboratory investigators.

Diseases of the donors are verified by Hopkins scientists after they have submitted the blood samples to their new test, and have made their diagnosis.

Unlike any blood diagnosis now used, the new method tries to gauge changes occurring in the blood during the development of a disease.

Altho the project has proved valuable, Dr. Price stated that three major problems still have to be mastered. He wants to know how early the changes in the blood can be detected, after the first onslaught of a disease; how the blue bands of one disease differ from those of another disease; and what causes these changes in the serum mucoids.

Scientists know that serum mucoids are composed of proteins and carbohydrates, they do not know anything about how and where these substances originate in the body and what role they play in the physiology of growth.

Dr. Price and his colleagues are certain that progress made in this diagnostic method, using serum mucoids of the blood, has been successful in the study of tubercular patients. But, they yet must perfect the method and learn now to apply it to other diseases.

Biology Summer Program Shaped Up at CU

Five visiting lecturers, 5,000 biologists and 40 high school teachers will play key roles this year in the University of Colorado Department of Biology summer program.

The visiting lecturers will be a part of the faculty for the normal Summer session which will run from June 12-Aug. 22.

The 5,000 biologists will be attending the annual meeting of the American Institute of Biological Sciences (AIBS) Aug. 23-28. The 40 high school teachers will be at CU for the National Science Foundation Summer Institute for Microbiology for High School Teachers of Biology June 15-July 24.

Visiting lecturers will include Asst. Prof. Phillip Buscemi of the University of Idaho, Asst. Prof. Dexter Hess of Otero Junior College, Prof. Irwin Sizer of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Prof. Hobart Smith of the University of Illinois and Bernard TenBroek of Calvin College, Mich.

The AIBS meeting will include other meetings for 24 societies for various biological fields and the reading of more than 1,300 technical papers. Prof. Gordon Alexander of CU will be chairman of the conference.

The fourth microbiology institute will be supported by a $40,200 National Science Foundation grant. Chairman will be Asst. Prof. Charles R. Bitter of CU. Purpose of the institute will be to give experienced high school biology teachers a sufficient background in the study of microscopic forms.

D.C. STATUS SYMBOLS

WASHINGTON, D.C. (AP)—A quick way to tell the rank of a government official is by desk and office equipment. Having an inter-office phone is a fringe benefit of ranking GS-17 or better; a GS-18 has two inter-office phones. Two pens on a desk means that the official is a GS-16 or better, but not until GS-18 status can a water carafe be added. Walnut wastebaskets, flags, and carpeting are other signs of high-ranking officials.

Union Warship Found at Bottom Of Yazoo River

By DUDLEY LEHEW

VICKSBURG, Miss. (AP) — Around one of the bends in the ancient Yazoo River near here a bobbing red buoy pops into view to mark a major find of Civil War history.

The buoy is anchored to the stern of a Union warship which sank intact Dec. 12, 1862, without loss of life to its 160-man crew.

Lt. Cmdr. Thomas O. Selfridge of the Union Navy was carrying out an order to seek out and destroy Confederate mines in the river as part of the attack on Vicksburg, the Gibraltar of the Confederacy.

Two of the "infernal machines" blew holes in the 175-foot-long Cairo.

"The Cairo sank in about 12 minutes after the explosion, going totally out of sight except for the top of her chimney, in six fathoms of water," Selfridge reported.

"Her whole frame was so completely shattered that I found immediately that nothing more could be effected than to move the sick and the arms.

"I ordered the Queen of the West alongside and passed what articles I could get into her, with the remainder taking to boats," he said.

The Yankees then blew off the two tall smokestacks so the Rebels could not locate the ship and use it or its firepower.

"It was with deep regert and melancholy that I felt obliged to return down the river," Selfridge reported.

The Caijo settled gently in the river—completely intact.

Records reveal the Cairo was one of seven steamers designed for use in the Civil War inland Navy. The Cairo was a 512-ton iron-clad which carried as firepower six 42-pounders, six 32-pounders, three 8-inch guns a one 12-pound howitzer.

The story of her return to the surface began Nov. 12, 1956.

Official maps and records conflicted. But three determined Vicksburg men — Edwin Bear Warren Grabau and Don Jacks —decided it was time to find the Cairo.

Bear is official historian at the Vicksburg Military Park. Grabau was a park employe with a knowledge of the Yazoo River. Jacks had a boat.

After careful consideration of all available material, the three marked a spot on a river where the ship should be resting.

Using a pocket compass, the men went upstream past the area where they thought the craft sank and began a slow descent downstream.

They believed the iron on the Cairo would cause a deviation on the compass if they passed over the sunken ship.

Gently they drifted downstream. Suddenly the needle swung around wildly.

The boat drifted a few yards downstream and the needle returned to normal. They went back upstream. Again the needle reacted violently.

After marking trees along the bank they raced to Vicksburg for a long pole. The anxious trio sped back to the marked spot and began probing. The pole struck iron.

The Cairo had been found.

After about three years, interest in the raising of the craft as a tourist attraction swept into official circles.

Now "Operation Cairo" is in full swing and it is only a matter of time before the craft will be raised.

Prediction is that the Cairo may be floating down the Yazoo this spring for a permanent exhibition spot in historic Vicksburg.

New Greek Queen Has Nordic Beauty

ATHENS (AP)—Greece is to have a new queen who, like her predecessor, is a non-Greek Greek mold of beauty.

Princess Anne-Marie of Denmark, 17, after her marriage to the new King Constantine — tentatively set for next January—will succeed to the place on the throne held by Frederika until the death of King Paul on Friday.

Frederika is a former German princess.

Equal parts of table salt and cream of tartar will remove rust stains. Wet the spot and spread the mixture on thickly then place the material in the sun.

Former Mailman Now Known as Rock Hudson

By DAVE SMITH

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — If the critics like him, peachy, and if they don't, it's no skin off Roy Fitzgerald's nose.

Fitzgerald, once known as Roy Scherer Jr., is an ex-mailman from Winnetka, Ill. He used to drive a truck for a Los Angeles company. Today he's a top movie star and known to his intimates as Rock Hudson.

Right now he's finishing his third comedy with movieland's top-drawing female, Doris Day —"Send Me No Flowers." If it's like the two earlier Day-Hudson collaborations, "Pillow Talk" and "Lover, Come Back," box office cash registers will jingle merrily to the tune of several million. And some critics won't like what they've termed a formula of pseudo-sophistication, slapstick and sex.

Hudson could either laugh or cry all the way to the bank, if he felt like it.

But he doesn't feel like it. Says Hudson: "The critics just don't affect me, one way or the other."

Hudson agrees with a charge that is frequently lodged against some critics — that they too frequently expect so-called art films where entertainment is all that was intended.

He said : "I learned something interesting about the critics and the way they react when I saw "Some Like It Hot." Now that was a great movie, I realize, but you know, I didn't like it. You know why? Because I was alone when I saw it.

"That's the trouble with some of these critics. They go to private screenings and exclusive showings and sit there all alone, and then they come out wondering why Hollywood can't make them laugh. 'Some Like It Hot' is the kind of movie that makes you want to nudge the person you're with and laugh out loud. But you're not going to sit there laughing out loud all by yourself. You need an audience laughing with you, in order not to feel like a fool.

"So ever since then I've realized why so many critics miss the point, and they just don't influence my work," he says.

Greeks Acquire Youngest King in World

By GERALD MILLER

ATHENS (AP) — Greece lamented today the death of King Paul I, but confidence in the nation's future tempered grief as his 23-year-old son, Constantine, took over.

He became the world's youngest reigning monarch at an hour of national crisis over the dispute between the Greek and Turkish communities on Cyprus.

King Paul, 62 and in the 17th year of his reign, died Friday of a series of complications arising after surgery for a stomach ulcer Feb. 21.

Women wept in the streets as church bells tolled and a lone cannon atop Lycabetus Hill boomed an hourly salute to the dead ruler.

Expressions of regret poured in from world leaders, including President Johnson and U.N. Secretary-General U Thant.

King Constantine—a 6-foot-3 sportsman already beloved by his people as "Tino"—has spent years being groomed for the throne.

Constantine took the oath of service to the Greek people in a solemn candlelight ceremony in the Athens Palace Friday night and his first broadcast to his people was a message from the death chamber of his father:

"This morning I conveyed to my father the feeling of the Greek people who were praying for him and my father said: 'I thank them and say goodby to them' "

At King Paul's bedside with Constantine in the last moments were Queen Frederika, now the queen mother, and Constantine's 22 - year - old sister, Princess Irene, now the crown princess and next in line for the throne as long as the new ruler remains childless.

Constantine is engaged to beautiful Princess Anne-Marie of Denmark, 17. They will be married in January unless court mourning interferes.

At Tatoi, doctors were preparing the body of Paul to be borne into Athens Sunday. For three days the body will lie in state in the Metropolis, the Greek Orthodox Cathedral.

The cream of Europe's royalty is expected in Athens Thursday for the state funeral. Paul will be buried on the Tatoi Palace grounds.

The duel between Aaron Burr and Alexander Hamilton occurred in 1804 in Weehawken, N.J.

DR. BASIL B. CREIGHTON

Basil Creighton To Be 100 Years Old Tuesday

Dr. Basil B. Creighton of Manitou Springs, will be 100 years old Tuesday. He was born in Cincinnati, Ohio, March 10, 1864. He has been a resident of Manitou Springs since Oct. 4, 1884. During his long time as a physician in Manitou Springs he also, for many years, operated a drugstore.

At his home, 25 Washington Ave., as he was asked when he retired from practicing medicine he replied:

"I never did retire. They retired me. I think the date you want was about 1930. Say I practiced for 50 years."

He was graduated from the Ohio Medical College in 1892 and from post-graduate work in medicine in Chicago in 1899. His internship was at the Good Samaritan Hospital in Cincinnati and it was while there, headquarters of the Sisters of Charity, that he assisted members of that order in locating Glockner Sanatorium, which later became Glockner Hospital and is now Penrose Hospital in Colorado Springs.

Dr. Creighton says he is the only living charter member of the medical fraternity Nu Sigma Nu, founded in 1892. He remembers clearly the details of many incidents of his long professional career. His first patient, he said last week, was the president of the Rock Island Railroad. He recalled bringing a man with a broken leg down from the summit of Pikes Peak before the Cog Road was constructed. He has always had great interest in the mineral springs of Manitou Springs and long ago did much work in bringing about analyses of the various springs.

Dr. Creighton makes no more calls with horse and buggy or by automobile to attend sick people. He lives in peace and quiet in the bosom of his family. Mrs. Creighton, who was Maud Rees when he married her April 19, 1899, says that he says, and then lets him say again that one reason for his longevity is her good cooking.

But she says she thinks the real reason that both of them have reached such comfortable old age is that they have never had differences which they could not quickly resolve. They have lived in happiness and contentment.

Their elder daughter, Miss Forest Creighton, a teacher at the Colorado School for the Deaf and the Blind, makes her home with her parents. Ayounger daughter , Mrs. Edwins Ford, and her husband, of Chicago were with them last week, and their son, Basil R. Creighton, of Washington, D. C., is expected soon to arrive for a wedding anniversary that is coming up.

Both daughters and the son are graduates of Colorado College.

Honest Man Offered Career in Banking

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — A publicity-shy student had a $100 bill, lobster dinner and a suggestion for a future career in reward for his honesty.

Joseph A. Serio, 21, last month discovered a deposit bag stuck in the night deposit box of a Buffalo bank.

He said he attempted to force the bag into the box so that he could make a deposit. When he could not do so, Serio removed the bag and took it home. The next morning he returned the bag, unopened. It was found to contain $2,000 in cash and more than $3,000 in checks.

Serio said he had not told anyone about the incident because he "didn't want to be called a fool for returning the money."

Friday, Serio had lunch with the bank president. He was handed the $100 bill and asked if he had ever considered a career in banking.

Serio, a history major, said he "wasn't sure."

Ship Explosion Scheduled for Seattle Probe

By DALE NELSON

ANACORTES, Wash. (AP) — There was no hint of danger as the 504-foot tanker Bunker Hill, her tanks empty, sailed north in the choppy waters of Puget Sound.

That was at 4 a.m. Friday.

Two minutes later an explosion tore the ship apart. Two more blasts followed, and she sank in 300 feet of water, presumably taking 5 of the 30 men aboard with her.

The Coast Guard and Navy rescued 25. Three were still hospitalized today.

Search continued for the missing.

The Coast Guard said a board of investigation would meet in Seattle early next week.

The Bunker Hill was bound from Tacoma, Wash., for the Shell Oil Co. refinery at Anacortes to load gasoline for Portland, Ore. She was about 80 miles north of Seattle and 15 miles from her destination.

At 4:02 a.m., at the control tower at Whidbey Island Naval Air Station south of Anacortes, Air Controlman G. B. Mogridge saw the explosion.

A Navy crashboat reached the scene at 4:48 a.m. The Coast Guard sent a helicopter from Port Angeles, Wash.

Aboard the tanker Harold L. Baker of Pasadena, Calif., who was standing a bow watch, clung to a guardrail as the bridge sank rapidly, tilting the bow almost straight up.

"The captain and three others were on the bridge, and the chief steward was below in his quarters," Baker said later. "I hope they got off, but I don't see how they could."

Moments before the bow sank Baker jumped. His gold pocket watch stopped at 4:17 a.m.

Missing were the skipper, Capt. Michael J. Abraham, Garden Grove, Calif.; the temporary chief mate, R. H. Blake, Long Beach, Calif.; the junior third mate, Ronald Lockwood, Mountlake Terrace, Wash.; the chief steward, Harold Schmidt, Spokane, Wash.; and the quartermaster, Robert S. Smith, Seattle, Wash.

Gov. Wallace Enters Wisconsin Primary

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Alabama's Democratic Gov. George C. Wallace has carried his states' rights campaign into the presidential arena, entering Wisconsin's preferential primary April 7.

With the prediction, "I'll probably get more votes than a lot of people think," Wallace became the third figure in an election that had shaped up as a test between Democratic and Republican favorite son candidates.

Democratic Gov. John W. Reynolds had hoped to run unopposed as a favorite son heading a national convention delegate slate pledged to President Lyndon B. Johson. On the Republican side, Rep. John W. Byrnes is unchallenged as he heads an uncommitted delegate list.

In filing his papers a few hours before the deadline Friday, Wallace said, "My purpose ...is to tell the truth about the so-called civil rights bill and how it would destroy the private enterprise system in the country."

Rio Grande Road Expects Boost In Revenue

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Denver & Rio Grande Western Railroad expects to increase its 1964 operating revenues by about $1,700,000 over 1963, President G. B. Aydelott said here.

Aydelott, speaking before the New York Society of Security Analysts, said the actual rise in revenues this year will be more than $3 million, but that part of its revenues must be set aside under an Interstate Commerce Commission ruling.

Last year the regulatory agency reapportioned the share of transcontinental freight revenues among the nation's carriers giving the Eastern roads a larger slice of the pie. Such carriers as the Denver & Rio Grande, which stand to lose from the decision, are fighting the ICC order in the courts.

The rail official declined to predict net income this year but said it "should provide sufficient cash flow to meet all foreseeable requirements" including dividends.

Aydelott disclosed the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy Railroad last January bought additional stock of the Denver & Rio Grande from the Missouri Pacific Railroad to boost its interest to 3.4 per cent. The MoPac, he said, then sold its remaining shares in the Denver & Rio Grande to others.

MacArthur Heads Down Road to His Recovery

By FRANK CAREY

WASHINGTON (AP) — General Douglas MacArthur — minus his gall bladder and a crop of dangerous gallstones—headed today down the road to recovery. And he could count his blessings.

The old soldier apparently fooled the top-flight surgeons who operated on him for three hours Friday at Walter Reed Army Hospital.

Lt. Gen. Leonard D. Heaton, the Army's surgeon general, told a reporter later that the finding that MacArthur's symptoms of "obstructive jaundice" were due to a mechanical blockage of his bile system by gallstones rather than something worse, including cancer, was a surprise. Heaton had said before the operation that "we hope and pray" that this would be so —but he evidently had his fingers crossed.

Against the general—and in favor of a finding of malignancy—were his 84 years and a sharp loss of weight during the past few months while concurrently exhibiting a jaundiced skin.

But, while gallstones—ranging in size "from peas to big beans" in the words of Heaton —were found packed in MacArthur's gall bladder and many others were found plugging a key bile duct, that was the most critical finding.

"No evidences of malignancy were found" either in those organs or in other parts of the abdomen where the surgeons probed long and carefully.

Heaton and his fellow Army surgeons first freed the roadblock in the bild duct by cutting out the stones. Then they removed the stone-bearing gall bladder, lest other stones break loose later and re-plug the bile duct through which the vital bile fluid courses into the intestine to aid in digestion.

No further surgery is contemplated. Barring complications, the general could complete his recovery in two to four weeks, hospital officials said.

As he convalesces, he can keep busy reading thousands of letters coming in from various parts of the world—and looking at some of the truckloads of flowers that have been sent to him.

White House Denies Hatcher Resignation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House denied Friday night a broadcast report that Andrew T. Hatcher would resign as assistant press secretary and become ambassador to Togo.

Malcolm Kilduff, another assistant press secretary, said when asked about the report: "He is not resigning. He is not being appointed ambassador to Togo."

Miss Holliday wasn't available for comment on the claim, filed Friday.

Post Office In Springs Gets Driving Honors

National honors for oustanding safe driver performance was won by the Colorado Springs Post Office in the Government Division, Group III of the 32nd National Fleet Safety Contest conducted by the National Safety council.

The Colorado Springs Post Office Fleet, consisting of 29 vehicles and 187 drivers was awarded a Certificate of Achievement because its rate of accidents per 1,000,000 miles driven was better than the average for the 97 competing fleets, and was a significant reduction below their average rate for the preceding contest years.

The contest is for performance from July 1962, thru July 1963. During this period, the Colorado Springs Post Office drivers operated 349,000 miles and had 8 reportable accidents with a frequency rate of 22.89 as compared to the previous rate of 45.63.

W. R. Randall, regional safety officer, presenting the award on behalf of the Regional Director, C. G. Crossan, of Region 14, Post Office Department, congratulated the Personnel of the Colorado Springs Post Office for their support of the contest, and urged them to take greater strides toward safer fleet operations in the coming year.

Postmaster, R. H. Wardwell in accepting the award for the Personnel of the Colorado Springs Post Office said, "We will continue to support this program, and by cooperative effort of all the employees, I am sure we can obtain greater results for the coming year."

Glenn Discovers Surroundings Are Familiar

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (AP)—Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr., spaceman turned politician, underwent treatment for a brain concussion here in a hospital familiar from his astronaut days.

Glenn, who bumped his head on a bathtub in his apartment Feb. 26, was transferred Friday from Columbus, Ohio, to Wilford Hall Hospital on Lackland Air Force Base.

The 42-year-old Ohio senatorial candidate, who quit the U.S. space program to go into politics, has been at the hospital several times previously to undergo physical and tests as an astronaut.

Doctors would not speculate on how long he would be in Wilford Hall. However, Dr. Earl Brannon Jr., chief of orthopedic surgery, said in a news conference:

"We're almost sure he'll be out by April 1."

Glenn, who had planned to retire from the Marines March 1, is now scheduled to be mustered out April 1. He is expected to immediately swing into his campaign for the Ohio Democratic senatorial nomination in Ohio.

Dr. Brannon, who accompanied Glenn on the six-hour flight to Texas and who has worked with him during previous visits to the hospital, pronounced the former astronaut in good condition.

However, he said, the fall injured his inner ear and disturbed his equilibrium.

Alcohol in estimated to be a contributory cause in 50 per cent of the nation's traffic deaths, the President's Committee for Traffic Safety reports.

Mesabi Range People Face Grim Future

By WARD CANNEL
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

DULUTH, Minn. (NEA) — In 1943 a University of Minnesota study revealed that the gaint Mesabi range, the sturdy background of U.S. iron riches, would be exhausted of its high-grade ore within 10 years.

The Mesabi and its 120,000 people in Minnesota and Wisconsin today lie shackled by that prophecy. A decade is not time enough to change the habits and expectations of three generations living on the county of the earth's natural resources.

In the 10 years since that prediction came true, only federal and state grants have made any real inroads in the blight left by closed mines, rusted rail lines, abandoned foundries and tool sheds.

And through its misery, anger and panic, the people of the Mesabi have been able to see only one—paradoxical—way out of the grinding predicament: a return to iron ore mining.

It is not, however, wishful thinking woven out of nostalgia alone. Northeastern Minnesota cherishes a hope for the taconite mining process to resolve its anguish.

Beneath the high-grade ore, now exhausted after 70 years of mining, lies taconite—an ore too low-grade for profitable shipping. But a process has been developed for crushing the taconite into powder, extracting the iron granules by magnet and rolling them into pellets whose iron content is much higher than the highest grade ore ever shipped out of the Mesabi.

Enough taconite remains in Minnesota to supply national needs for several hundred years, and do away largely with a politically uncertain policy of relying on South American and West African ores.

But it is costly to extract Taconite. And deposits can be found widely throughout the United States. Of the 20 taconite plants now in operation, only three are in Minnesota — with little likelihood of any more being installed at the present time.

Why? Major iron and steel companies are reluctant to go back into a state which, they say, has taxed them onorously through the years of rich ore when it wanted money.

If Minnesota votes a constitutional amendment guaranteeing fair and equitable taxation, however, U.S. Steel has said it will install a plant. Other mining companies are watching this bargain closely.

And in the Mesabi area today it is almost impossible to find an opponent to such a constitutional amendment—from civic leaders whose towns once thrived on mining company taxes to spokesmen for the United Steelworkers of America which has traditionally fought the mining companies for a bigger cut of the take.

In the state's capital as well, it is almost impossible to find opponents to a constitutional guarantee for the taconite mining interests— from Gov. Karl Rolvaag to Senators Eugene McCarthy and Hubert Humphrey.

Only a few lone voices are raised against the plan, which comes before the electorate this year.

Former state Sen. Vlad Shipka has no argument with a statute to tax taconite mining equally with other businesses. "But," he says angrily, "why do it with a constitutional amendment? It is inmoral to give aid to any business in a constitution. it is undemocratic. It is philosophically wrong."

Says John Nevinn deputy commissioner of the Department of Business Development:

"If I were a foundry owner or a businessman or a miner dependent on mining for my livelihood, I'd be for the amndment, too. This is a captive area, populated by captive people. They're doing what captives should do.

"Buut for the rest of us and for the state, it's bad business to vote yourself into further captivity. It discourages what we need most—diversification — so that we're not dependent on one industry forever.

"And what are they going to say after they give these guarantees to the mining companies and then discover that the job can be done by automation and they're not needed at all?

"This is a game," Nevin says, "for multibillion-dollar stakes."

Nearly 500 varieties of peaches are grown for consumption. Experts claim 2,000 different types are known throughout the world.

Taboo Things Of Past Now Are Mentioned

By DICK KLEINER

NEW YORK (NEA) — Something is changing — it may be television and it may be the auence. Anyhow, Paul Richards of ABC's Breaking Point, a television veteran, has noticed it.

"We can do and say things this year," Richards says, "that we could not do and say last year. This year, for instance, we have been able to use the world 'homosexual.' Last year that was taboo. Who know what next year may bring?"

For one thing, it probably won't bring Breaking Point back again. Although Richards is still hopeful (he says they are still buying scripts) the network has pencilled in something else in Breaking Point's time spot.

Richards will, naturally, be disappointed if his series is dropped, but not desolate and heartbroken. He's had a long career, full of disappointments as well as appointments.

In fact, he had his bags packed, he says, to return to his New York stage career when he got the word last year that Breaking Point finally had been sold to a network.

He may have to pack again.

Television has become a necessity in the hotel business. Guests expect sets in their rooms, says Harley J. Watson, vice president of Shraton International and general manager of New York's Park-Sheraton.

"We just redecorated 800 rooms in the Park-Sheraton," Watson says, "and put in 800 new sets. Television sets in hotel rooms last about five year. They're abused.

"We keep a full-time television repairman on our payroll. Most of our hotels do."

The chain gives each guest a questionnaire—on which they are asked to register complaints—and Watson says 90 per cent of the complaints involve faulty sets.

Television has increased the hotel's room service business, Watson says. Guests no longer go out to movies and clubs. Now more of them stay in their rooms and have refreshments sent in.

Another aspect of the hotel-television relationship is explored by Morris Lansburgh, who owns hotels in Miami Beach (including the Deaville, where The Beatles were in residence) and Las Vegas. As such, he spends $5 million a year buying entertainment for the hotels various clubs and rooms.

And he has found, through bitter and sweet experience, that there is no correlation between an act's television rating and its appeal at the night club box office.

"The top attractions," Lansburgh says, "are the acts which are not overexposed on television. Today, I think the top draws are Mitzi Gaynor and Robert Goulet. They are both terrific talents, and haven't been on television too much."

On the other hand, Lansburgh says he doesn't think The Beverly Hillbillies' gang would pull many people into clubs. But he admits he could be wrong.

"I'm trying," he says, "to lure some other stars into clubs. I've contacted Brigitte Bardot and Mary Martin and even Deanna Durbin — names people know but haven't seen every every week in their home."

Stage Fright Subject of Science Study

By PATRICIA PLATT

WASHINGTON (UPI) — At a time when the young-American-on-his-way-up is expected to be a livewire, a midwesterner is trying to identify and eventually eliminate some of the static along the way.

The problem is stage fright—which 28-year-old Gordon L. Paul of Marshalltown, Iowa, calls "performance anxiety." His aim is to "desensitivize" persons who suffer from it.

Paul has been awarded a $5,000 grant by the U. S. Office of Education to conduct a one-year study of the nervous aflication. Using methods not yet disclosed, he will work with 100 students at the University of Illinois where he has been an assistant psychology professor for three years.

The study is a first step toward combatting irrational, instinctive panic that may be triggered by a word or gesture among even the most competent students or professional persons.

The Office of Education will publish the results next year.

Paul hopes to receive a Ph.D. in psychology for his efforts—in addition to answers to some of the questions that have intrigued him since he was in high school.

The Office of Education spokesman said that Paul—who does not experience stage fright himself—has been curious about the phenomenon for two reasons:

—He has observed many persons who appear quite normal by ordinary standards fall into a complete tailspin at a word or suggestion, such as a teacher asking "do you really understand this?" The abnormal reaction of fear is exhibited by extreme nervousness, sweaty palms, shaky knees and a queasy stomach.

He said he believes stage fright is on the upsurge among the young because of current emphasis on college attendance and graduation as the major stepladder to professional success.

Paul told the Education Office he thinks many students have stage fright because they are terrified at first by the prospect of attending college and later by the rigors of staying in.

He was explicit in his request that the Office withhold specific details about the methods he will use. He fears that making them known will influence the students involved in the tests—or, perhaps, give them stage fright.

There are about 18,000 licensed day care facilities in the nation accommodating 185,000 children, the Department of Health, Education and Welfare reports.

Lack of Leadership Charged by Arias

PANAMA (AP)—Dr. Arnulfo Arias, twice deposed ex-president of Panama, has blamed lack of national leadership for Panama's diplomatic break with the United States.

Campaigning for the presidency in the May elections, Arias called Friday for a new Panama Canal treaty based on traditional friendship between the two countries and "lasting thousands and thousands of years."

Commissioners Debate Regaining License Control

The Board of County Commissioners of El Paso County is considering the advisibility of securing a return to county control the operation of the Drivers License Department.

The three members of the board, Keith McBurney, chairman, Fred Monk and Charles Smith, went on record Jan. 17 favoring the operation of the department in El Paso County by the County Clerk. At that time, Mrs. Harriet Beals, County Clerk and Recorder, also stated that she was in favor of the change.

The department is currently operated in El Paso County by the State of Colorado.

In January, a letter stating the opinion of the comissioners and of Mrs. Beals was sent to Hugh H. C. Weed, Jr., director of revenue. Weed apparently was in agreement with the proposal.

At the time the operation of the Drivers License Department was turned over to the state, in 1958, County Commissioner Monk said that approximately $18,000 was cleared annually for El Paso County from drivers licenses.

County officials have expressed the opinion that if the operation of the department was returned to the county now, the county would be making several thousand dollars more than previously because of the increased population.

With the office under state control, all monies collected in the county for drivers licenses go to the state. If the office were county operated, officials said, it would be staffed by local residents.

A report from James McNally, clerk of Jefferson County, to Mrs. Beals, shows that county made a profit of over $24,000 in 1963 on drivers licenses.

Mary McDonough, clerk of Fremont County, reported to Mrs. Beals that the fact that the county clears a considerable amount of money is not the only important factor. Fremont County, Mrs. McDonough said, feels that the public receives much better and more efficient service when the drivers license office is operated at a local level.

Other county clerks, including Annie Dunston of Mesa County, Ann Spomer of Weld County and Clyde Miller of Adams County, have expressed similar opinions, Mrs. Beals said.

About 50 per cent of the counties in Colorado operate their own drivers license program, the county clerk reported. The remainder are state controlled.

Marina Oswald Does Not Want Death for Ruby

DALLAS (AP) —Mrs. Marina Oswald says she doesn't want Jack Ruby sent to the electric chair for killing her husband, Lee Harvey Oswald.

In a copyrighted story by the Dallas Morning News, the widow of President Kennedy's accused assassin said she does not believe in capital punishment.

"When there is no war on, no human being has the right to take another's life," Marina said.

She said she had read some and watched television news concerning the murder trial of Ruby now underway here, "but I'm not following it all the way. I'm just interested."

Speaking in Russian through an interpreter or in broken English, Marina said she hoped to someday "to do something for America in return for the wonderful treatment I've received."

Chimp Kidneys Function in Man For Two Months

A chimpanzee's kidneys transplanted to a 43-year-old man functioned for two months, a Tulane University medical team reported today in the current Journal of the American Medical Association.

The transplantation of kidneys from a 90-pound male chimpanzee took place on Nov. 5, 1963. The patient died with pneumonia Jan. 6, 1964.

The transplant was described by Keith Reemtsma, M.D., Brian H. McCracken, M.D., Jorgen U. Schlegel, M.D., Maurice A. Pearl, M.D., Charles W. DeWitt, Ph.D., and Oscar Creech Jr., M.D., New Orleans.

Immediate function of the graft was satisfactory, they said. Two episodes of threatened graft rejection were overcome and at death, there was no evidence of rejection, they pointed out.

The body's natural resistance to foreign tissue is a major problem involved in transplanting organs between unrelated persons or between animals and man.

This case presents evidence that the early graft - rejection phase following a chimp-to-man kidney transplant may be reversed, the authors concluded.

The operation was the second of five mentioned in the report in which animal kidneys were transplanted to human beings by the Tulane group. In the first case, the graft showed good function initially but later failed. The transplants in three subsequent patients, not described in detail, show "satisfactory function," according to the report.

Attempts to transplant animal kidneys to man early in this century produced no convincing evidence of graft function, the authors commented. However, they said, much of the pessimism associated with animal grafts was based on skin graft-dicies, and it seemed unwarring studies in widely disparate species, and it seemed unwarranted to apply these findings to kidney transplants among primates, including man.

The decision to re-explore animal-to-man transplantation was prompted, in part, by a certain urgency, the authors explained.

The patients awaiting transplantation could not be maintained indefinitely by artificial kidney techniques, they said, and in some instances, suitable human kidneys could not be obtained from deceased or volunteer donors.

In the case reported, the patient had had high blood pressure since 1957. In June, 1963, he was hospitalized with progressive kidney disease, anemia, high blood pressure, an enlarged heart and water in the lungs. Artificial means were used repeatedly to perform the work of the kidneys.

The use of a transplant from a chimpanzee was discussed with the patient and he consented to this procedure, according to the report.

The donor kidneys were implanted in the right groin area and connected to the iliac artery and vein. The patient's own kidneys were not removed, although they did not function after the operation.

The first threatened rejection occurred four days after the transplantation. With drug and radiation treatment, the patient improved within 24 hours and he was able to walk and eat a regular diet.

During the third week after the operation a milder rejection threatened. Following treatment, the patient again improved. At the start of the fifth postoperative week, the patient was on a regular diet, but he was readmitted to the hospital on Dec. 20 with pneumonia.

Robert Kennedy 'Discourages' Veep Campaign

By HARRY KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy is suddenly trying to put the brakes on a fast-moving drive to press him forward as President Johnson's running mate in November.

Described as genuinely surprised at the campaign's momentum, Kennedy issued a statement through a spokesman Thursday saying he wishes "to discourage any efforts on his behalf in New Hampshire or elsewhere."

The vice presidential choice, he said, should be left to Johnson and the Democratic convention. He did not say whether he would accept second place on the ticket if it were offered.

The statement came in the wake of reports Kennedy and his advisers were favoring a write-in campaign for him in the March 10 New Hampshire primary.

When Kennedy returned from a trip to the Far East last month, an associate said, he was surprised to find he was seriously being considered by the public and press as a vice presidential candidate.

It was understood he had decided to issue the statement Thursday because he felt the groundswell was mushrooming.

Previously Kennedy had declared he had no plans beyond remaining as attorney general, at least until after the election. He also had said he felt it would be premature to say if he would be willing to run as vice president when he hadn't been asked.

"The attorney general therefore, wishes to discourage any efforts in his behalf in New Hampshire and elsewhere."

In New Hampshire, State Democratic Chairman J. Murray Devine, who supported the write-in effort, said of Kennedy's statement: "It's his name, and it shouldn't be used if he doesn't want it to be. We should let him decide about the use of his name."

Beer Firm Under New Ownership

FLORENCE—Fabrizio Brothers, distributors of Coors beer and one of the oldest bottling firms in Colorado, has been purchased by Jack and Frances Pedotto of Welby, Colo. The firm will now be known as J&F Sales Co.

The announcement was made by the Adolph Coors Co., of Denver and by J. J. and Michael Fabrizio of Florence.

Pedotto, who arrived in Florence last week to begin his new duties here, reported that the transaction became effective March 1.

An employe of the C & H Sales Co. of Lakewood, also a Coors distributor, for the past seven years, Pedotto is a graduate of Regis High School in Denver and served a year in the army. He was a member of the national guard from 1953 to 1961.

Pedotto and his wife, Frances, are the parents of six children, David, 8; Jack, 7; Donna, 5; Dan, 3; Jo Ann, 2, and Jeff, 1. Mrs. Pedotto and children will move to Fremont County to make their home after June 1.

In selling their business here, John and Mike Fabrizio end a family operation which began with Michael Fabrizio, Sr., back in 1909 at Coal Creek when that community was a booming mining town. At that time the business was known as M. Fabrizio & Sons.

The Fabrizio family started out bottling "soda pop" in the days before the patented crown cork. Later the firm had plants in Florence and Canon City with delivery made by horse and wagon.

The business continued to expand until in 1921 the bottling plant was moved to Florence. In that year the firm was issued a franchise to bottle Coca-Cola and during the first year Fabrizio Brothers bottled 600 cases.

By 1949 the firm was bottling slightly over 60,000 cases of Coca-Cola and 30,000 cases of soda water, which was then known as Fabrizio's Famous Flavors.

In 1950 the company sold its Coca-Cola bottling company to devote full time to the distribution of Coors beer.

Fabrizio Brothers, one of the first Coors distributors in Colorado, marked their 30th anniversary with the Adolph Coors plant in Denver on April 7, 1963.

The local Coors distributing agency has for many years serviced customers in Fremont, Custer, and Chaffes counties. Since 1951 Fabrizio Brothers has had a large warehouse in Salida and in 1959 a new warehouse was built in that community.

J. J. Fabrizio, who has been active in Florence community functions for many years, has been in ill health recently and will retire from the business scene. Mike Fabrizio's plans, however, are indefinite.

BIG YANKEE TURNOVER

NEW YORK (AP) — Only two pitchers, two outfielders, one infielder and one catcher from the 1957 Yankee roster are still with the team.

They are pitchers Whitey Ford and Ralph Terry, catcher-out-fielder John Blanchard, second baseman Bobby Richardson and outfielders Mickey Mantle and Elston Howard. Howard, now strictly a catcher, was the American League's most valuable player last year.

Terry was traded to Kansas City in mid-1957 but was regained by the Yankees in a trade 23 months later.

McNamara Goes To Viet Nam For Fresh Look

By MALCOLM W. BROWNE

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara is on his way to Saigon for a fresh look at the war in Viet Nam, hoping to determine what can be done to reverse the tide of communist successes.

Accompanied by Gen. Maxwell D. Taylor, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, McNamara left Washington by jet last week on his fourth fact-finding mission to Viet Nam. He was to stop en route in Hawaii. told newsmen the situation in Viet Nam was grave and that new and heavier weapons, "obviously of Chinese manufacture," had been captured from the guerrillas. He mentioned heavy-duty machine guns, more sophisticated mines and 75mm recoilless artillery.

"There has been evidence that in the last six months North Vietnamese support of the Communist Viet Cong has increased," McNamara said.

One of the topics McNamara may raise in talks with Premier Maj. Gen. Nguyen Khanh is whether to carry the war to North Viet Nam soil. The proposal has advocates in Saigon and Washington.

McNamara declined to discuss such a tactic, except to refer to statements by President Johnson and Secretary of State Dean Rusk discounting the possibility of an assault on the north.

Khanh said Thursday in a statement "the best defense is offense" but added: "The escalation of the war to include North Viet Nam is a matter of the greatest importance, and therefore not one to which I can give a 'yes' or 'no' answer at this time."

Khanh said he has evidence Red Chinese advisers are serving with the guerrillas but did not elaborate.

In a Pentagon statement, McNamara called his trip "a further affirmation of the U.S. commitment to furnish whatever economic aid and military training and logistical support is needed by the South Vietnamese to suppress this insurgency, and to continue to do so for whatever period is required."

During the news conference, however, McNamara appeared to be sticking to his earlier intention to pull out most of the 15,500 U.S. military advisers in Viet Nam by the end of next year.

Explaining that U.S. policy is to train the South Vietnamese to handle their own defense, McNamara said: "I think that the American people should expect us to conclude our training in a reasonable time."

He said several hundred men would be withdrawn before too long.

In his talks with Khanh, Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and the U.S. commander, Gen. Paul D. Harkins, McNamara said he also will seek recommendations on whether to withdraw some 700 American wives, children and other dependents from Saigon. The Communists have made Americans the target of a rash of bombings in recent weeks.

McNamara said the Communists had profited from South Viet Nam's two changes in government since last November. He added the problem in Viet Nam could not be solved with a purely military solution — it is "very clearly a political, economic and military program."

CU Receives $3,500 Graduate Fellowship Award

The University of Colorado has received $3,500 from the Continental Oil Company to support a graduate fellowship in chemical engineering in 1964-65.

The grand is part of Conoco's ninth annual financial aid to education program. Total for the 1964-65 academic year is more than $280,000.

Announcement of the fellowship was made by L. F. McCollum, Conoco president, who added CU also is in line to receive a scholarship grant worth up to $750 for outstanding undergraduates.

Recipient of the Conoco fellowship will be announced later this spring, Dean Max S. Peters of the CU College of Engineering said.

Basketball Coach Ray Mears of the University of Tennessee team went to the Knoxville school after a winning record as coach of Wittenberg College in Springfield, Ohio.

BUZZ MEREDITH TO DIRECT TWO PLAYS IN NEW YORK

By HEDDA HOPPER

HOLLYWOOD — Burgess Meredith left for New York, after doing two Rawhide TV shows, to direct two plays, James Baldwin's "News for Mr. Charlie" and "Luv," with Eli Wallace. During his visit here Allan Scott gave Burgess a movie script, "Three Sides of the Coin," and asked him to read it with an eye to directing it with Ginger Rogers. At Chasen's the same night, he saw Ginger who asked, "Did you read it?" "Just got it," Buzz said. "Read it," said Ginger, "it's good." Burgess was amazed at the way she looks — great!

I asked what he thought of John Huston's copping the acting honors for their picture, "The Cardinal," when it was Merideth who had the death scene. "Well," he said, "I thought I was pretty good, but as Huston said, 'You died and I followed with a few choice words, so who do you think they'll remember?' " Buzz is looking forward to another go with Diretcor Otto Preminger in "In Harm's Way."

When I saw Bob Redford on the stage in "Barefoot in the Park," I knew he was headed for something big in Hollwyood. It may be that he'll co-star with Natalie Wood in "Inside Daisy Clover," for Alan Pakula and Bob Mulligan this summer. Pakula tells me they've been talking with him, and it's a lead-pipe cinch that no actor will turn down a chance to be in one of their films. Gavin Lambert is doing the script from his novel about a little girl who becomes a movie star at 15. Could be Natalie's life.

I asked Pakula if his star would marry Arthur Loew Jr., before or after the film. "I'm just a producer — not a marraige counselor," he said. Pakula and Hope Lange honeymooned in Frenchman's Cove, Jamaca. Their butler worked for Errol Flynn a couple of years and was mad about the guy. Everybody on the island said wonderful things about Flynn.

Hattie McDaniel is our 18th Academy award winner to be waxed for the Movieland Wax museum.

Eleanor Parker, who makes too few movies to suit me, returns to the screen playing the beautifull baroness in "Sound of Music," with Julie Andrews, Christopher Plummer, and Peggy Wood.

Allen Drury, of "Advise and Consent," told Henrietta Jelm he's buying a home in Marin county, California. Loves the view.

A Cary Grant fan disagrees with me that when a man's hair is tinged with gray he should refrain from playing romantic roles. She said: "Cary's hair has turned silver, but he hasn't lost his touch in the fine art of making love. Some of those adolescent twerps on the screen could take lessons from him."

Orry-Kelly's many friends, among them Katharine Hapburn, Billy Wilder, George Cukor, Norman Taurog, Joan Blondell, Frances Marion, Billy Haines, Edith Head, Mrs. Greg Bautzer, and Tony Curtis were deeply touched by Jack Warner's eulogy to the famous designer. Studios' heads are generally regarded as pretty cold-hearted with little concern for their employes, but Warner's words put the lie to that: "There's one thing I'm sure of. Orry would want me to be as honest as possible. He might even want me to make a crack or two, but I can't think of any. He was a man of many talents. A talent for living, for giving, for making people and the world look more beautiful. You always knew where you stood with him. He looked you square in the eye and gave lip service to no one. In his work, his enthusiasm was contagious. It made the greats he worked with greater. He did the things he wanted to do; said the things he wanted to say. Lady Mendl, an old friend of Orry's once told me that knowing Orry inspired her to coin a phrase — 'Never explain, never complain.' "

Rocky Steps Into Closing Campaign Days

By ROBERT T. GRAY

DOVER, N.H. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's differences with his chief opponent in the New Hampshire presidential primary were sharpened today as he moved into the closing days of his campaign.

The New York governor said Sen. Barry Goldwater "is not in the main stream of Republican thinking."

Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, two undeclared candidates in the primary, are not contributing fully to the campaign because they have not participated in its discussions or debates, Rockefeller said.

The presidential hopeful headed toward the end of his New Hampshire campaign with an intensive round of sidewalk campaigning, speech making, and rallies.

His comments on the other Republicans who figure prominently in the primary came in response to questions at a dinner-rally attended by some 700 Thursday night in Dover.

The Rockefeller campaign will end on Monday night, the eve of the nation's first primary.

The last major rally will be Saturday night in Manchester. In addition to Rockefeller, the personalities participating will include such celebrities as Dave Garroway, Troy Donahue and Connie Stevens.

Mrs. Rockefeller willjoin the governor for that event.

In other comment at Thursday night's rally, Rockefeller said he would hate to see voters distracted by the Bobby Baker case in the 1964 presidential campaign when there are "so many important issues that really affect our security and our well being."

The governor said the U.S. Senate and the U.S. Justice Department should make a full investigation of Baker, former secretary to the Democratic majority of the Senate and now target of a wide range of probes concerning his private financial affairs.

Rockefeller said the 1964 campaign should deal with such issues as job opportunities, social security, education and communism.

"I would hate to see the political campaign sidetracked on the lines of a Bobby Baker case when so many important things that affect America's future and the well being of the American people remain to be discussed."

In a wide range of activity Thursday, the governor received endorsements from Mayor Timothy J. Connors of Portsmouth and the mayor's predecessor, John J. Wholey.

Wholey said that Rockefeller was "the only candidate who talks the way I think," and Connors said he supported Wholey's appraisal.

One of the easiest things to postpone is the making of your will. You have spent your lifetime accumulating property for the benefit of yourself and your family. If you postpone the few hours necessary to plan and work out your will with your attorney, you can undo these years of work, because you have failed to complete the job.

Your Will in Colorado. In almost every case, persons moving into a new state should revise the estate plans which they have previously made. If you have moved to Colorado, there are reasons why you should review your will and other estate arrangements:

(1) The laws of the state where you previously lived may differ from those of Colorado both as to the validity of your will and as to the interpretation which will be placed upon its provisions.

(2) If the witnesses to your will are not residents of this state, they would have to come to Colorado to prove your will, or their depositions would have to be taken, or they may be difficult to locate. This would add to the cost of settling your estate. It may also delay the administration of your estate at a time when your family might be in serious need of the benefits which your will bestows upon them.

(3) You may also have named as the executor of your will someone who is not a resident of Colorado — leading to probable further delay and expense.

(4) Each state has its own tax laws dealing with property passing by will. It may be advisable to examine the effect of Colorado inheritance tax laws on your will made in another state.

We strongly recommend that you have your will rewritten by a Colorado attorney as soon as possible to make sure that your family will be protected and that your estate will be spared unnecessary expense and delay in probate proceedings.

The Trust Department of The FIRST NATIONAL BANK will be pleased to make an appointment to discuss the administration of your estate in Colorado. Our telephone operator (635-3531) will connect you with a trust officer, or if you are in the bank any of our people will make an immediate appointment for you.

Rocky Attempts Grass Roots Move in Drive

BY ROBERT T. GRAY

NASHUA, N.H. (AP)—A closing spurt of grass roots, person-to-person campaigning marked the final weekend of Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's long drive to win the New Hampshire presidential preference primary.

Rockefeller, accompanied by his wife, concentrated on the population centers of southern New Hampshire for the closing days of the campaign.

The New York governor's strategists are counting on drawing substantial support from this part of the state. The small towns and rural areas of the north are expected to lean toward Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona.

The schedule today listed a breakfast rally, meetings with voters at Holis, Amherst and Candia and a final rally tonight in Manchester.

Mrs. Rockefeller joined the Republican governor Friday arriving ahead of schedule. Instead of meeting him in Nashua as planned, she went by car to Derry and surprised him as he was greeting clerks in a dress shop.

Rockefeller kissed her and exclaimed: "Sweetie, where did you come from?"

The couple attended a rally Friday night in nearby Hudson. An audience of about 450 heard him repeat what have become the basic statements of his campaign—criticism of Johnson as unable to provide leadership and of Goldwater as offering unrealistic solutions to problems.

Earlier, the governor shook hundreds of hands along sidewalks in several communities, was kissed by seven women workers as he toured a shoe factory in Seabrook, and told a well-wisher in Hampton that "things are looking better."

Music Draws Blood At One Concert

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—Maybe the music at the Stockholm Modern Museum Friday night didn't stir the soul, but part of the performance drew blood.

The occasion was a concert given by modernistic pianist and magician Karl-Erik Welin.

In his final number, "Rendezvous," he sought to depict the ineffectiveness of the conventional instrument for displaying the artist's creative force.

Welin drove an iron lever into the piano, he sat down on the lid, chiselled it open, let a firecracker explode in it, and bored a hole in the keyboard lid. Then he went to work on the wreck of the piano with a power saw.

The croud gasped as one of his trouser legs was ripped by the spinning saw blade. Welin suffered a deep cut in his leg, but carried on to the final note of his performance. Then he disappeared briefly, returned in a red bathrobe with his initials in white on the back and got an ovation.

To conclude the evening, Welin went to a hospital to get his leg repaired.

Barbara Loden Took Long Road To Stardom

By DICK KLEINER

NEW YORK (NEA) — It is sometimes hard to tell where Barbara Loden begins and Marilyn Monroe leaves off.

They don't look alike, although there are those who think Miss Loden's slimmer, trimmer figure has more appeal than Miss Monroe's ever had. Facially, there may be less resemblance. Miss Loden's eyes are like Diana Lynn's, her mouth like Carol Channing's and her wide nose is clearly exclusive with her.

But, in their approach to life, in their philosophy, in their desire to move up life's social and intellectual ladder, they are startingly alike.

No one might have ever noticed the similarity, except that Barbara Loden has become a star in ""After the Fall." This is Arthur Miller's new play. It is frankly autobiographical, and most of the second act deals with Miller's relationship with the tragic Marilyn Monroe. Miss Loden plays a character, called Maggie in the play, who quite obviously represents Miss Monroe.

"I never knew Marilyn," says Miss Loden. "And I never really had read much about her—fortunately. I say fortunately because I don't think I could have played the part if I knew her or knew much about her."

But audiences gasp as Miss Loden, as Maggie, goes through her bag of tricks. The gorgeous figure, platinum hair ("I look best as a blonde," says Miss Loden, "which is why I'm a blonde"), the innocent sexiness, the little girl speech, mannerisms, the provocative wiggle, the baby blue-eyed stare—those are the trademarks of Marilyn Monroe as we remember her, and of Maggie as we see her in "After the Fall."

The tortures Maggie goes through are the tortures Miss Monroe went through.

Miss Loden claims that there is a little actual similarity between herself and Miss Monroe.

"But I understand her so well," she says.

And, the more the actress talks, the greater the similarity appears:

Both had an unhappy childhood, although there were differences.

Both suffered from inferiority complexes.

Both had, in varying degrees, the urge to destory themselves.

Both aspired to be "somebody."

It is in the area of their differences, however, that Miss Loden finds her salvation. And she appears to have achieved peace of mind.

The chief difference is one of preparedness. When Marilyn Monroe became the world's sex symbol, she was prepared only from a physical standpoint. She had the fame, but not the training to sustain that fame.

"I am prepared," says Barbara Loden. "I've had years of training. For five years, I was a classroom actress—I didn't have the nerve to act, but I kept on going to classes. I made a living of sorts doing cheesecake modeling."

Now that she has become famous, she has the skills to accept that fame and move forward.

And, from a personal standpoint, she has something that Marilyn Monroe was never able to achieve—Barbara Loden has two children, a solid, 11-year-old marriage, a husband she apparently loves and who apparently loves her.

"And those things can be the difference between greatness and self-destruction.

"I always wanted children," says Barbara Loden, who has two little boys now. "But I never wanted to get married. I disapproved of marriage."

Her disapproval was based on seeing what the institution of marriage had done to her. It had made her a terribly unhappy child, and she almost never recovered from her poor start.

Barbara Loden is the child of a broken home. As a little girl she lived on a farm near Marion, N.C., with her grandmother. Her mother was working in another town. Her father lived somewhere else. Her brother was sent away to school. She had no friends her own age.

"I spent most of my childhood," she says, "hiding behind the stove."

By the time she went to high school, in Asheville, ("Thomas Wolfe came from there and he hated it, too.") she had developed a natural urge to belong. But this urge had pushed her off into unnatural directions.

"I wore too much make-up," she says, "and my clothes were too tight. I know they all thought I was cheap. I was socially unacceptable, and nobody liked me. But I wasn't cheap. I just tried to be like the poeple in the movies I admired."

She knew only one thing: she had to come to New York and become a star. To her, New York was a magical place. she would step off the train and everything would be all right.

After high school, she took some money she got after she was in an automobile accident and bought a railroad ticket. New York was an improvement, but it wasn't magical.

She had no thoughts that she could ever be an actress; she thought of herself as a hillbilly who couldn't talk very well and didn't know anything. So she aimed at modeling.

For several years, she supported herself by posing for illustrations in true romances and detective magazines, by doing cheesecake modeling. She was a Copa girl forl a while. She got a job on the late Ernie Kovac's New York show, walking around in a bathing suit. She thinks that everybody called her "Dumb Barbara" in those days.

"One day I went to a party," she says, "and I ran into another room and just cried. Lawrence Joachim (he is now her husband) came in to comfort me and he asked what was wrong. I said, 'I just don't know anything.' In the play, Maggie says, 'I wish I knew something.' I sure know how she feels."

Joachim, now a film producer and distributor, built up her confidence. She says he gave her "a sense of values."

She decided she wanted to be an actress, but she says her self-destructive urge forced her to do "everything possible" to prevent myself from becoming an actress. She was late to or completely missed appointments, she didn't study, she never really tried.

But Elia Kazan gave her a small part in his movie, "Wild River"—she says it was because it was shot in Tennessee and she came from near there and talked like it. This led to a small but flashy part in "Splendor in the Grass" and, ultimately, to "After the Fall" and a permanent spot in the Lincoln Center Repertory Theater.

Gradually, the girl who hid behind the stove had come out of her shell. She still thinks she is inarticulate, sneers at her own speech patterns ("I always say 'tin cints' or 'inythin' ' "), is far from convinced that she is worth looking at.

"But," she says with the air of someone who has done something marvelous, "the other day I talked back to a waiter."

President's News Conference

WASHINGTON (AP)—A partial text of President Johnson's news conference Saturday follows:

President Johnson: I have a brief statement on the economy. I am very pleased by the early reaction to the tax cut and to the outlook for the economy in general. Mail to the White House has been running about ten to one in support of the tax cut.

The Department of Labor's report on unemployment yesterday was quite encouraging. Both total employment and the labor force are up more than seasonal. This is the buoyancy of the tax cut, the expectation effect, and I think it is making itself felt. The unemployment rate dropped in February to the lowest level since 1962, and is at its lowest level at any time in this expansion period.

New figures on business intentions to invest in plant and equipment will be released this week. They will confirm a very solid increase. Those figures will be released Tuesday and I cannot comment beyond the fact that they confirm rising business optimism and I think will be more than twice the amount of the increase of last year.

The price news continues to be reassuring. The Dow Jones index of industrial stocks was 711 on November 22, and it was 806 yesterday.

The previous numbers given were composites of all stocks and the increase in value of those stocks was approximately $45 billion. There the revised consumers price index last week was only one tenth of one percent above December. Weekly indicators suggest that wholesale prices may have declined a bit in February. Businessmen have felt the investment intentions but don't seem to be increasing on the price side.

I think that I should say that I have accepted the invitation of the three national television networks to appear in an informal conversation with the President, reviewing the first 100 days of the administration, next Sunday, March 15. The program will be taped, in my office, on Saturday afternoon. The format and the ground rules will be similar to those set up by President Kennedy's conversations with the networks in 1962, and his projected conversation with them in 1963. The networks will announce the time they will show the program on Monday, March 9.

Q. Mr. President, Soviet officials have told an American delegation that they would like to sign a long term trade agreement with the United States. Do you favor more wheat sales to the Soviet Union, and do you favor a long term trade agreement with the U.S.S.R?

A. We would be very happy to explore that possibility with them. I know of few things that the Soviet Union has that we are in need of, but it is a matter that we would be glad to pursue.

Q. Mr. President, do you think it is appropriate to test public sentiment for potential vice presidential nominees in party primaries?

A. I think that that is a proper subject for people to pass upon. I think that that is one of the reasons we have primaries, to ascertain the sentiment of the public.

Q. Mr. President, having been a busy vice president yourself, and succeeding to the presidency, would you favor a constitutional amendment as soon as possible for two vice presidents?

A. That is a matter that is being studied by the Senate committee at this time. I would not make such a recommendation. A constitutional amendment would not be something the President would pass upon.

Q. Mr. President, speaking of vice presidents, among those whom you might consider acceptable and qualified for the job, how would you rate Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy?

A. I would rate all of the people who have been mentioned for vice president very highly. I think that they are all leading Democrats, all good citizens, and as the attorney general has, have established a very fine record of public service.

Q. Mr. President, your civil rights bill begins in the Senate on Monday. Would you care to assess the changes and how you think it will do?

A. I think that we have passed a good civil rights bill in the House. I hope that same bill will be passed in the Senate.

Q. Mr. President, Gov. Rockefeller said this week that he thought in view of the relations between France and the United States today it would be a good idea for you to meet with Gen. de Gaulle. I would like to ask you first whether you have been in any communications with President de Gaulle, and, secondly, whether you think such a meeting would be worthwhile at this time?

A. Yes, I have been in communications with Gen. de Gaulle. I met with Gen. de Gaulle on two occasions since I became President. I would be very happy to meet Gen. de Gaulle any time it can be appropriately arranged, satisfactory to both persons, and if there is anything at all that can be worked out. We want to believe that there are no irreconcilable differences between us, and we believe when the chips are down we will all be together.

Q. Mr. President, may I refer back to civil rights for just a minute, sir? Could you say how long you think the battle in the Senate may take, and whether you can win it without having to allow the bill to be either weakened or strengthened?

A. I think that the leadership can best assess that. I believe that there are senators who feel very strongly, both pro and con, and they will be given adequate opportunity to express themselves. Then, I believe the majority of the Senate will have an opportunity to work its will.

Q. Mr. President, more and more Republicans are hammering away at the administration's policy in Viet Nam. These Republicans claim that the administration's policy is confused and uncertain, and that the administration is deliberately hiding the facts. What do you say to these charges?

A. I am not aware of anything that we are hiding. I don't want to get into any debates on the basis of a partisanship or membership in any party. We have had the problem of Viet Nam for some time, in both administrations.

Q. Mr. President, sir, a spokesman for Henry Cabot Lodge today said that Mr. Lodge would be entered in the Oregon primary, and they are pushing his name in New Hampshire. Have you heard anything from the ambassador about whether he may be leaving his post, or do you think he can continue to serve, if he becomes a candidate.

A. I have heard nothing from the ambassador about any intention to leave. I have every reason to believe that if he had any plans, he would make them known.

Q. Mr. President, in your letter to Soviet Premier Khrushchev on Wednesday regarding Cyprus, you mentioned basic misunderstandings. Because of this misunderstanding and others, would a personal meeting between you and Khrushchev be desirable at this point?

A. I think that we are in adequate communication with each other. I would be very happy to see the chairman when it is indicated that there are any things that we can explore that would be helpful. I know of no reason for such a meeting at this time.

Q. Mr. President, in connection with your announcement concerning various diseases, since the U.S. Public Health Service has so strongly condemned the use of tobacco as a health hazard, do you see any justification at all for continued government subsidy to tobacco growers?

A. I don't think that the report has been made a government report as yet. I understand this committee that was appointed by the surgeon general with the understanding that when they made their recommendations, that report woul be submitted to all the departments of government concerned and that would be the procedure followed. They, in turn would carefully digest and study its recommendations and then make the recommendations back to the secretary of health, education, and welfare.

Q. Mr. President, in talking to a group of senior citizens about medicare, you made this statement: "We are going to try to take all of the money that we think is unnecessarily being spent and take it from the haves and give it to the have-nots that need it so much." I just wondered if you could elaborate, sir.

A. I think that explains itself. We have taken about $3 billion out of the budget as constituted last year, $98.8 billion. We reduced that budget by about $3 billion, by cutting $1.1 billion out of defense, almost $1 billion out of agriculture, and almost $100 million out of the post office, 150 out of atomic energy and so forth. We reduced it $3 billion. We thought that all of those reductions could be made. They had appropriations for them last year. We are not asking for appropriations for them this year. So we will save $3 billion there.

But we are asking for an additional $2 billion to be put in the budget. Roughly, that is $400 million extra interest rate on the public debt, $600 million for space; that is a billion. Then we have the poverty program and the Appalachia program, roughly a half million dollars, $300 million extra for education, 75 for urban renewal, 75 for public housing, and we expect those programs to have money this year taken from those programs that we did not ask for money that they had last year. We expect the total budget to be a little less than a billion dollars less than the Kennedy budget of last year. That is possible, we think, because $17 billion was spent on defense needs during the three years of the Kennedy administration that we do not think is essential today.

While the population has been increasing between two and three percent, our budget has been increasing approximately five percent or $5 billion per year. This year, instead of increasing $5 billion, it is going to be reduced $1 billion. This year, instead of our deficit being $10 billion, it is going to be less than $5 billion. We are determined, and this administration is dedicated to see to it, that we live within the buuget sent to Congress.

Q. Mr. President, going back to an earlier question, what is your reaction to the suggestion by Gen. Eisenhower that whenever the vacancy occurs in the vice presidency, that the President recommend a successor and the Congress act on that?

A. I haven't studied Gen Eisenhower's proposal or suggestions. That is a matter that that would involve a constitutional amendment. The President is not called upon to approve constitutional amendments.

Q. Mr. President, Sen. Goldwater has charged that our long-range missiles are not reliable. What is your comment on that charge?

A. I don't agree with Sen. Goldwater.

Q. Mr. President, earlier this week, Secretary of Defense McNamara said that there is evidence that the North Vietnamese are introducing heavier weapons into the fighting, which would indicate larger scale and more organized campaigns. Will this development affect in any way your plans to withdraw American troops gradually and turn over more of the fighting to the South Vietnamese?

A. I don't think that the American public has fully understood the reason for our withdrawing any advisors from South Viet Nam, and I think they should. We have called back approximately 1,000 people. A good many of those people, several hundred, were there training guards, policemen. Once those people were trained, we felt that they could act as well as policemen as our people could act. So, we withdrew those people.

From time to time, as our training mission is completed, other people will be withdrawn. From time to time, as additional advisors are needed, or as people to train additional Vietnamese are needed, we will send them out there. But we see no reason to keep the companies of M.P.'s out there, after they have already trained the Vietnamese who can perform the duties equally as well.

I think that a good deal will depend on what Secretary McNamara advises concerning who is withdrawn, when they are withdrawn, and who is sent out, and when they are sent out.

Q. Mr. President, in view of the economic picture you described at the beginning of this conference and the British action in raising their interest rates, do you see any prospect of American interest rates going up this year?

A. We are hoping that that will not be necessary. We believe it is unlikely. We think that to do so might offset some of the advantages that have come from the tax bill.

I DON'T BELIEVE IT'S ALL VANITY AND PRIDE

I believe: 1. People do not realize how deaf they really are. 2. They do not realize how much a hearing instrument will help them. 3. They do not know how inconspicuous a hearing aid can be. 4. They, or a friend, were previously improperly fitted for a hearing instrument. 5. They do not know of the great advancements even in the last few months, in hearing instruments.

If any of these reasons are causing you to hesitate, remember, deafness is never so obvious as when a hearing aid is NOT worn. It's so easy to find out if it will help. Call or come in, no obligation.

Ancient Reptiles Do Not Startle New Yorkers

NEW YORK (UPI) — Pedestrians and motorists in usually blase Brooklyn have been stunned on several occasions recently while turning a corner of bustling Flatbush Avenue by an array of strange - looking creatures that appeared to have magically emerged onto the sidewalk out of the dark past.

Actually, as the more inquisitive passersby have learned, the figures are as harmless as papier mache and their presence is something New Yorkers will have to get used to between now and April 22, when the 1964-65 New York World's Fair opens.

Papier mache is, in fact, what the figures are made of. The times in history they represent are as much as 1.5 million years apart and they range from prehistoric animals to 20th century man. The public will see them formally in the "Triumph of Man" exhibit, a pavilion being built by The Travelers Insurance Companies to give World's Fair visitors an 18-minute tour through some of the weightiest crises that man has survived.

Building the historical figures to the minute detail established by one of the world's noted anthropologists was the challenging assignment given a Brooklyn firm called Display Enterprises. Co-owner of the company is Paul Goranson, renowned Canadian artist who has designed papier mache figures ranging from the world's largest Santa Claus to props for the Perry Como TV show.

Goranson, a portrait artist and muralist, turned to the display field 10 years ago because he felt that, as a career, it embraced almost every aspect of art endeavor. He said the Travelers' World's Fair project, consisting of approximately 500 figures, is the kind of undertaking that makes the business so fascinating.

The figures include Stone Age hunters, the savage horde of Hun warriors who crumbled the Roman Empire, the black corpses that littered Europe during the Bubonic Plague, early American pioneers, Civil War soldiers and many others, all precise in every detail.

Goranson spends considerable time on the design of the figures and, once approved by a special consultant from the Museum of Natural History, each drawing is done to full size. A metal armature is then cast to form the basic shape, followed by the addition of a chicken-wire form. The molds for the head, hands and feet of the figure are attached and the papier mache process begins. A special tissue paper is dipped in wallpaper paste and applied to layers which look very similar to muscle tissue. The surface is smoothed off by application of a heavy paper in narrow strips. Staff artists then paint the "skin" and other exposed parts of the anatomy and costumes are made.

Shipping the finished figures seems to present a problem but it's not always the shock effect they create on Flatbush Avenue.

"For example," Goranson said, "the Santa Claus was 46 feet high and it had to be sent to Cleveland. We solved that one by making it in threepieces, each of which required its own trailer truck."

Inquest Slated In Fatality In Plane Crash

ELKO, Nev. (AP) — An inquest will be held Tuesday into the airplane death of Austin Moody, 43, a Longmont, Colo. rancher.

Forest rangers and Leslie Sharp, a friend of Moody's, battled through snow drifts as deep as 10 to 12 feet Friday to reach the body and the wreckage of the pilot's twin-engined plane. The plane crashed near the top of Secret Peak in the Ruby Mountains east of Elko.

Sheriff J. C. Harris of Elko County said the body was badly burned. Identification was made from papers and a belt buckle.

Moody was flying from Longmont to San Francisco. He reported his position as 48 miles east of Elko Wednesday night, giving no indication of trouble. He was alone.

CU Professor Writing New Science Book

The next major breakthrough in theoretical physics probably will come from an as yet unknown young man who will explain why elementary particles exist, an eminent University of Colorado physicist predicts.

Prof. George Gamow, Cu's prolific physicist -writer - lecturer, who is observing his 60th birthday this week, lamented the lack of a fresh, important physics theory since the 1930's. At the same time he pointed out that experimentalists have been bombarding the scientific world with discoveries that strain the imagination.

Gamow recalled that it was early in the 1900's when Albert Einstein revealed his theory of relativity. Max Plank announced his quantum theory of light, Niels Bohr introduced his quantum theory of the atom, and Louis deBroglie, Erwin Schrodinger and Werner Heinsberg described new theories of wave mechanics, still used today. All were men in their mid-twenties.

Since then theorists have taken a back seat while experimentalists have moved ahead rapidly. Experimentalists using high powered accelerators have discovered a long list of elementary particles, verified a theory which led to the atomic bomb and made important discoveries in the field of extremely low temperatures.

In uncovering the long list of elementary particles, experimental physicists have learned one particle is heavier than the other, particles build up in a specific way, "but we don't know why," Gamow said.

"We've tried to explain them by their interactions. That's taking the second step first. Nothing is any good unless we explain why elementary particles exist.

"I hope to see somebody build a unique theory that will explain elementary particles before I pass on into the great beyond," Gamow confessed.

Historically, Gamow explained, most theoretical breakthroughs have come from men in their mid-twenties. "On one hand, they have learned enough physics, and, on the other, they are still brave enough to offer an astoundingly elementary, simple crazy looking theory.

"Such a person must have two things working for him: he must be gifted and he must have luck. Lacking one of these ingredients, nothing will happen," Gamow said.

"This is not to say today's theoretical physicists are of lower quality. But we are still using the wave mechanics theories of 36 years ago to batter the stone wall blocking our path. If a man makes a dent in it, he wins a Nobel Prize....but the wall is still there."

Gamow was born March 4, 1904 in Odessa Russia, holds undergraduate and Ph.D. degrees from the University of Leningrad, and although he left Russia in 1928, he still speaks with a thick Russian accent .

At 24 he gained fame for his theory explaining a phenomenon of natural radioactivity and shortly thereafter began writing and lecturing about physics so that the layman could understand.

So far he has written 18 "popular" books on science. He is working on another entitled, "The Thirty Years That Shook Physics," which outlines for the layman the history of quantum theory, a theory stating that energy is in the form of distinct packages called quanta. The book will cover the last "boom" in theoretical physics, 1900 through the 1930's.

Most of his books have been translated into many foreign languages, among them most European languages, Japanese, Persian and Arabic.

In 1956 he won the Kalinga Prize for his books popularizing science. The award is made annually by the United Nations Economic and Social Council (UNESCO).

He also wrote what he terms an "unpopular" book, a textbook on "The Constitution of the Atomic Nucleus and Radioactivity," which he has revised twice to encompass more material. He also is writing his second "unpopular" book, "Basic Theories of Modern Physics," based on lectures he is giving in classes at CU.

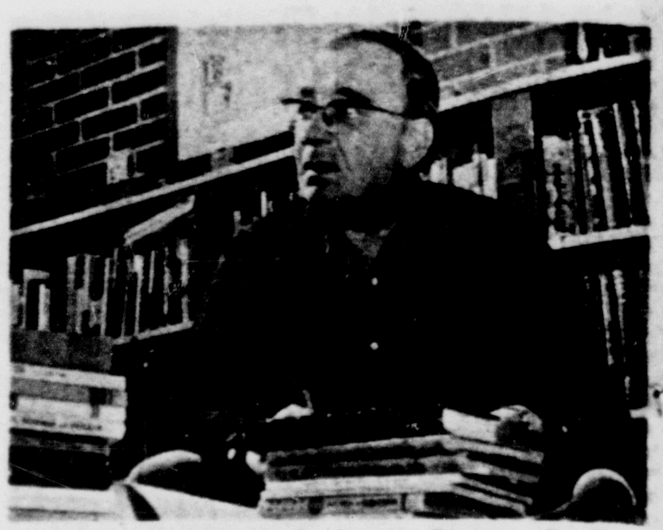
He is the author or co-author of numerous other scientific articles.

On the basis of his research Gamow was elected a member of the Soviet Academy of Sciences — a membership which was cancelled when he left Russia. He also is a member of the U.S. National Academy of Sciences and the Royal Danish Academy of Sciences.

Gamow came to the United States in 1933 as a summer lecturer at the University of Michigan. He remained here and taught at George Washington University, Washington, D.C. During World War II he was a consultant to the U.S. Navy Bureau of Ordnance, the Air Force Scientific Advisory Board and the Army Office of Operation Research.

Following the war, he divided his time between George Washington University and the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory, where he worked on the development of the H-bomb.

Gamow joined the CU faculty in 1956, where he has continued his research in nuclear astrophysics, cosmology and elementary particles. His recent research has carried him into the realm of biology, where he has published several papers on information storage and transfer in living cells. These papers proposed a "genetic code," an idea later confirmed by experiments in biochemical laboratories.



WRITING PAUSE—Prof. George Gamow, the University of Colorado's prolific physicist-writer-lecturer, paused this week in the midst of writing his latest book, "The Thirty Years That Shook Physics," to celebrate his 60th birthday. He is author of 18 books on science for the layman and a textbook. He received the Kalinga Prize in 1956 for his books popularizing science. The books surrounding him are the ones he wrote, translated into many different languages, among them Japanese, Persian and Arabic.

Pay Hike Not as Much As Was Requested

LOVELAND, Colo. (AP) — A pay raise was voted teachers Friday night in Loveland, Erie and Berthoud, but the raise was not as much as the public school teachers had sought.

The School District R2J board approved an increase in the pay of starting teachers from $4,500 to $4,700 and the top-grade maximum from $6,900 to $8,250.

Teachers had requested increases to $4,800 and $8,496.

A school board spokesman said the raises, effective next September, will cost taxpayers $90,000 next year.

TOTEM EYE-CATCHER—A 27-foot totem pole with a 12-foot wing-span, stands at the main gate of Wlmendorf Air Base, Alaska. The pole, among the biggest in the world, was carved by Capt. John Lane, who now dwells in Colorado Springs, but who, at the time of the carving, was stationed with the 10th Air Division at the Alaskan Base. Lane spent 1,800 hours of chopping, chiseling and chipping to complete the totem pole.

Local Resident Carves Alaskan Totem Pole

By A. L. SCHAFER

At the main gate of Elmendorf Air Force Base at Anchorage, Alaska, stands a 27-foot totem pole. It has a three-foot beak and a wing-span of 12 feet and is probably among the biggest totem poles in the world.

It is not uncommon for airmen to have their pictures taken beside the totem "that some Eskimo carved" and the pole was used to open the television program of Bob Hope's Christmas visit to the air base.

The "Eskimo" who carved the giant symbol and who now lives at 281 Everett Dr. with his wife and two sons, watched the program and was pleased to see that the pole has been so well cared for.

He is John E. "Tex" Lane, captain in the U. S. A. F. Reserve, and owner of Hydroponics of Colorado.

Then a lieutenant and flight safety officer of the 10th Air Division, stationed at Elmendorf, Lane undertook the project to keep people of the Alaskan Command safety conscious.

"It all started at a meeting of safety officers in 1954 and I was transmitting when I should have been receiving," Lane says. "We were looking for something to attract attention to safety. I told them I would make an eye-catcher befitting the grandeur of Alaska. I thought that, with power tools, it would be a cinch to chop out a few faces in a totem pole in nothing flat."

The idea was accepted and 40 men were detailed to move an old 40-foot power pole which had been used as a bench alongside the baseball diamond. They transported it to a vacant, heated building just as winter set in.

Lane began to work, but soon discovered, to his dismay, that power tools only chipped and splintered the brittle cedar and were useless for the job.

The carving would have to be done with hatchet, adz, saws, and mallets and chisels.

"I would have thrown the pole away right then, but couldn't find 40 men to help me," he says.

The ribbing started as his fellow flyers heard of the project, and this goaded "Tex" Lane on and on. . .hour after hour, night after night, for a year.

As he outlined the faces he wanted to carve, Lane discovered that the pole was lopsided and the heads could not be carved as he had planned. For a few hours on his own time, almost every night, into the Alaskan winter, he worked at the pole with a hatchet until it was a near-perfect cylinder.

Winter gave way to spring, and spring to summer, and wagers were made thruout the Command that Lane would never finish the totem pole.

Fall came and Lane knew that if he failed to complete the pole before another winter set in, it would have to wait until the ground thawed in the following spring. And the Air Force was pushing him for the space his pole had so long occupied.

Finally, in October 1955, after nearly 1,800 hours of chopping, chipping and chiseling, the totem was completed and painted. The wings, carved out of a three-by-twelve-foot beam, were slipped into place thru the pole and the beak was set into the face at the top.

The base's power department dug a deep hole and set the totem firmly into the ground. Flanking the totem pole were two smaller poles showing the monthly safety records of the squadrons.

"I had almost forgotten why I was carving the pole," John Lane says. "I'd begun to hate that thing and was obsessed with finishing it. It felt like a great burden had been lifted from my back when they finally tamped that last spadeful of dirt around the pole."

I'll never carve another," he says emphatically.

Broadmoor Barber Spends Lifetime Servicing VIP's

Adolph Stoltz, manager of the barber shop at The Broadmoor, has spent a lifetime giving shaves and haircuts to a V.I.P. clientele from around the world.

He has been at the Broadmoor 35 years and has watched the age of lavish living when he shaved many patrons in their rooms, change to the informality of today when even the most distinguished visitors come into the shop.

Adolph served the King of Siam when that country was still called Siam; he treasures a letter written to him by former Vice President Richard Nixon thanking him for his services; and he can say of Harry Truman, "I knew him when." He cut the former president's hair in Kansas City while Mr. Truman was still in the haberdashery business.

Adolph has had so many counts and barons in a lather he can't remember their names, but he vividly recalls Jack Dempsey, Babe Ruth, Douglas Fairbanks, Sr., Wallace Berry and Jack Benny.

Fairbanks vacationed in the Broadmoor in his swashbuckling days and women mobbed him in the lobby. Adolph says the only time the dashing actor could escape them was when he was under the hot towels in the barber shop.

Of all the celebrities he's met Adolph names Jack Dempsey as being the most interesting and likable. He describes him as "A real guy who kidded a lot but was always nice to everyone." He says Jack couldn't resist displaying his great strength, however, and when the porter held a match to light his cigar for him one day, Dempsey gripped his arm in the famed vise and wouldn't let go until the flame was perilously close to the porter's fingers.

Jack Benny pulled his usual "pinch penny" gag, complained he was broke and couldn't pay for his haircut, and then gave generous tips.

Adolph's Haircut Hall of Fame also includes Edsel Ford, Stan Musial, Lawrence Tibbett, James Melton, Gordon McRae (who enjoyed his stay in the barber shop so much he burst into song). Jimmie Stewart and many others. The late Clark Gable was a regular customer when he was stationed in the area during World War II. Adolph describes him as a "real gentleman."

When asked if he had trouble trimming the familiar mustache of Spencer Penrose, builder of The Broadmoor, to his satisfaction, Adolph replied, "Mr. Penrose was so particular about that mustache, he wouldn't let anyone touch it. He always trimmed and waxed it himself."

Adolph grew up on a farm near Watertown, South Dakota, moved with his parents to Lamar, Missouri, when he was 12 years old, and went to barber college in Kansas City after service in World War I. He was a heavy field artillery gunner with the 87th Division and saw action in France and the battle of the Argonne Woods.

Altho he has shaved governors from every state in the union and cut the hair of important people from every country in the world, Adolph gives the same careful attention to every customer who comes into the shop. His newly constructed shop located between the Broadmoor lobby and drugstore has the latest-in-everything equipment and the staff includes two other barbers, Don Laffey and Chuck Finimore, manicurist Dorothy Imhoff, and porter Earl White.

Goodwill Seeks Accreditation by National Group

A review of its program here so that it may become an accredited member of Goodwill Industries of America has been asked by the board of directors of Goodwill Industries of Colorado Springs.

The plan was begun by the national organization in 1961 as a means to improve local programs and to accredit only those organizations which reach certain standards.

Goodwill Industries is the first and only nation wide group of sheltered workshops to have a plan of accreditation available to its member organizations.

A. C. Erickson, president of the board of directors of the local group, said:

"This review of our program by Goodwill Industries of America will not only substantiate our performance as to prescribed standards but will afford us an opportunity to work in areas that may need improvement.".

Kenneth Olsen, local executive director, observed, "that of the 127 Goodwill Industries in the United States, 68 are currently accredited."

The following areas will be review for accreditation purposes: program of services to handicapped persons, organization and staff, financial recordings, appearance and cleanliness of the sheltered workshop and office premises, operations, and community relations.

Accreditation will be made in March. Two representatives of Goodwill Industries of America will be in Colorado Springs to make the review, Olson said.

Boy Is Strangled by Window Shade Cord

DENVER (AP)— A 4-year-old old boy strangled Friday when he became entangled in a window shade cord.

Police said the boy, Thomas N. Maestas, was found by his mother when she returned to the house after leaving to make a phone call. The mother, Mrs. Joe Maestas, released him and tried unsuccessfully to revive him with artificial respiration, she told police.

Jailbreak Keeps Ruby Trial in Day's Uproar

DALLAS (AP)—Seven prisoners staged a spectacular break from the Dallas County Jail Friday and terrorized a former strip-tease dancer who was about to testify in the Jack Ruby murder trial.

"Oh, my God, he's after me," cried 19-year-old Karen Lynn (Little Lynn) Bennett, as she saw an escapee brandishing what looked like a pistol.

Little Lynn, who worked for Ruby in his Carousel Club, is pregnant and several days overdue for birth.

Four men were recaptured shortly after the break about 3:30 p.m. The other three still were at large today.

The escape wrought shouting confusion in the hallway outside the courtroom where Ruby was on trial, but the session was not interrupted. Few inside were aware of the melee.

"Little Lynn" was being escorted to the women's room by Mrs. Melvin Belli, wife of the head defense lawyer, and Mrs. Rosemary Allen, a sheriff's deputy, when she saw an escapee with a pistol stuck in the back of a hostage, Mrs. Ruth Thornton.

Mrs. Allen shouted for help and then she and Mrs. Belli took "Little Lynn" into the protection of a stairwell, behind a steel door.

Lynn regained her composure after the excitement subsided, and was calm when she took the stand as a witness for the defense.

Sheriff Bill Decker said the escape began when seven prisoners pushed their way into an elevator as it stopped on the sixth floor near a table where the weekly soap ration was being distributed to prisoners and demanded to be taken to the second floor.

There they took the keys from the jailer operating the elevator and poured into the hallway that runs from 40 or 50 feet to the door of Judge Joe B. Brown's court, where Ruby is being tried for the murder of Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President Kennedy.

Two jailbreakers ran into Probate Court. One—Johnny R. Jenkins, 31—was captured by Burnell Hall and H.H. McKaye, administrative assistants to the probate judge.

The other man—who wielded a realistic pistol fashioned from soap, cardboard and pencil and painted black with shoe polisl — went into Probate Court. He shoved a pistol in the back of Mrs. Thornton, about 60, widow of a former district judge, and demanded: "Show me the way to get out of this place."

Mrs. Thornton said he told her he would not harm her if she showed him the way. "I said, 'Let's go,' " she related.

As the escapee and Mrs. Thornton moved toward Judge Brown's court and a stairway leading to the sidewalk, she told newsmen, deputies and spectators to "please step back... please stay back."

Outside, Deputy Sheriff Charles Player took the fake gun from the prisoner. Other deputies then overpowered him. The prisoner, C. David Gregory, 20, was held on armed robbery charges.

Apprehended shortly after the break in different parts of Dallas were Hershell Crocker, sentenced to life in prison for two robberies, and Tommy P. Calverley, 28, convicted of armed robbery. All four are from Dallas.

At large were Randolph R. Hudnall, 21, of West Palm Beach, Fla., being held for military authorities; Billy Ray Brock, 36, Dallas, sentenced to 15 years for robbery; and Leonard F. Driggers, 29, Dallas, in jail for alleged theft.

The EXCHANGE was only 24 years old when the Garden of the Gods was formally deeded to the city in 1912!

The Garden of the Gods, even in the 1800's, was a popular place on a Sunday afternoon for a picnic or a stroll. Charles E. Perkins, owner of the Garden of the Gods, left this property to his sons and daughters. The Perkins children, influenced by their father's wish, gave the Garden of the Gods to the city of Colorado Springs and formal ceremony of acceptance was held in October 1912. Much has been written in an effort to describe this rare sight and many pictures have been painted, but only a personal visit can capture the sight and feeling that this phenomenon imparts.

The Exchange National Bank was 24 years old at the time of the ceremony of acceptance of the Garden of the Gods and, like people, has changed over the years. The changes at The Exchange have been deliberate . . . and always geared to provide better service to customers. Banking facilities include personal and business checking accounts, saving accounts, trust services, safe deposit security, personal and business loans, and other important services. Visit The Exchange, where banking services are tailor-made to suit your needs. It's one-stop, "full-service" banking at The Exchange.

Salvation Army Praises Local Groups for Aid

The Salvation Army held its annual Advisory Board and Civic Recognition dinner meeting on Friday night in the Pike Room of the Antlers Hotel. More than a hundred were in attendance, representing business firms and supporters of the Salvation Army's work in the Pikes Peak region. Harold Whitney, chairman of the Advisory Board presided.

Harold Hawks, Vice-Mayor of Colorado Springs, paid tribute to the work of the Salvation Army in the City. "The importance of the Salvation's Army's spiritual and social welfare ministry becomes more evident as Colorado Springs continues to grow", he said. Dr. Kenneth Johnson, president of the Council of Churches, commended the corp of workers for their contribution to the spiritual and physical needs of those with whom the Salvation Army works.

The annual report of the 75th year of the Salvation Army in Colorado Springs was presented by Major W.J. Mahy, commanding officer of the Colorado Springs unit. In service to the transient during the year, 477 meals, 248 items of clothing and 109 nights of lodging were provided.

Service to families in the region included the provision of furniture, clothing and transportation to 540 needy people, and the filling of 171 food orders. In the Men's Social Service Center rehabilitation program for homeless men, 150 were given resident care under the direction of Major Charles W. Griffin, manager. 22,929 meals were served, and 983 items of clothing were provided to men at the Center. Dental, medical and optical aid was given to 122, and spiritual guidance was provided through 389 religious meetings held throughout the year.

The Men's Center does not receive help from United Funds. Its work is supported entirely by contributions of usable discards of clothing, furniture, etc.

On behalf of the officer corp Maj. Mahy expressed his gratitude to the people of the community, the United Fund and those present for their interest and support of the Army's work. He thanked the Gazette-Telegraph, the radio and television stations and other news media for an excellent job of reporting the work of the Salvation Army, and announced that the meeting would be broadcast on KRDO March 21 at 12:15.

Brigadier Victor L. Newbould of Denver, divisional commander, presented awards to representatives of the 3 Kiwanis Clubs of the region for their "bell ringing" activities during the Christmas season.

He said, "The energetic bell ringing of this group of civic minded men accounts for a considerable increase in the amount of contributions in our kettles". Following the award he officiated in the installation of the officers of the Salvation Army Advisory Board. Installed were Harold Whitney, Chairman; Harry Lee, Jr., Vice-Chairman; C.C. Morris, treasurer. Mrs. Helen O'Donnell, secretary was unable to attend the meeting.

Speaker of the evening was Captain Robert Stilwell, former football star at U.S.C, coach and teacher, and now Educational Director of the Salvation Army Officer School. In his message he referred to the suffering of mankind as threefold, "self-imposed, imposed by nature and as seemingly without reason". It is the dedication of the Salvation Army to relieve suffering in any of its phases, he emphasized, "with heart to God, and hand to man the Salvation Army stands ready to serve".

Instrumental selections were provided by the Brigade of Cadets currently on tour from the school for officers. Two prospective candidates for the Salvation Army School for Officers Training in San Franicsco were introduced. They are Terry Griffin and Elbert French, both from Colorado Springs.

Group Will Try To Sabotage Hunt

By TOM A. CULLEN
Nwspaepr Enterprise Assn.

LONDON (NEA)—Until now, Britain's hunting set has had the fox at its mercy, running the bushy-tailed animal ragged with hounds and horns. But now a group of young Britons has stepped forward to champion Reynard's cause.

The Hunt Saboteurs Assn., they call themselves. Their aim is to wreck as many fox hunts as possible, and otherwise make life unpleasant for the gentry who ride to hounds. The group numbers 500 members, most of them between the ages of 16 and 30.

To be a successful saboteur one needs to be equipped with bags of meat scraps, hunting horns, signal rockets and aniseed spray. A dead fox or two also comes in handy in putting hounds onto a false scent.

The trained saboteurs also learns how to allay suspicions and distrust. He must wear the right tweedy clothes, and otherwise look and act as though he belongs to the hunting set.

Then, while the hunt master is distracted, the saboteur opens his bag and feeds the meat scraps to the hounds. As a result of gorging, the dogs become lazy, less eager to give chase. In fact, they couldn't care less whether a fox flashes by or not.

This doesn't work, there is always aniseed, which has the peculiar effect of causing a young dog's fancy turn to thoughts of love. The hunt wreckers have tried both these methods with varying degrees of success.

If the hounds prove impervious to both aniseed and meat, the saboteurs have other tricks to disrupt hunting meets. There is the hunting horn gambit, for example.

The anti-blood sports group includes an expert on the hunting horn who has been training his fellow disrupters to sound all the calls to hounds and riders. Thus, when the South Devon Hunt met recently, their hounds were driven frantic by a series of false alarms.

The poor creatures ran from one side of the field to the other, answering first the calls of the huntsmen, then those of the saboteurs. A dead fox was also deployed on this occasion to put the hounds off their scent.

Signal rockets have been added to the aresenal of the anti-hunt faction of Littlehampton, Sussez. Armed with these flares, the savoteurs recently went charging around the countryside in search of a meet, only to find that the hunt had been called off because of the frost.

Another group of 30 saboteurs had better luck at Singleton, Sussex, where the Cowdray Hunt was effectively disrupted. Acetone spray, which deadens a dog's sense of smell for about two hours, was used on this occasion.

The Cowdray Hunt meet ended in an uproar when the anti-hunt group accused the local police of siding with the fox hunters.

"The police behavior was disgraceful," declared John Prestidge, 21, head of the Hunt Saboteurs Assn. "They grabbed the meat from us and threw it into neighboring gardens. They manhandled girls."

The police deny they manhandled anyone, but they threaten to prosecute members of the anti - hunt association. The charge was littering the public thoroughfare with meat.

The only party to the dispute who hasn't been heard from is the fox, and when last seen, he was reported to be laughing up his sleeve.

Senate to Start Debate on Civil Rights

By HARRY KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate begins its historic debate on the civil rights bill Monday.

"We have reached a point where we can no longer evade or avoid this issue," declared Democratic leader Mike Mansfield as he announced he was bringing the controversial measure to the floor.

The way was cleared Friday when the Senate, running behind its timetable, sent to the House by a 53-35 vote the administration's election-year cotton and wheat plan.

The civil rights measure, the most sweeping in this century, is certain to set off a Southern filibuster which some leaders believe may tie up the Senate for months.

But Mansfield said it was time to face the issue and dispose of it "one way or another."

He cautioned, though, that "no senator should be so disillusioned as to think this is going to be an easy matter. Nor should he think, no matter where he comes from, that there is going to be political profit in it."

An early skirmish was already in the offing.

A supporter of the measure, Sen. Wayne Morse, D-Ore., said he would attempt Monday to send the bill to the Judiciary Committee for 10 days of hearings.

The administration had bypassed the Southern-led committee in order to get the bill before the Senate. But Morse said he felt it would be better to follow normal procedures.

Approval of two-thirds of the senators—67 if all 100 are present—is needed to invoke cloture, and the marginis difficult to attain.

Morse—and Mansfield has in past expressed similar feelings—apparently feels it would be the better part of valor to follow the customary pattern and not irritate any support.

But Mansfield said he would fight Morse's plan.

Larry Cartee and Paul Smith, sophomore members of Mississippi State's basketball team, come from Kentucky.

Today in Washington

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

WASHINGTON (AP) — In the news from Washington:

BUSINESS CORPS: A committee of six business executives has been named to set up a volunteer "Executive Service Corps" to help private enterprise in less developed countries.

The businessmen volunteers would offer their services for limited periods to businesses abroad taking their services.

Unlike the Peace Corps, the Executive Peace Corps will be run by the American Business Community. No government aid is planned except for the possibility of limited funds from the agency for international development.

JOHNSON TO KHRUSHCHEV: In a brief letter, President Johnson has rejected Soviet Premier Khrushchev's criticism of U.S. efforts in the Cyprus dispute.

But he told Khrushchev he agreed with him on one point: "...It is certainly true that avoiding the aggravation of the situation in the Eastern Mediterranean is in the general interest of us all. We should all strive not to enflame passions from without. I can assure you that is the firm intention of my government, and I sincerely hope...that it is also that of your government."

RUSSIAN WHEAT: Reports from abroad indicate the Soviet Union will harvest a near normal wheat crop this year in contrast with its poor one last year.

The Agriculture Department said these favorable signs are a factor in recent reports the Russians are not planning to buy as much wheat from the United States as had been anticipated.

The Russians have seeded more winter wheat for this crop and so far there have been no reports of heavy winter damage such as last year, the department said.

SAVINGS: The General Accounting Office, Congress' watchdog, says it saved taxpayers more than $218 million last year keeping tabs on the books and operations of government agencies.

But, the GAO said in its 159-page annual report Friday, many of the savings and improvements brought about by its efforts cannot be measured in dollars and cents.

Those that can, it added, amounted to $218,380,000.

Nikita Proposes 'Labor Passports'

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev urged here that each citizen carry a booklet containing details of his business and personal life.

Assessment in the so-called labor passports would aid "our struggle for carrying out the party's slogan: 'He who doesn't work, doesn't eat' ", Tass quoted Khrushchev as saying.

"It is the right of the public to know what a man does and on what money he lives," Khrushchev said.

New Hampshire Watched For Effect on Election

EDITOR'S NOTE—Jack Bell, long a follower of election campaigns, discusses the effect of the New Hampshire primary on the hopes of Goldwater and Rockefeller.

By JACK BELL

CONCORD, N.H. (AP) — Whether the outcome of next Tuesday's New Hampshire primary will have a telling effect on the choice of the next Republican presidential nominee remains in dispute between the two major contenders.

Sen. Barry Goldwater of Arizona counts on a bloc of conservative Republicans and his town-by-town organization to give him 35 per cent of the popularity contest vote and at least half of the state's scant 14 nominating votes.

But even if he gains such a goal—which is considerably below his estimate of several months ago—Goldwater conceded that the best he can hope for out of New Hampshire is to demonstrate that a conservative can win in the Northeast.

The payoff in the nomination contest, he said, will come in the June 2 California primary. He thinks the man who wins that head - on battle between him and New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller will dominate the San Francisco convention.

Rockefeller has somewhat different ideas. But he does not disagree with the impact of the California vote. As evidence of this he is leaving next Wednesday, one day after the New Hampshire balloting, to launch his California campaign.

In California there are at stake 86 signed and sealed convention votes in uncomplicated, winner-take-all balloting. In contrast, many politicians think that in New Hampshire it may be difficult to decide after the balloting who won what.

However, Rockefeller felt his prodigious investment and resources in New Hampshire were worthwhile. He gave every evidence—as Goldwater did not—of enjoying the hand-to-hand type of campaigning that took him into supermarkets, drugstores, beauty parlors, insurance agencies, banks and factories.

Chatting with a group of insurance company workers who gathered around to listen to an impromptu exposition of his position, Rockefeller said:

"Thank you, people, for providing an early opportunity to the party out of power to express its choice for a presidential nominee. What's happening here is going to influence the thinking of the party."

Rockefeller obviously would benefit from any change in what now seems to be majority opinion among Republicans that he isn't going to get the nomination. Goldwater needs New Hampshire's approval to offset the slump his stock took when Lyndon B. Johnson, a Texan, succeeded to the presidency.

Just what was happening in New Hampshire remained relatively obscure with the primary voting only four days away.

Goldwater's backers felt there had been a resurgence of support for him after a plaguing downtrend. He has aimed his final campaigning at stirring up the conservatives and getting them to the polls.

Encouraged by the warm reception their candidate has had in hand-shaking tours through a number of towns, Rockefeller supporters were beginning to express confidence that their man was overtaking Goldwater rapidly. They thought the governor might wind up in the popularity contest with a "one vote more" than the senator's—which would satisfy them.

The extent to which write-ins could affect the outcome, however, remained a matter of conjecture.

Rockefeller's camp was worried that such support for Henry Cabot Lodge, the U.S. ambassador to South Viet Nam, might cut the governor's total.

Goldwater's backers feared write-ins for Richard M. Nixon, the 1960 presidential nominee, would reduce their candidate's total.

There was also the question of how many citizens might vote for Sen. Margaret Chase Smith of Maine, and Harold E. Stassen, former Minnesota governor, whose names are on the ballot.

Goldwater and Rockefeller lieutenants reported a large bloc of undecided voters. They also were puzzled by the significant number of New Hampshire citizens who said they had made up their minds but weren't going to tell how they would vote.

Cancer Chemicals Can Be Produced In Human Body

How the body changes some drugs into cancer-producing agents, and alters other potentially cancer-causing chemicals into harmless products, was described today by Dr. J. A. Miller (University of Wisconsin Medical School) at a Conference on The Evaluation and Mechanisms of Drug Toxicity.

Dr. Miller related how long-term animal tests have helped screen out potential carcinogens even before the drugs are employed in clinical testing. He said that there are several different classes of chemical compounds which the body can convert into carcinogens. Much of this chemical change has been traced to the effect of certain enzymes within the liver.

Liver enzymes may also act to detoxify carcinogenic chemicals. This enzymatic activity in the liver cells may be induced by some drugs, including phenobarbital.

Just how carcinogenic agents act chemically on cells to transform them into cancer cells is not known, according to Dr. Miller. One possibility is that the carcinogen attacks the DNA and RNA, those parts of the cell which control the manufacture of proteins. Carcinogens are sometimes found in the body chemically joined to protein and these protein-carcinogen complexes may play a role in cancer production. Another possibility is that viruses may interact with carcinogens in such a way that a tumor is produced.

In any event, according to Dr. Miller, the result of the activity of carcinogens on the cells is to release the brakes controlling normal cell production. Of these "runaway" cells, the ones that grow the fastest become the nucleus of the tumor.

Just how drugs might act to combat certain viruses in mammalian cells without injuring these cells was discussed by Dr. A. D. Welch (Yale School of Medicine, New Haven, Conn.)

One new drug, 5-iododeoxyuridine (IUDR) has produced encouraging results in patients suffering from herpes keratitis — a common eye infection with serious complications. The disease can result in partial loss of vision due to the formation of scar tissue on the cornea.

Dr. Welch also discussed four anti-cancer drugs. One of these, methotrexate, will definitely cure a rare form of human cancer which attacks pregnant women.

Another drug, 6-azauridine, which has been used in the treatment of cancer, is interesting because it is the first anti-cancer drug which is really non-toxic for normal cells. It is still in the experimental stage.

Dr. Charles W. Parker (Washington University School of Medicine, St. Louis, Mo.) discussed allergic reactions to penicillin. Since it is desirable to determine before penicillin therapy whether or not a patient is likely to show a hypersensitive response, Dr. Parker has devised a skin test which is quick, easy and without danger of producing hypersensitivity.

The Conference on The Evaluation and Mechanisms of Drug Toxicity is one of more than 20 major scientific conferences which will be sponsored by The New York Academy of Sciences this year. The Academy now has nearly 18,000 member-scientists who reside in all 50 states and 84 foreign countries.

High School Juniors Can Earn College Credits

A new summer program that will enable high school juniors to earn two credit hours of college work will be offered in June at Colorado College.

The program includes a four-week long seminar in political science for credit and an opportunity to audit other college courses.

Entitled "Contemporary Political Theories—Democracy and Communism," the seminar will be conducted by Prof. J. Douglas Mertz, chairman, of the political science department.

"The course will not teach what to think but how to think," Professor Mertz said. "we believe it important for high school students to begin their own evaluations of democracy and communism."

The course gets underway June 15 and runs thru July 10. It will carry two hours academic credit to be released by the college upon the student's completion of the senior year in high school.

Another feature of the four-week seminar will be a plan for the students to audit, without additional fee, selected courses in the total college summer program, to acquaint themselves with study in a wide variety of fields.

Prof. Mertz said the high school juniors will study how democracy and communism began, how the ideals of both have fared thru the years, and where they stand today, by reading texts and original sources.

The class will meet Monday, through Thursday from 1:30 to 4 p.m. with one library session each week. Prof. Mertz will be available for personal conferences and help in using library source materials.

Each student will write a paper involving his evaluation of the two government forms, using critique and comment, combined with the student's experience from original sources already read and discussed in class.

"Training in the use of the library in constructing a paper will be exactly the kind of work these students will be expected to do in another year when they are college freshmen," Professor Mertz said. "We believe they will find the seminar useful not only in expanding their knowledge but also in preparing them for college-level approaches to learning.

"To sum it up," he said, "searching out all the ideas, delving into the rationale of opposing views, testing the values, and there by earning an opinion will be the objectives of the course."

The seminar was planned by Prof. Mertz and Colorado College Summer Session Director Fred A. Sonderman,, with the cooperation of social science teachers in regional high schools, including Palmer, Wasson, Cheyenne Mountain, and other schools.

Further information about the seminar is available at the Colorado College Summer session office, 1105 N. Cascade Ave. telephone 473-2233, extension 369.

CHEMICAL IPELINE

HOUSTON, Tex. (UPI)—Pipelines will become more important to the chemical industry as the need for large-volume bulk chemical transport increases, a pipeline official told a recent meeting of the American Institute of Chemical Engineers.

"A big contributor to growth will be the utilization by chemical and petrochemical plants of the many smaller - diameter pipelines laid for the oil industry use twenty years ago, said Robert P. Lennert, Service Pipe Line Co., Tulsa, Okla.

PARIS — Drinking troughs for animals will be removed from one section of the French capital since they have not been used in at least 10 years.

Ballot Bundle Bewildering in New Hampshire

By GORDON A. GLOVER

CONCORD, N.H. (AP)—When New Hampshire voters enter polling places Tuesday, they'll be presented with the most bewildering bundle of ballots in the history of the state's presidential primary.

In addition to marking their choices in the Republican or Democratic presidential races, citizens will be expected to:

1. Vote yes or no in a local option sweepstakes referendum.

2. Choose delegates to a state constitutional convention.

3. Elect selectmen and other local officers.

The task of voting will be particularly complicated for Republicans. Their primary ballot—longest in the history of the state—will contain the names of five presidential candidates, one vice presidential candidate, and 101 delegate candidates and alternates for the party's national convention at San Francisco in July.

An Associated Press reporter, seeing the ballot for the first time and deciding in advance who he was going to vote for, required four minutes and 10 seconds to mark his X's and write in one name.

Many election officials are predicting it will take the typical voter eight to 10 minutes to complete all his ballots.

On the preference side of the ballot are the names of Sen. Barry Goldwater, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, Sen. Margaret Chase Smith, and Norman Lepage, a local candidate.

Listed as a vice presidential candidate is Wayne Green of Peterborough, publisher of a ham radio magazine.

There are slates of delegates and alternates running for Goldwater, Rockefeller, Harold Stassen and Henry Cabot Lodge. Another slate is running uncommitted to any candidate. One delegate is running favorable to Marvin Kitman, a New York magazine writer and political satirist.

Voters are asked to choose 14 delegates and 14 alternates.

Further complicating their task are two write-in campaigns on behalf of Lodge and former Vice President Richard M. Nixon. For Lodge in particular, the write-in campaign has built up a formidable head of steam. His supporters predict he will receive as many as 27,000 votes out of an anticipated 100,000 GOP ballots in the primary.

Ex-Gov. Wesley Powell, who is leading the Nixon drive, predicts up to 20,000 votes for his candidate. In 1956, Nixon received 23,000 write-in votes that helped squelch a move to dump him as President Dwight D. Eisenhower's running mate.

Democratic voters will be asked to choose 17 delegate candidates out of a list of 50. All but two are running for president Johnson. The exceptions are running favorable to Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia and Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy.

For country folk, the minutes in the voting booth will comprise only a small part of primary day. It also is town meeting day, and this means they can expect to spend long hours debating such issues as a $50 appropriation for civil defense, or whether to go ahead and buy a new road grader.

A long, laborious count of the ballots is predicted by Secretary of State Robert L. Stark, who says it will be "well into the morning" before even half of the returns are in from New Hampshire's 302 polling places. Only Portsmouth has voting machines.

ADC Establishes New Annual Award Program

Hq ADC, Ent AFB, Colo. The Air Defense Command — Air Force component of the North American Air Defense Command (NORAD) — has established a new annual award program to recognize the grass-roots mission achievements of air defense ground radar units.

An award trophy donated by the Philco Corporation will accompany the top unit honor earned by the ADC Radar-Aircraft Control and Warning (AC&W) Squadron which shows the best all-around maintenance management record in ground electronic equipment for the year. Judging will be on a calendar year basis.

In brief informal ceremonies at ADC Headquarters in Colorado Springs this week (Feb 27) ADC Vice Commander Lt. Gen. Robert H. Terrill accepted the industry - donated trophy presented to ADC by Philco Corporation President Charles Beck. First award to a wining squadron for performance during 1963 will be made early this Spring.

The trophy which stands 40 inches high is inscribed "Air Defense Command C-E-M Maintenance Management Award" (C-E-M is the alphabetical shorthand for "Communications - Electronics - Meteorological"). The trophy will rotate to winning units on a yearly basis

All ADC units responsible for the maintenance of ground C-E-M equipment are eligible to participate in the competition. The commander of each ADC Air Division having a ground C-E-M equipment capability will nominate one outstanding AC&W Squadron to represent his division for the year. Hq ADC will make final selections and present the appropriate awards.

Units will be judged on all phases of radar maintenance. Areas to be considered include maintenance organization and management, personnel utilization, the time change technical order compliance program, the personnel training program and any noteworthy maintenance accomplishments of the unit nominated.

In addition to the trophy, the first place unit will receive a plaque for permanent retention and be nominated for the Air Force Outstanding Unit Award. Second and third place units will be awarded plaques for permanent retention.

Engraving on the trophy and plaques will include the name of the trophy, name of the organization receiving it and the year it was awarded. The first award of the trophy and plaques will be made for calendar year 1963.

Human Mind May Not Endure Space Travel

"Man's mind may be the most vulnerable as well as the most valuable equipment in a spacecraft," according to a report on the effects of solitude in the March issue of "Science Digest" Magazine.

Tests in the Space Cabin Simulator at Brooks Air Force Base, San Antonio, Tex., have shown that top aircraft pilots can't take even a 30 or 36 hour non-stop grind cooped up in a cabin. Two men had to be taken out — one after eight and the other after 22 hours.

In those and other experiments, the article reports, volunteers have experienced hallucinations in which they felt they had two bodies or thought their toes were six inches longer than they were.

Some volunteers develop a "lust" for stimulus. If they hold out against it, tension builds up, followed by emotional reveries and fantasies.

Dr. John Mann of New York University says spacemen "might lose interest in the original goals of the mission and decide on new ones. They might become estranged from their families and friends, forget their country, or be seized by delusions of power, and establish plans to utilize their position in space for obtaining special concessions, treating their own country and friends as enemies."

Some solutions include giving spacemen knock-out drugs and teaching them self-hypnosis. Another would be hibernation in cold storage.

the living room, finished lower level, and a finished three-quarter bath.

Called the Starlite 634, the house is available in four exteriors and as many floor plans. Building sites are available from Allied Builders in Park Hill Subdivision.

Allied Builders Corp. came into being about two years ago. Peter G. Lobue is president and Henry N. Gottgetreu is secretary. Both men are natives of Colorado Springs and have been in the construction business for a number of years. Gottgetreu, in addition, has about six years architectural experience.

All of the Starlite plans call for a separate dining ell. They feature compact kitchens dougle-insulated metal frame sliding windows, and a selection of front doors.

Exteriors are brick and Insulite primed siding, the latter a product of the Minnesota and Ontario Paper Co.

The Starlite home at 3302 E. Pikes Peak Ave. has a storage room at the rear for garden tools and other items, and has no garage.

One feature is the dressing table in the full-size bath on the third level of the Starlite 634 model home. Bedrooms are grouped conveniently around the upper hallway and a linen closet is located just outside the bathroom door.

In the model home, the brick fireplace partially separates the living room area from the dining room.

Home buyers who select the tri-level model get a "bonus room" on the lower level which may be used as a fourth bedroom, office, or hobby room. A combination utility and furnace room is located immediately in front of the three-quarter bath and is large enough to accommodate both a washer and a dryer.

Allied Builders has previously built homes in Starlite Acres and Austin Estates No. 3, and has erected custom homes all over the city.

Division Men To Return to Carson Monday

Twelve hundred men of the 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized) will return to Ft. Carson starting Monday, Mar. 9, after a successful amphibious landing in Exercise Cherry Tree at Camp Pendleton, Calif.

The 1st Battalion, 10th Infantry, Golden Rifles and supporting Red Devils will pass their training in amphibious techniques to the remainder of the division.

The men from Ft. Carson, with their equipment, boarded 3 Navy ships Monday, the USS Cavalier, USS Flintstone, and USS Tulare, for the assault.

After embarkation, 1st of the 10th left San Diego and were carried to the combat area where they anchored 1½ miles offshore to await D-hour.

A 1st of the 10th long-range reconnaisance team, led by Sgt. Charles M. Randall landed on Pendleton beaches 18 hours ahead of the assault force to obtain information concerning aggressor activities. The data was sent to Lt. Col. Stephen A. Day, Golden Rifles, and Task Force Comanche commander, aboard the Cavalier.

Other members of the team were Sp4 Robert C. Wert, Pfc Leonard O. Bartow, Pfc James P. Clark, Pfc Danny Dicus, and Pfc Garfield L. Medley, accompanied by a Navy underwater demolition team.

Task Force Comanche mascot, a donkey, led first assault waves ashore as other waves of Red Devils hit the beaches in the LCM-8's and LCVP-5's, the assault craft used. An eight-mile inland march was made toward the Marine aggressor while the rest of the division's mechanized equipment was being loaded.

Adding realism to the amphibious exercise were Navy jets, tough Marine aggressors, Navy underwater demolition teams and the Navy beach group from Navy Beachmaster Unit No. 1.

ORANGE, Tex. (AP)—Police today held Patricia Kohs, 21, former stripper at a Jack Ruby night club in Dallas, on charges of possession of dangerous drugs and marijuana.

Officers said they arrested Miss Kohs, who performs under the name of Penny Dollar, in a bus station. They quoted her as saying she was en route from Dallas to Florida.

Trial of Ruby Becomes Unique in Legal Record

By RELMAN MORIN

DALLAS, Tex. (AP) — Jack Ruby's murder trial, past its third week today, has gone into the records as unique in legal history, inside and outside the courtroom.

It began as a strange case.

On Nov. 22, President John F. Kennedy was shot in Dallas. Lee Harvey Oswald was charged with murdering him. If Oswald had done it, what was his motive? Was there a conspiracy? And did it extend beyond the United States?

The answers may never be known.

For two days later, Jack Ruby, 52, girlie-show operator—whom the defense calls "a character around town" — burst through a crowd of police officers, jammed a pistol into Oswald's side and shot him down.

Motive?

His defense lawyers claim he had none. They say he was in an epileptic "rage state" induced by the shock of the president's death and didn't even know he had killed Oswald.

Police Sgt. P. T. Dean, however, says Ruby told him he had begun thinking about killing Oswald on the Friday night of Kennedy's death, more than 36 hours before the fatal shooting.

The state completed its case against Ruby Friday. The first defense witnesses were character witnesses who threw little or no light on the circumstances of Oswald's death.

The trial's three weeks brought these unusual events:

1. A jail break Friday. An escapee with a fake gun, terrorizing spectators and court employes. Karen (Little Lynn) Bennett, pregnant, a stripper, cowering in a stair well and crying, "Oh, my God; he's after me." Joy Belli, wife of chief defense counsel Melvin Belli, trying to comfort her. Few persons inside the courtroom knew of the incident. The court proceedings were not disrupted.

2. Probably for the first time in any courtroom, the defendant and the jury saw a film of the actual shooting. The film was taken from a live telecast of the scene. Ruby showed little emotion as he watched.

3. Earlier Dist. Judge Joe B. Brown was absent because of illness. Another judge replaced him. Brown returned the next day, a Texas precedent, legal authorities believe. Belli argued that this was grounds for a mistrial.

4. A total of 162 persons were examined as prospective jurors before the 8 men and 4 women hearing the case were accepted. In Texas, a 13th juror is not selected as an alternate. So if one of the 12 becomes incapacitated, the case will have to be started over.

The first defense witnesses were Little Lynn, Ralph Hemplin, telephone company employe; William G. Serur, a salesman, and William E. Howard, a businessman.

They pictured Ruby as "high strung, highly emotional, easily upset." They related incidents in which Ruby got into "fights and brawls and things like that." They said he flared up in an instant and "cooled off just as fast." Serur, who said he was a long-time friend of Ruby's, testified nevertheless, that he was scared whenever Ruby became emotionally upset.

Each was asked whether Ruby often broke into tears.

Little Lynn, relating a telephone conversation with Ruby on the Sunday he killed Oswald, said, "He seemed to have been crying." Serur and Howard said they never had seen Ruby cry.

As to Ruby's mental condition, Howard testified: "I would say Jack was a fine fellow until he took over the Carousel Club. Then I decided he was a sick man."

Cassius Clay Gets New Name of 'Ali'

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight boxing champion Cassius Clay has a new name—"Muhammad Ali."

Elijah Muhammad, leader of the Black Muslims, bestowed the name on Clay during a radio broadcast Friday night.

"I am honored," said the champion, who had announced earlier that he would follow the custom of fellow Black Muslims and be known as Cassius X.

Black Muslims refuse to use the surnames their ancestors took from white men who owned them as slaves.

Clotheslines should be placed high enough to prevent children running into them, the Children's Bureau of the Health, Education and Welfare Department warns.

Crack in Cuba Blockade Is Being Feared

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Fidel Castro may have 200 million sugar dollars this spring to widen the crack in the crumbling U.S. economic blockade of Cuba, exile experts estimate.

The estimate — contingent upon harvesters winning their race with anti-Castro saboteurs — came as Havana radio, monitored here, told of increasing trade relations with Cuba throughout the world.

"We now have credit as do few other countries," the radio quoted the prime minister as saying, "despite efforts of imperialism to strangle us economically."

The Cuban sugar growers association in exile estimated this year's crop at 3.3 million tons. This compared with 3,821,000 tons last year, smallest in 18 years.

A spokesman for the exile group said that if Russia releases to Cuba all over 2 million tons, as expected, Castro could keep a million tons to buy machinery, parts and other things needed to bolster his shaky economy. On paper, Cuba is obligated to sell her sugar to Russia for 6 cents a pound in merchandise. The world market is higher.

Organist to Give Concert Monday At Art Center

Randy Sauls, West Coast organist, will give a concert Monday at 8 p.m. at the Fine Arts Center.

After extensive study following World War II with several Hollywood composers, Sauls launched on a career which is rapidly gaining him a reputation as one of America's foremost writers on the theory of modern harmony for the organ.

Altho he insists that he is primarily a writer of text books, his way with an audience which he learned as a child during the old vaudeville days is giving him what he jokingly refers to as a "second career."

He has recently given concerts in Kansas City, St. Paul, Bismark and Sioux City, in addition to a regular curcuit on the West Coast.

Monday's concert will be free. It is sponsored by the Colorado Springs Music Co., local Hammond Organ dealer, and is another in the series of Hammond Organ concerts being presented here.

Canada Boosts Its Price For Aluminum

NEW YORK (UPI) — Canada's Aluminium Ltd. announced here it has boosted its price for primary aluminum ingot by a half-cent in the United States market to 23.5 cents per pound.

However, the company said it also was "reconfirming" its new price of 25 cents per pound for primary aluminum on markets outside North America, underscoring a difference of opinion with Aluminum Co. of America on ingot prices abroad.

When Aluminium announced its one-cent increase on markets abroad March 4, Alcoa quickly responded with a half-cent boost "in all its markets," thereby signaling its intention to undercut the Canadian company by a half cent.

Reynolds Metals Co. subsequently added to the price puzzle by boosting its domestic price by a half cent and its international price by a full cent. Kaiser Aluminum & Chemical Corp. boosted only its domestic price a half cent to 23.5 cents per pound, leaving its export price unchanged at 23 cents per pound.

As things stand now, all major North American companies are at 23.5 cents per pound, but their export prices range from 23 cents to 24 cents per pound.

EDINBURGH — Chinese and Russian are to be taught in the Scotch public schools.

As senior vice president, Pelican will have general managerial supervision of all gas pipeline operations for Colorado Interstate Gas Company.

Cook's new duties will involve auditing and financial control for all of Colorado Interstate and its subsidiaries.

Hopkins will have supervision of CIG's transmission operation which extend thru five states, Colorado, Kansas, Texas, Oklahoma, and Wyoming.

King, who joined CIG in 1953 as administrative assistant to the president, was named a vice president in 1959.

He is a graduate of Georgetown University, Washington, D. C., and obtained is law degree from Harvard University Law School in 1948.

Commandant To Speak at Founders Dinner

Brig. Gen. Michael S. Davison, Commandant of Cadets, U. S. Military Academy, will be the principal speaker at the annual West Point Founders Day Dinner Friday, at Ft. Carson. The banquet will be held in the Ft. Carson Officers Club at 8 p.m.

West Point graduates and former cadets the world over will gather to celebrate the founding of their Alma Mater, enacted by Congress on March 16, 1802. They will gather to pay tribute to the oldest of the U. S. academies and to graduates like Generals Pershing, Eisenhower, MacArthur, Bradley, Patton and many others.

While the U. S. Military Academy was formally established in 1802, it was not until Colonel Sylvanus Thayer became superintendent in 1817 that the West Point of today really originated. Colonel Thayer, called the "Father of the Military Academy," established the academic system as it is known today.

Gen. Davison, who will highlight the Carson celebration, graduated from the Military Academy in 1939. He saw action in Sicily, Salerno, Anzio, Italy, and participated in the Southern France landing in 1944. He became commandant of cadets in March, 1963.

The dinner is open to all West Point graduates and former cadets. Reservations should be phoned to Lt. Col. M. V. Talbot, 633-6644, extension 8473.

STRAIGHT SHOOTER — Patrolman James M. Caldwell, right, was presented with this .38 caliber revolver Thursday by Chief of Police Cecil J. McKissick. The police department gives a gun a year to the best shooter but no patrolman can win it more than once. Caldwell had a 98.4 per cent average last year during the department's firearms training program. Sgt. James J. Coster was the only officer with a higher shooting average. Coster scored a 99.9 per cent. He was been a previous winner as have Cpls. W. I. Finstrom and J. W. Strobridge, who were the third and fourth best shooters respectively during 1963.

Reduced Wheat Export Seen to Soviet Union

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department now estimates U.S. exports of wheat this season will be about 850 million bushels instead of the 1 billion or so forecast after the Soviet Union turned to this country for grain.

Even 850 million bushels would be the largest of record for a single marketing year and would compare with 639 million bushels shipped abroad last season.

The reduced outlook apparently reflects recent indications by the Soviet Union that it will not buy as much wheat as officials anticipated last November when President John F. Kennedy decided to make American wheat available to the Communists at world prices.

Sales to the Soviet Union now total about 62 million bushels. The United States has also sold 7.5 million bushels to Hungary and smaller quantities to East Germany and Czechoslovakia.

The department said in a report on the wheat situation that wheat either exported or inspected for export between last July 1, the beginning of the current marketing year, and the last week of February totaled about 514 million bushels, including flour.

Persons with a medical history of hay fever, asthma or other allergies should consult a physician immediately when stung by a wasp, the Agriculture Department advises.

Barry Winding Up Campaign in New Hampshire

By WALTER R. MEARS

CONCORD, N.H. (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater, claiming that the victor's share of New Hampshire votes already is in his column, winds up here his campaign for the nation's first presidential primary of 1964.

Goldwater scoffed at the campaign style of his chief New Hampshire rival, New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller, who favors handshaking tours of main streets and shopping centers.

Goldwater said that approach is fine in general elections but not primary campaigns. He said he isn't interested in Democrats right now.

Nevertheless, he spent more than an hour Friday strolling the streets of Laconia to shake hands and chat with voters.

At one point, he even shook the paw of a passerby's dog.

In Concord, Goldwater renewed his dispute with Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara and was cheered by more than 250 persons at a gathering of veterans' organizations.

He insisted that long-range missiles are not a dependable substitute for manned bombers.

"I don't feel safe with a man like McNamara who is wiling to place so much faith in a weapon that's never been tried" Goldwater said.

Crooked Ears Ruled Okay for Bunny Girls

By NEIL GILBRIDE

WASHINGTON (AP)—Should a Bunny girl be fired for wearing crooked ears?

No, says the AFL-CIO Hotel and Restaurant Employes and Bartenders International Union.

Neither, says the union, should she be bounced from her job if she doesn't live up to the code of the Playboy Clubs requiring a "well-fitting costume, matching ears, clean and fluffy cottontail."

The union, in a national organizing campaign in behalf of the pretty night club waitresses, wants to substitute orderly grievance procedure for the "Playboy Club Bunny Manual."

The union officials announced at a press conference that they are prepared to take legal action under the National Labor Relations Act to protect the rights of the approximately 600 Bunnies who work at Playboy Clubs in New York, Chicago, Detroit, St. Louis, New Orleans, Phoenix, Miami and Manila.

The union wants to institute shop stewards in place of "Bunny mothers," who now regulate the working conditions of the waitresses in the chain of night clubs founded by Playboy Magazine Publisher Hugh Hefner. Union officials quote one girl as saying she was squeezed into a uniform "so tight that the zipper caught in my skin." The Bunny mother told her to inhale again, and the result "would have made Scarlet O'Hara blanch," the girl said.

The union also protests elaborate regulations outlined in the approximately 60 - page "Bunny Manual."

Some examples from the manual:

An improperly arranged cottontail, it is made clear, could lead to dismissal.

Another thing that disturbs the union is the system of "checkers" who test the Bunnies by trying to get them to break Playboy Club rules.

"Try to date Bunnies. Try to get Bunnies' phone numbers. Invite Bunnies to parties and see if they accept," says the instructions to the Bunny checkers.

This, says the union, is nothing but "espionage on the job."

Stock Market Continues Strength in Fifth Week

By ED MORSE
AP BUSINESS NEWS WRITER

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market continued to show strength this week, rising for the fifth straight week in fairly active trading.

Wall Streeters saw it as a sign of solid underlying demand for stocks that the market did not sell off rather sharply after topping the 'magic" 800 level in the Dow Jones Industrial Average the previous week.

As anticipated in some quarters, hte ability of the Dow Jones industrials to exceed the psychologically important 800 line in the Dow was more encouraging than discouraging. It seemed to be an advertising feature, drawing more of the small investors into stocks.

This was reflected in the odd lot statistics, which showed that in some sessions this week there were more buyers than sellers among those who dealt in the less than 100-share "round" lots. It was reflected also in the increased popularity of lower-priced issues, regarded as a sign of greater public participation.

The Dow Industrials advanced 5.89 to 806.03, establishing a firmer beachhead above the 800 line.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 1.1 to 299.1.

Both indicators stood at record highs as the week ended.

The rise of the averages was confirmed by over-all statistics which showed that of 1,490 issues traded, 798 advanced and 525 declined. This was by no means a runaway bull market trend. The market, in fact, was continuing its irregular rise in which buying interest has rotated from one group of stocks to another, correcting itself piecemeal as it goes along.

Wall Street enjoyed a continued good background of business and economic news. The tax cut, enacted the previous week, began going into effect, freeing more money for individuals and corporations. Steel production rose to an eight-month peak and demand for the metal was strong.

Aerospace contracts were awarded and President Johnson focused attention on the nation's new 2,000-mil-per-hour military jet.

The consumer price index was reported at a record high in January. Auto sales were at a record in February. Prices were raised for aluminum ingots and some other products. Copper prices were firm and the demand-supply picture was bullish for the producers.

Volume for the week was 26,048,470 shares on the New York Stock Exchange, compared with 26,444,910 the week beofre.

Machine tol orders, showing the biggest rise in new orders since the mid-1950's, stimulated buying of the machinery stocks. The coppers and aluminums rose. Selected motors advanced. Some of the Aerospace issues were strong.

Investment Companies Expert Speaks at U. S. Air Force Academy

A Colorado Springs Mutual Funds broken/dealer, Jim Ayres, addressed a group of first-classmen of the cadet wing of the Academy at 7:00 PM Tuesday March 3. His subject matter was "Planning for Your Financial Tomorrow."

To my mind, nothing sums up the reasons for investing better than the theme, money at work means men at work, to provide the tools and equipment necessary for an expanding economy, thereby generating the profits necessary for your own estate building program.

Certainly, a well balanced financial program should contain a cash reserve to meet emergencies, adequate low-cost life insurance for protection, in addition to a well selected equity investment program for capital increase.

J. H. AYRES

It is important that you decide just what you hope to achieve from your investments. For Mutual Funds are essentially alike in their physical operation, they vary widely as to investment policies and objeceive and the kind of securities owned.

There are Mutual Funds which invest solely in high-grade bonds for strictly defensive purposes, others which hold discount bonds for generous income. There are "balanced" Mutual Funds which invest in bonds, preferred stocks and common stocks, shifting the proportions of each from time to time to conform to changes in the outlook. There are common stock Funds of many types. Some, seeking income and growth, own a broad list of good grade commons stocks diversified as to industries. Some, for aggressive purposes, confine their holdings to stocks selected for greater-than-average price movements; others concentrate on stocks of leading companies in a single industry or type of business.

Each of these Mutual Funds or "group investments" provide diversification and professional management within a stated field. Each varies in its degree of market risk and in its possibilities for profit; in the extent and stability of its income; and in its stability or volatility of price. No one fund is best for all purposes.

As I see it, he said, because our economy is inflationary and has the ingredients making for prosperity and few, if any, of the imbalances making for a period of recession or depression have yet made their appearances. I am sure the monetary authorities will continue the excellent job of solving any problem that may arise on the national and international front and provide the necessary resources to maintain a well-oiled expanding economic system.

Mr. Ayres has just returned from Boston after an extended intensive work-shop of attending financial and economic seminars with the Keystone Custodian Funds of that city.

Keystone Custodian Funds of Boston, one of the country's larger investment research organizations, was founded in 1932 and presently is managing in excess if $800,000,000 for 232,000 investors, including religious, fraternal and professional organizations, pension and profit - sharing funds, schools, hospitals, and other investors of "other people's money".

Keystone is rather unique in the Mutual Funds field in that they have available a series of eleven specialized funds, capable, individually or in combination, of covering the most conservative, stable, high-grade bond funds to the most volatile fast - moving common stock funds.

In summing up, one is always troubled by the important things left out. For example, in the light of many inflammable spots that circle us around the world, what are the future prospects? Since the occurrence or avoidance of war is outside the realm of prediction, one must proceed on the assumption that it can be avoided. What I am saying in specific terms is that 1964 will register another post-war peak in economic activity. 1965 could be subject to correction in the production cycle, but that such interruption should not obscure the dynamic potential for renewed economic growth that lies so close at hand.

Jim Ayres is active in community affairs of Colorado Springs, namely: a member of the Chamber of Commerce, YMCA, official board of the First Methodist Church, a 32° Mason and a Shriner, National Association of Securities Dealers, and heads up the investment firm of J. H. Ayres & Co., Inc.

He is married and has a son, Jimmy and a daughter, Janet, all residing in Colorado Springs.

Insurance Firm Tops Records

Last year, for the first time in history, a single insurance company paid out more than two bilion dollars to its policyholders and their beneficiaries, according to the 1963 annual report of Metropolitan Life Insurance Co. made public today by Gilbert W. Fitzhugh, Metropolitan's president.

The payment total of $2,140,000,000 — an average $19,436 for each minute of each business day of the year — was $154,000,000 greater than the previous industry high set by Metropolitan in 1962.

Other notable industry figures established by Metropolitan during 1963:

Metropolitan policies of all kinds covered 44,500,000 persons in the United States and Canada — a continuing rate of about one in five of the population in each of the two countries.

Annual premiums on life and health insurance issued in 1963 amounted to $244,134,000, compared with $224,348,000 in 1962. Total premiums received, including annuity considerations, amounted to $2,812,539,000, compared with $2,621,042,000 in 1962.

New life insurance issued amounted to $7,512,676,000, consisting of $6,158,952,000 in personal life insurance and $1,353,724,000 in group insurance.

Insurance in force climbed to $106,517,192,000 by year's end, a gain of $4,329,276,000. Assets held for the benefit of policyholders reached $20,465,758,000, a gain of $869,673,000.

At ear's end, 51 per cent of Metropolitan's assets was invested in corporate securities, 6 per cent in government bonds, 30 per cent in city mortgages, 2 per cent in farm mortgages, 3 per cent in housing and other real estate, 4 per cent in policy assets.

Continuing the rising trend of recent years, interest earned on the company's total assets was 4.45 per cent, compared with 4.36 per cent in 1962. The average return on new long-term investments — which amounted to $2,020,000,000 during the year — was 5.17 per cent after investment expense, compared with an adjusted 5.37 per cent in 1962, reflecting the general decline in interest rates on new investments.

Tax Cut Beginning to Rub Into U.S. Economy

By ROGER LANE
AP Business News Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—The tax cut growth medicine prescribed by the late President John F Kennedy a year and a half ago finally began to rub into the muscles of the economy during the week.

The first application was in paycheck distributed to salary and wage-earners Thursday and Friday.

Gradually, as the effects fan out across the country, hundreds of thousands of corporations and 80 million Individuals will end up with $11.5 billion a year more to spend or save.

The administration is counting on the resulting stepup in expenditures to spur expansion in an already flourishing economy, and by generating more jobs, to reverse a persistent uptrend in unemployment.

How the medicine works, only time would tell.

Its arrival on the business and finance scene came at a time when favorable omens continued to pile up and disquieting influences were few.

The stock market climbed new high ground and despite some backing and filling showed signs of digging in there, or even pushing higher.

More good news came from the booming auto industry, a bellwether of prosperity for many satellite businesses, and from steel, a second strong underlying force with wide-spreading roots.

Other reports told of a sharp rise in machine tool orders, increased factory bookings of new orders and promising achievements toward development of a supersonic commercial air transport.

The consumer price index, revised to reflect changed purchasing patterns, crept higher. Leading aluminum producers made an ingot price rise stick after two abortive attempts.

New car sales posted a record in February for a fifth consecutive month. The selling rate of 23,523 cars a day was up seven per cent from a year earlier and eclipsed a previous mark for February — 23,374 set in 1955.

Steel production, gaining for a ninth consecutive week, mounted to nearly three-fourths of capacity and reached an eight-month high.

Wall Street was heartened when the stock market, as measured by the popular Dow-Jones industrial average, started the week on a firm upbeat after closing the preceding week above the 800 level for the first time.

The consumer price index, a leading gauge of inflation, was higher in January — by .1 at 107.7—only on the basis of a new method of calculating living costs. On the old basis, it held steady at December's level.

Stock sales reached 26,048,470 shares slightly under the previous week's volume of 26,444,910. Bond sales, par value, totaled $53,910,000 compared with 63,252,000 the previous week.

Mitchell High Receives New Design Honor

General William Mitchell High School, now under construction in Colorado Springs, has been honored for its architectural design for the second time in recent weeks.

The American Institute of Architects has announced that the building, designed by Bunts and Kelsey-Architects of Colorado Springs will be one of 15 buildings included in an exhibition of school and college architecture.

A jury of prominent architects selected the 15 buildings from among the 275 shown at the convention of the American Association of School Administrators last month in Atlantic City. Mitchell High School was one of 36 buildings to receive a citation at the convention.

The American Institute of Architects will exhibit Mitchell High and the 14 other outstanding buildings at its Washington, D.C. headquarters next month. After the Washington showing, the exhibit will be available for showing thruout the nation.

"SEA CANARIES"

PARAMUS, N.J. (UPI) — There is very little rumbling on the surface, but usually plenty of din in the depths when whale families get together.

The whale's grunts and squeals have earned it the nickname "sea canary," according to underwater scientists for ACF's electronics division here who've been using supersensitive listening devices like the hydrophone to broaden man's knowledge of life under the sea. Whales are thought to use their "voices" both to communicate and navigate.

I Remember

By CHARLES S. DUDLEY

C. S. DUDLEY

It was only 115 years ago, and no farther from Colorado Springs than Arkansas. But what a farm sale it must have been, starting at 8 a. m., "with plenty to eat and drink."

If you have guessed this is the story a newspaper clipping tells, you have guessed right.

"Enclosed find a clipping from home town newspaper, The Lovington Reporter, of Lovington, Ill., which I thought might be of interest to some of the readers of the Gazette Telegraph," Mrs. Bessie Cochran, 710 N. Tejon St., writes.

The information comes originally from a Corning, Ark., paper's announcement of a sale. It reads:

"Sale. Having sold my farm. I am leaving for Oregon Territory by ox teams. Will offer on March 17, 1849, all my personal property, towit:

"All ex teams except two teams, Buck, Tom, Jerry; two milk cows, one gray mare and colt, one pair of oxen and yoke, two carts, an iron plow and good moldboard, popular weather board, 800 to 1000 fence rails, one 60 - gallon soap kettle, 85 sugar troughs, made of white 3 - ft. clapboards; 1,500 ft. ash timber, 10 gal. maple syrup, 2 spinning wheels, 30 pounds mutton tallow, 1 large loom, by Jerry Wilson, 300 poles, 100 split hoops, 100 empty barrels, one 32 gal. barrel of Johnson - Miller whiskey, 7 years old; 200 gal. apple brandy, one 40 gal. copper still, one doz. reap hooks, 3 sythes and cradles, one doz. wood pitchforks, one - half interest in tan yards, 32 calibre rifle, made by Ben Mills; 50 gal. soft soap, hams, bacon, lard, 40 gal. sorghum molasses, 6 head of fox hounds, all soft mouthed except one.

"At the same time I will sell my Negro slaves, two men, 3C and 50 years old; two boys 12 and 18 years old; two mulatto wenches, 40 and 30 years old. Will sell all together to same party; will not separate them."

Reserve Officers To Visit Carson Monday

Reserve officers representing eight European countries will visit Ft. Carson Monday. They will also tour the Air Force Academy and the NORAD Combat Operations Center, as well as other points of interest in the Pikes Peak area.

The party includes the following North Atlantic Treaty Alliance reservists: Ensign Evangelos Sawellarios, and 1st Lt. Theodoros Komnas of Greece; Lt. Col. Albert Slerot and Major K. A. A. Ceule of Belgium; Major E. W. Bruun and Capt. S. E. Grue of Denmark; Lt. Col. A. L. Trayser and Lt Cmdr. G. A. Debeury of France; Cmdr. L. Boscardi, Lt. Col. Dr. Carlo Sabelli and Lt. Cmdr. Lucio Gattini Bernabo of Italy; Lt. Dr. Mathias J. Schroeder and Lt. Marcel Muller, and Lt. John P. Wagener of Luxembourg; Capt. Wytze Terpstra and Lt. L. Hamming of the Netherlands; Major P. N. W. Riorth and Capt. Finn Knutzen of Norway; and Capt. John W. Dangerfield of Canada.

They will be guests of the Military Affairs Committee of the Colorado Springs Chamber of Commerce Monday evening, and will inspect Army, Navy reserve units. These units are the 89th Division's 1st Battalion, 354th Infantry at Fort Carson, and the U.S. Naval Reserve Surface and SeaBee Divisions at Prospect Lake.

Tuesday evening they will be guests of Colorado Springs and Fort Carson chapters, Reserve Officers' Association (ROA) at the Ent Air Force Base Officers' Club, for dinner.

Lt. Col. Albert R. Merritt, ROA project officer, is accepting reservations for the dinner at 635-3583.

NO FADE OUT

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The mailman at Walter Reed Army Hospital had proof Friday that Gen. Douglas MacArthur had not "faded away" from the public's memory.

More than 2,000 "get well" letters and cards arrived for the old soldier in the morning mail.

Hospital attendants said flowers were arriving "by the truckload."

AMA Lists Tips to Follow When Stork Arrives Early

By THE COLORADO MEDICAL SOCIETY

Sometimes it seems everyone is doing it these days; Delivering babies, that is. Policemen, firemen, taxicab drivers, the man-in-the-street and, of course, the fathers themselves.

In one very special case recently, the Associated Press reported from Massachusetts that two policemen delivered the daughter for a mother who is an M. D. Moreover, the father also is an M. D. But the mother, like others before her, was caught short in a police cruiser when the stork chose to put in his appearance.

Actually, these non-professional ventures into obstetrics are interesting as news because they are unusual; they are not nearly as common as their newsworthiness might indicate. In Colorado, about one per cent of babies (some 400 a year) are born out of the hospital, and most of these are born in the home with some degree of medical ,or nursing assistance.

But it is true that the stork is a somewhat unpredictable fellow, and occasionally in a hurry, especially when he is delivering a second or third baby. After a woman has had one child, subsequent deliveries may be rapid and sudden.

So it is a good idea for any person — any husband, particularly — to know a little about the basic facts of childbirth, and also to know that he should never push his little knowledge too far. Many policemen and firemen these days receive professional coaching on the elements of obstetrics as part of their first-aid courses.

The first tihng to remember is that, in uncomplicated pregnancies, most babies deliver themselves pretty well.

The second thing to remember is: Don't drop the baby! The fluids which nature provides to ease his arrival into the world make him slippery to hold. Cradle him gently and protectively in the cleanest cloth available. Hold him with a sure touch and a gentle grip.

Don't try to hurry a delivery. If you are bound for the hospital and only minutes away, you can attempt to hold back the delivery with very gentle restraining pressure. But very gentle; don't push hard. Try to help the mother to relax between contractions and not to "bear down."

When does a mother need your assistance? It is very difficult to give a practical answer. Emergency deliveries are much more probable with second and subsequent babies, but they can occur with a first child. Best advice is to let nature take her course. The mother will know when the baby is definitely arriving. 8

Old Doc Experience offers some additional advice:

1. Keep calm.

2. Reassure the mother. Quiet her. Have her lie down, her head level with her body.

3. Practice no more emergency obstetrics than is absolutely necessary. If the baby arrives in the car while you are on the way to the hospital, merely protect the infant for the rest of the trip and let the professionals at the hospital finish the job.

4. Don't pull on the emerging baby and don't push except with a gentle, restraining pressure to slow up, but not to prevent, the birth.

5. Don't let the baby slip from your hands and fall.

6. Most babies don't have to be spanked to make them breathe, altho about one in four may need some encouragement. A smart slap on the bottom or, better still, on the soles of the feet, may be necessary, but don't use it unless it is necessary. The sooner the baby cries, the better. If he doesn't cry or show other evidence of breathing in the first minute or two, use a spank or mouth-to-mouth breathing — very gently. Mere puffs from your throat into his will be enough. Rub his back and stroke his abdomen gently to encourage breathing.

7. Hold the baby head downward for a few minutes if you can do it safety without dropping him. This will encourage drainage of fluids from his throat.

8. Unless there is going to be a considerable delay, a day or more, in reaching a hospital or obtaining medical aid, don't worry about the umbilical cord linking the baby with his mother. Leave the cord alone. Don't pull on it, or you may cause a hemmorrhage in the mother. And don't attempt to deliver the placenta, the sac of membranes and blood vessels within which the unborn baby was nourished and grew.

9. If you must separate the cord — which is about half an inch in diameter and may range in length from 20 inches to 6 feet — do it carefully with minimum tension on both mother and baby. Tie off the cord tightly and firmly by knotting a string — a shoestring will do— around it. Leave as much cord between the tie and the baby as possible. Now make a second tie an ich or two away. Cut the cord between the two ties with a clean and sharp and instrument as you have available.

10. Remember that protection of baby and mother is all you are really trying to do. The less you do, beyond that protection, the better for both.

Foreign Service Officers Will Meet 'the People'

By MARTHA COLE

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department is aiming at knocking over any cookie-pusher image of its Foreign Service officers.

The campaign will begin in earnest this spring when most of 2,000 returning officers will be back in this country for leave or reassignment.

When they go back to their hometowns across America, the plan is to send them out on "getting-to-know-you" meetings with the people.

"Why I've had congressmen tell me they've never met a Foreign Service officer," says Katie S. Louchheim.

Mrs. Loucheim, an energetic blonde grandmother, is deputy assistant secretary of state directing the new campaign out of the office of Community Advisory Services.

The United States has 3,800 men and women representing it at 272 posts abroad.

"The American people don't know what a Foreign Service officer does," Mrs. Louchheim said in an interview.

"The old concept of his being a stylish cookie pusher in striped pants who goes around leaving calling cards is completely outdated and outmoded.

"The old feeling that they're snobs—there isn't room for that any more. It's hard work. The exams are tough and the life is tough."

The new campaign aims not only at the people getting to know representatives abroad, but also at getting the officer back in the main currents of American life and exposed to a wider range of public opinion.

To refute the old ideas of Ivy League, aloof Foreign Service officers, Mrs. Louchheim offered these statistics:

The 421 Foreign Service officers appointed in the last 2½ years came from 156 colleges. They came from every state in the union.

More than 65 per cent of all the officers speak one or more foreign languages well.

Each officer spends one out of every three years overseas at a hardship post, so categorized because of isolation, lack of organized sanitation or other factors.

The new campaign also involves the image of the officer in the foreign country where he is serving. Wives are encouraged to help on community projects. One group in Indonesia obtained bicycles for the local nurses; another in Tokyo adopted an orphanage to help; many have started language schools.

MIRACLE FILLY

HIALEAH, Fla. (AP) Ironshire, a 3-year-old home bred filly owned by Logan Grier of Milford, Del., is being regarded as a miracle horse.

When she won the Mimosa Stakes here this winter it was revealed that her chances of ever getting to the races were exceedingly slim. When foaled she had a corpuscle deficiency and was in a coma. A groom kept her alive by forcing hot coffee down her throat.

Trained by Charlie Robbins, Ironshire picked up $24,732 when she won the Mimosa at one mile and an eighth.

THE AGGRESSIVE CHILD

The aggressive young one seldom is a problem, provided his behavior stems from an eager, alert mind and a vigorous, healthy body. The energy and interests of these tykes ought to be utilized wisely by directing them into constructive channels.

But these boys can be loud, boisterous, and bossy. Mrs. Martha Hardy, a kingergarten teacher in Abington, Ill., handles this situation by assigning challenging activities along with added responsibilities. She then rewards the child by praising his accomplishments.

The problem is more difficult when the aggressiveness stems from rebellion — often against severe discipline in the home. The parents expect too much or have set standards far above the youngster's ability. He is frustrated when he cannot deliver the goods and reacts by becoming a boisterous showoff. This kind of boy often is destructive. He differs from the fireball who responds constructively to additional activities.

Parents and teacher can minimize this anti-social behavior by not expecting a 5-year-old to act like a 10-year-old. Let him enjoy his age and his ability, such as it is. He will grow up eventually but meanwhile, love and understanding are all important.

Another type of aggressiveness comes from too little or no discipline in the home. These children push to see how far they can go before being taken in hand. They actually are trying to find the limits of misbehavior and what is expected of them. They want guidance, attention, and love—but, most of all, the security of knowing that someone cares even to the extent of saying "no" to an unreasonable request. But the parents must cooperate in every way, including proper discipline in the home. The teacher can do only so much.

The aggressiveness that results from an emotional disturbance is more difficult to manage. A broken or unhappy home may be responsible. In instances, the child may have been shifted from one babysitter to another without knowing just who is the real authority in his life. These boys and girls need professional care.

Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self - addressed envelope accompanies request.

Congenital Deafness

Mrs. N. writes: Would a hearing aid help a child who was born deaf in both ears?

Reply

There are instances in which these children have been able to understand the spoken voice by learning to lip read and by turning up the volume of the hearing aid. The results depend upon the condition of the nerve of hearing.

Abdominal Hernia

J. B. writes: My doctor mentioned recently, after a checkup, that I have a ventral hernia. He didn't explain this condition or say what to do about it. Can you fill me in on this disorder?

Reply

This is a hernia in the abdominal wall, usually in the midline just above the navel.

Cold Shivers

R. B. writes: On the way to work these winter mornings I start shivering and cannot control it. I dress properly and eat a good breakfast. Why does this happen?

Reply

You are cold. Some people take longer to warm up.

Soap For the Face

Mrs. A. B. writes: Should the middle-aged avoid using soap on the face?

Reply

No, provided dryness or dermatitis is not present.

Transcript Requested Of Corbett's Trial

DENVER (AP) — Lawyers for convicted kidnap-killer Joseph Corbett Jr. have asked the Colorado Supreme Court for a free transcript of his trial record.

The move apparently is the prelude of an appeal of his life sentence for the slaying of Adolph Coors II, a brewery executive, in February 1960.

Corbett, who worked in a Denver paint manufacturing plant before the kidnaping of Coors, was arrested in Canada. He was convicted in a trial at Golden in 1961 and is held at the State Penitentiary in Canon City.

His lawyers said Corbett had nno funds to pay for the court record.

Mud Is Slowly Defeated at World's Fair

By DICK KLEINER

FLUSHING MEADOWS, N.Y. (NEA) — The big sign in the administration building read: "Only 56 days until the new York World's Fair Opens." Each day the number is lowered.

And each day, as the zero hour gets one day closer, there is noticeable progress. As you walk around the fair as February turns into March, the place is humming.

Traffic and mud are two main problems. Each exhibit is now being worked on and there are an estimated 4,800 workmen on the grounds every day. Trucks, bulldozers, cars, fire engines, mobile refreshment stands jam the muddy, rutty roads, often bumper to bumper, as the fair's police struggle to keep them moving.

And everywhere, mud — mud in the unpaved roads, mud where lawns will sprout in April, mud where the crowds will line up to see all the wonders the fair will bring.

A few of the buildings are complete, virtually ready to open. The Simmons exhibit was the first finished; inside are cubicles where weary sightseers will be able to rest on mattresses (for a fee). The huge Ford and General Motors exhibits are finished, at least on the outside. You can see shrouded cars on the circular ramp around Ford's exhibit; in a few months, they will be carrying thousands of visitors on the ride into the past, present and future.

Dotting the grounds are the beginnings of the egg-shaped phone booths where there will be no telephones. Microphones and loud speakers will replace the conventional instruments, and whole families can go in at once and make a collective and perhaps, collect, call.

Here and there you can see what will be a restaurant. Altogether, there will be 111 restaurants at the fair—not counting innumerable hot dog and hamburger stands.

You can see the exhibits taking shape, some only bare red steel girders, most practically finished.

There is Illinois' brick structure, where an animated Abraham Lincoln will be in residence. There is the Singer Bowl, seating 18,000, where many pre-Olympic trials (fencing, wrestling, etc.) will be held.

Thailand's temple replica. West Virginia, where you can fish for trout. Parker Pen, where a computer will select the perfect pen pal for you to write to somewhere overseas.

Painters scurry over scaffolding. The orange - and - blue World's Fair Fire Department truck tries to buck the traffic to reach a small fire in the IBM exhibit. Plastic sheets cover many sites, "X"s are chalked on most windows.

Chrysler's exhibit begins to take shape: this had been kept secret, but now you can make out what seems to be a huge, black working model of a futuristic car and a matching working model of a motor flanking the company's exhibit hall. There is Schaefer's bar which they claim is the world's longest.

The fair has licensed 65 companies to make more than 500 items — World's Fair bibs bow ties and pillows, banks and sweat shirts, blouses and salt and pepper shakers.

Long, white trailers snake around the grounds in test runs. They will carry visitors who don't want to walk. Or you will be able to rent a private taxi at $11 an hour.

It will generally be ready come April 22. Here and there, a bit of landscaping may not be finished, but the big things will be ready for the visitors.

Already, ticket sales have passed the $10 million mark. And the visitors will be ready to tour the fair—a trek which will take an estimated 12 eight-hour days to complete.

Dutch Royal Wedding Scheduled for May

THE HAGUE (AP)—Princess Irene of the Netherlands and Don Carlos de Bourbon Parma will be married sometime between Whitsuntide, May 17, and the first part of July, the government information service says.

The service said site of the ceremony hasn't been selected, but it is expected to be a Roman Catholic church. Irene abandoned the Dutch Reformed Church and was converted to Roman Catholicism. She gave up her rights of succession to the Dutch throne. Holland's royal family has been traditionally Protestant.

New Shoes Lead Soft Life

Men have it soft this spring, wearing lightweight dress and casual shoes.

The men's apparel picture calls for lightness, in weight, color and styling. Following this lead, the big story in men's shoes is a relaxed look in footwear.

Leading style favorites in the new trend, reports Shoe Fashion Service of Leather Industries of America, are the leather moccasin and its many variations, leather boots, slipons and kilties. For dressier occasions, leather brogues, oxford and dress slipon promise to be much in evidence.

The trim, up - dated lighter version of the brogue continues to hold its own as a favorite dress shoe. Traditional perforations, pinking effects and five and six - eyelet ties carry through its classic masculine character.

Another dress favorite is the oxford, with a host of styling features to make for individuality. Moccasin toes with closed seam effects, wing - tips and hand-stitching details are some of the touches of variety.

Continuing in popularity this spring are polished leather dress slipons with plain toes or wing-tips. Many feature hidden side gores for a smoother look and closer fit.

New spring casuals include hand-sewn moccasins in waxy natural or glossy smooth leather. Slipons, styled for casual wear, have sleek, simple lines. Occasional strap treatments are seen, such as the slotted strap or the half - strap and buckle.

Brushed leather is particularly good looking in ties and chukkas.

The high riser takes to the sporting life, usually as a slipon with side goring or a one to three-eyelet tie. Less than a boot but more than a shoe, the ankle-clearing high riser appears in all types of leather.

Add a few drops of vinegar to the water when you are poaching eggs, and the whites will not spread while cooking.

LUCKY LADIES IN THE PARADE — They are sure to be wearing fur this Easter! And, it's a wonderful time to be wearing luxrious Emba's Tourmaline mink bubble cape. Stole or cape in mink, Persian lamb or other furs, there's a host of Spring beauties awaiting your choice at Lay Furs, 326 N. Nevada Ave.

It's Three Way Choice in Slacks

Slacks for spring and summer fall into three categories.

First are the midweights styled both for active sports and dressier spring occasions. Then there are the tropical-weight dress slacks for summer and, finally, the washwear slacks geared to both active sportswear and wear with sport jackets.

Except for stripes found in seersuckers and some checks and plaids, most of the slacks feature color rather than pattern. New shades, in keeping with the trend, are lighter and brighter.

Pattern runs rampant in the new walk shorts. Besides the seersuckers which are plaided as well as striped, there are India madraes, madras - types, broad stripes, prints; and these are balanced by a full range of solid shades.

Waller-Hudson Vows Read In First Foursquare Church

Miss Retha Lynell Hudson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Hudson of Falcon, became the bride of Philip Alan Waller of Colorado Springs Sunday afternoon, March 1, in a double-ring ceremony performed in the sanctuary of the First Foursquare Church by the Rev. Glenn D. Metzler. Mr. Waller is the son of Mr. Fred Waller of Colorado Springs and the late Mrs. Waller.

Vows were exchanged before an altar decorated with palms, baskets of pink gladioli and white chrysanthemums, and flanked by two seven-branched candelabra. Miss Sandra Loftis was the vocalist. She was accompanied by Mrs. H. O. Roberson, who also played traditional nuptial selections on the organ.

Miss Susan Muhe, niece of the bride, and Miss Pamela Redfern, niece of the bridegroom, attired in dresses of nylon lace over white taffeta, wearing white gloves and pink wrist corsages, lighted the candles.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a floor-length gown of embroidered lace over white satin, fashioned with a lace-fitted bodice, scoop neckline and tapered sleeves. The skirt was styled with a short front peplum and four wide ruffles edged in matching lace. Her shoulder length tulle veil fell from a tiara of velvet and satin flowers centered with seed pearls. She carried a cascade of feathered carnations centered with a corsage of pink sweetheart rosebuds which she later detached and wore on a beige wool sheath. This, with brown accessories, completed her traveling costume.

The maid of honor, Miss Judi Routon, wore a street length dress of azalea pink satin styled with a fitted matching lace overblouse. The Misses Sandra and Karen Davis were bridesmaids and wore lighter pink dresses of identical design. Each wore matching satin slippers, matching satin circlets which held the veils, and carried colonial bouquets of pink carnations.

The flower girls, Miss Darla Mayhew and Miss Becky Coopper, nieces of the bridegroom, and Miss Marcene Metzler, daughter of the minister, wore pale aqua dresses, identical in design to those of the candle lighters. Each carried a basket of pink rose petals.

The best man was Paul Waller, brother of the bridegroom. Ushers were Leo Harlan and Robert Mewes.

The bride's mother chose a candlelight brocade suit with pink accessories and a corsage of pink carnations. Mrs. Waller wore a dress of blue chiffon with bone accessories. Her corsage was of white hyacinths.

The reception followed the ceremony in which the pink and white color scheme was continued. The three-tier wedding cake, topped by wedding bells, was served by Mrs. Cletus Cooper. Mrs. Elton Faust and Mrs. Deana Wood poured. Mrs. Leo Harlan was in charge of the guest book, and Mrs. William Pennington of the gift table.

The bride was graduated from Palmer High School in 1963. The bridegroom is a graduate of the Colorado Springs High School and of Life Bible College in Los Angeles.

After a short wedding trip, the couple will be at home at 505 Hawthorne Pl., Colorado Springs.

Thomas Seeley Jr. Weds Evelyn Phyllis Grimm

A wedding of interest took place recently at the St. Marks Lutheran Church, New York City, when Evelyn Phyllis Grimm, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto Karl Grimm of that city, became the bride of Thomas D. Seeley Jr., son of Mrs. and Mrs. Thomas D. Seeley of Colorado Springs.

The Rev. Adolf F. Meyer, DD, officiated at the double ring ceremony against a background of flame-red poinsettia plants on the altar and the steps leading to the altar. Lighted tapers in gold candelabra and red and white satin-trimmed trees flanked the altar, while the church was lighted by a large white tree. The pews were marked by white satin and white gladioli.

Escorted by her father, the bride wore a floor length white satin sheath accented with Alencon lace. It had a removable full skirt terminating in an aisle-wide chapel train. The fingertip veil was attached to a crown of pearls. She wore a strand of pearls with a diamond clasp, the gift of the bridegroom, and carried a white prayer book covered with stephanotis and eucharis lilies.

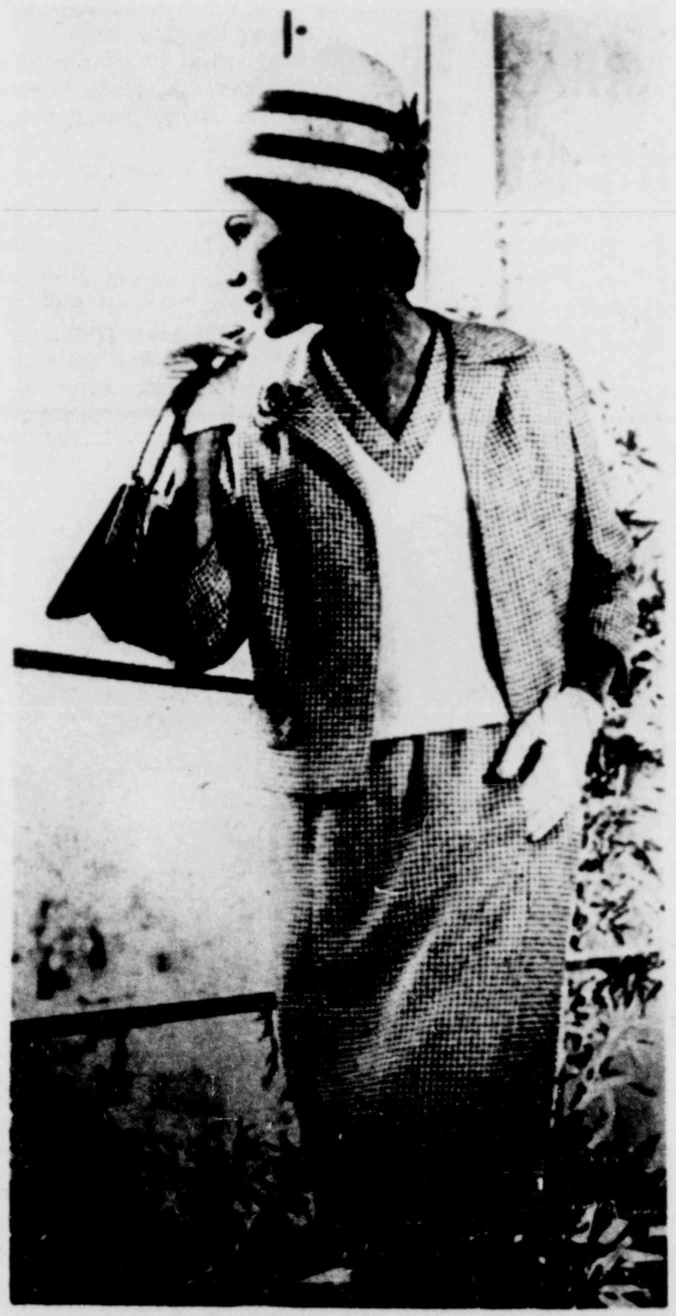
The maid of honor, Helen Hansen of New York City, wore a floor length flame-red satin gown with a skirt of gentle unpressed pleats. Her satin head-dress with veil were also flame-red, and she carried shattered white carnations.

Richard H. Seeley of Denver, brother of the bridegroom was best man, and ushers were Howard Anthony of Washington, D. C., and Robert Coakley of Pittsfield, Mass.

The bride's mother wore a rose lace sheath with matching lace jacket and accessories. Her corsage was of matching roses. The bridegroom's mother chose powder blue chiffon with matching lace jacket re-embroidered in metallic thread. Her hat and shoes were in powder blue and silver and her corsage was of silver-flecked gardenias. She also wore a pearl necklace with diamond clasp, a gift from her son.

The Pelham Country Club, decorated in the traditional theme, was the scene of the champagne reception. Following the reception a candlelight wedding dinner dance was held. During the dinner a strolling trio of musicians played favorite musical selections of the bridal party and guests. After the cutting of the bridal cake by the couple, the guests danced in the club ballroom.

The bride's traveling costume was of tangerine wool with mink accessories. After a wedding trip to St. Croix, Virgin Islands the couple are making their home in a suburb of New York City. The bride is a graduate of Bucknell University. The bridegroom is a graduate of Colorado University and attended Georgetown University's School of Foreign Service, Washington, D. C.



CHECK INTO SPRING — There's nothing more fresh, more flattering than the skimming lines of this three-piece checked costume in a blend of silk, cotton and rayon. It will shed its jacket at will, to show off the V-neck overblouse beneath. Here, it's looking very much at home in the heliport lounge at the New York World's Fair.

JUNE WEDDING PLANNED — Mr. and Mrs. Robert Raymond McCracken, 31 Crescent Lane, announce the engagement of their daughter, Sara Louise, to Cadet First Class Evan Joseph Griffith Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Evan Joseph Griffith of Wichita, Kan. Miss McCracken is a graduate of Palmer High School. She attended the University of Colorado, where she was pledged to Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority, and is now attending Colorado College. Cadet Griffith was graduated from Ada High School, Ada, Okla., and attended Oklahoma State University. He will graduate June 3 from the U. S. Air Force Academy, where he is Commander of the 20th Squadron. The wedding will be held June 4.

Soften Spring With Collar, Cuffs

Collars and cuffs make a ladylike comeback for spring.

Fashioned of cotton, crepe, eyelet, lace, organdy and other sheer fabrics, spring's detachable collars and cuffs add fresh touches of femininity to any outfit.

Refreshing in white to lighten and brighten navy, and play up the new pin stripes, collars and cuffs also come in a colorful variety of prints and stripes.

Helping to Shape New Silhouette

Fashion's daytime silhouette for spring is more fitted than it has been for several seasons, yet still not clinging closely to feminine curves. For late-day and evening, prime elements of the look are plunging necklines and fabrics defining the figure.

Now it has been established that women should admit to being shapely, there are flattering styles for all figure types.

Foundation designers have had a great deal to do with making low - cut fashions wearable by more women than ever before.

The small bustline can be maximized by brassieres with wide-set straps and push-up pads in the undercups, while the full-bustline can be minimized by bras with princess styling and undercup wiring.

For daytime fashions, a long-line brassiere is an excellent choice, since it molds the midriff as well as shaping the bustline, and the more fitted spring fashions for day wear do stress a smooth midriff.

Belts are more important this season, with the waistline being more often marked at its normal position than hiked upwards to underbust placement or moved downwards to rest on the hipline. Thus waistline control is essential and the high-rise girdle is returning in foundation collections where it recently has been underplayed.

Corselets very often have a waist - defining feature as well as an overlay of elastic or bias banding, to slim hips and thighs.

Long line brassieres continue to have elastic waistbands to hold them down over a girdle, and very often they have stretch straps that permit both adjustment to varying necklines and a smooth low fit in back.

Stretch straps are features also of bandeaux, one-piece foundations, and the increasingly popular bra-slips.

Cups are shaped naturally, both in day and evening fashions.

Pantie girdles run the length range from brief to knee-length, mostly in the lightest of fabrics and with the prettiest of ribbon lace and embroidery trimmings.

Both lace and dull satin are favorites of underfashion designers for figure persuasion.

BETROTHED — Mr. and Mrs. Paul H. Hawkins of 1525 Cheyenne Blvd. announce the engagement of their daughter, Paula Roe, to Loren L. R. Struthers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Struthers of Port Huron, Mich. A September wedding is planned.

Fashion Executives Report Great Foreign Influence

"Italian knitwear for Fall 1964 is more exciting than ever," Miss Hannah Levy, vice president of Fashion Bar, reported to a meeting of Fashion Bar Executives held Sunday at the Cosmopolitan Hotel in Denver. "Sophisticated colorings, new knitting techniques and moderate pricing add up to wonderful knitwear excitement for fall," she said.

Miss Levy left Denver on New Year's Day, visited manufacturers and designers all across the country from Los Angeles to New York, and then shopped the European markets. She returned last week.

"I am most impressed with the shrinking size of our globe, and as a result the growing sophistication of the public's taste. I met American women everywhere . . .women who will return home having seen new ideas of clothing design worn in almost every quarter of the world. When they get back home, their taste will have been shaped by some of the things they have seen. It's our job as fashion buyers, therefore, to keep up with fashions all over the world. It means a fashion buyer must travel much more than in the past, and we're doing just that at Fashion Bar."

There's Whimsy In New Accents

There's a touch of whimsy in spring's costume jewelry. A garden of vegetables grows on pins and bracelets, while the 'animal kingdom' provides bug, butterfly and fish pins. Stripes, dots and enameled designs provide colorful accents for fashion's snappy young designs.

Lamps Offer Design for Every Decor

Candles went out when Mr. Edison came in, but new lamps are showing a happy reconciliation. A very romantic refrain of candle-holder bases and tapered lights runs through the new lamp styles in the stores for spring.

As a complete contrast, the resurgence of interest in contemporary furniture has brought a crop of lamps with distilled design in clean, uncluttered shapes engineered for form and function.

In other words, the new season's lamps reflect the new individuality in home furnishings, the common denominator of this contrast in periods, says the Lamp and Shade Institute of America.

As the most important room accessory, lamps offer designs for every decorating style. The candle theme ranges from an elegantly traditional candelabra to more rustic antiquity in museum reproductions. The contemporary includes simple balls of light and geometrically angled desk lamps with metal shades.

The romantic Mediterranean influence, still very strong in lamps as it is in furniture, is seen in chain lamps which carry Venetian cyrstal bowls, for example, or in the popular pole lamp which now appears with stained glass lights.

Lamps give an important flexibility to lighting effects because they can be moved to the best positions to accommodate a new piece of furniture, a complete change of furniture arrangement — or just a mood. Their variety gives a light source for every possible need.

After dark, lamps take on an additional personality. They keep their daylight role of a decorative accessory, but add the function of giving appropriate light for all activities.

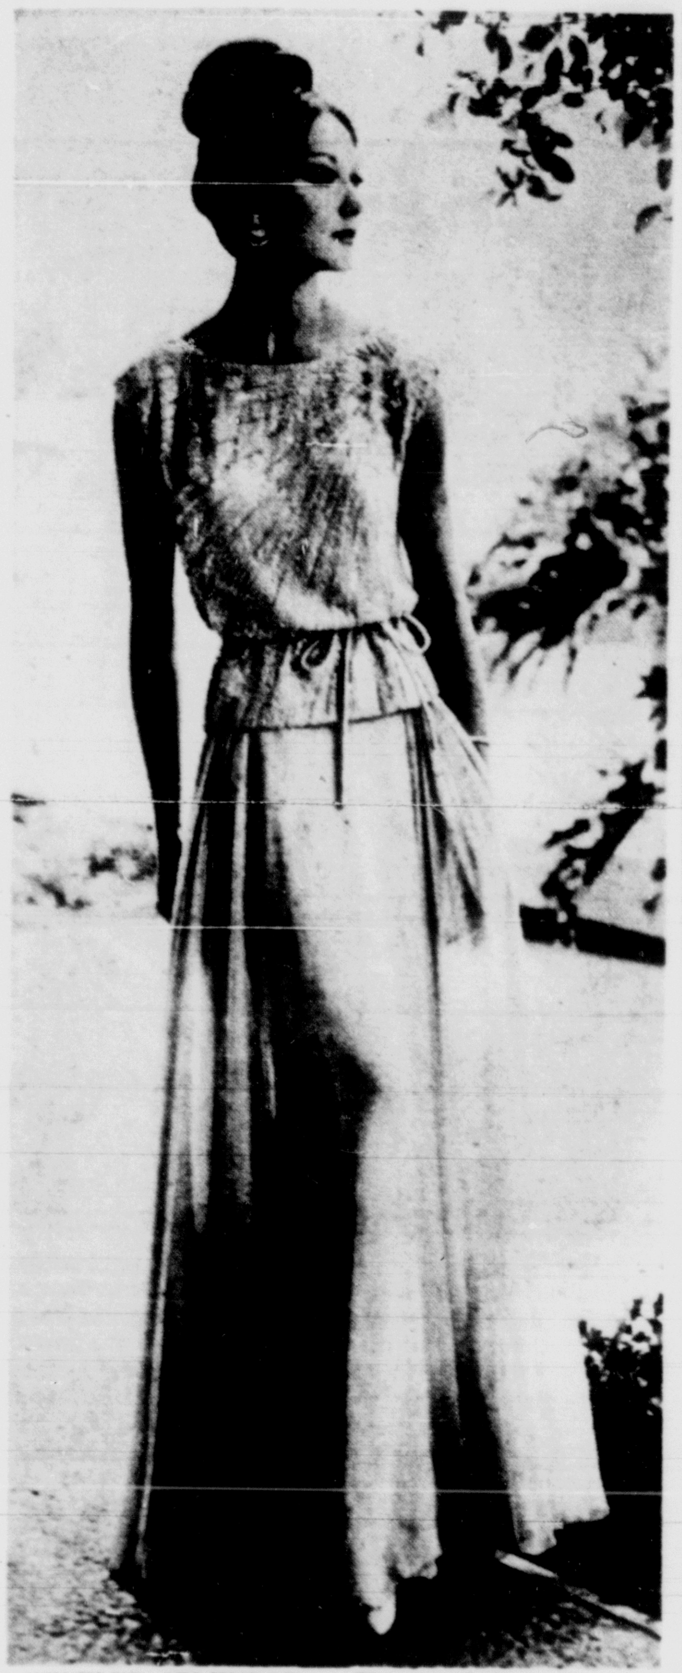
Plants Lend Charm to Home Settings

Living potted plants lend natural charm and color to room settings and serve functional as well as decorative purposes for spring.

Tall, lush greenery provides a natural backdrop for elegant furnishings. Clay-potted plants and saucers can be grouped at the base of statuary as the central focus of a terrace-dining area.

Four large pedestals holding clay-potted ferns, in all corners of a room, give the effect of a garden-like breakfast nook. And large clay-potted foliage plants set directly on the floor in the corners of a dining room enhance formal furnishings.

Wooden planters, used as frames for couches and serving as room dividers between dining and living room areas, can be filled with clay-potted spring flowering plants, such as any of the bulb plants.



JEWELED SPLENDOR — This jeweled sequin overblouse of blues and greens is embroidered on silk chiffon into a pattern of meteorologica splendor. The iridescent skirt is achieved by veiling green chiffon with blue. The Helen Rose collection is exclusive in Colorado Springs at the Gray Rose House of Fashion, 24 N. Tejon St., second floor.

Light, Ladylike Shoes Take Steps Into Spring

A romantic look and a feathery feeling characterize new spring shoes. The soft look afoot means pliant leather textures, light and bright colors and more feminine styling.

The shaping of the simple pump for spring is lower-cut at sides and front and set on a variety of low and mid - heel styles. Prettying up its sleek silhouette are such fashion points as open shanks, flat buckles or bows and stripping effects across the vamp.

Among the many surface treatments are smooth and suede leather, patent leather, grained and crushed leathers, and casual brushed and waxy leathers.

Returning on the new wave of romanticism are the slingback and the strap sandal. These footwear favorites may be worn daytime or evening, depending on texture, heel height and styling detail.

Straps range from skinny to wide, from T-strap to mid-vamp strap. Slings may be completely open or feature a narrow leather back-post.

Casuals, too, have gone quietly elegant. Little-heel sandals with a handcrafted look are seen in new waxy leathers, with a finish that retains natural shadings.

Both subtle variations on the moccasin theme and graceful walking shoes are interpreted in waxy leather.

Pumps and sandals in smooth, suede, patent and lustre leathers grace the springtime. Late-day and evening footwear has an especially romantic air—such as a pale suede pump with flower applique; multi-colored patent strips anchored to a sole lined in bright leather; a bronze lustre leather pump with oversize cut steel buckle.

Color is a cardinal element in this spring's wardrobes, and shoe shades help create the total look. Pale tints that blend with stocking tones are new—also, whitened greens and blues, mauve, peach.

Sharp, clear colors such as wildfire red, skybolt blue and acid green add an electric charge to any costume. Natural leathers colors—amber, tan, chino—continue in popularity, as do the standards, black and navy.

The crescent predominates in the toe story, especially on high and mid-heel shoes. As the heel lowers, the crescent widens to an oval, presenting a shorter, more rounded picture. Tapered and snipped squares share in the fashion scene.

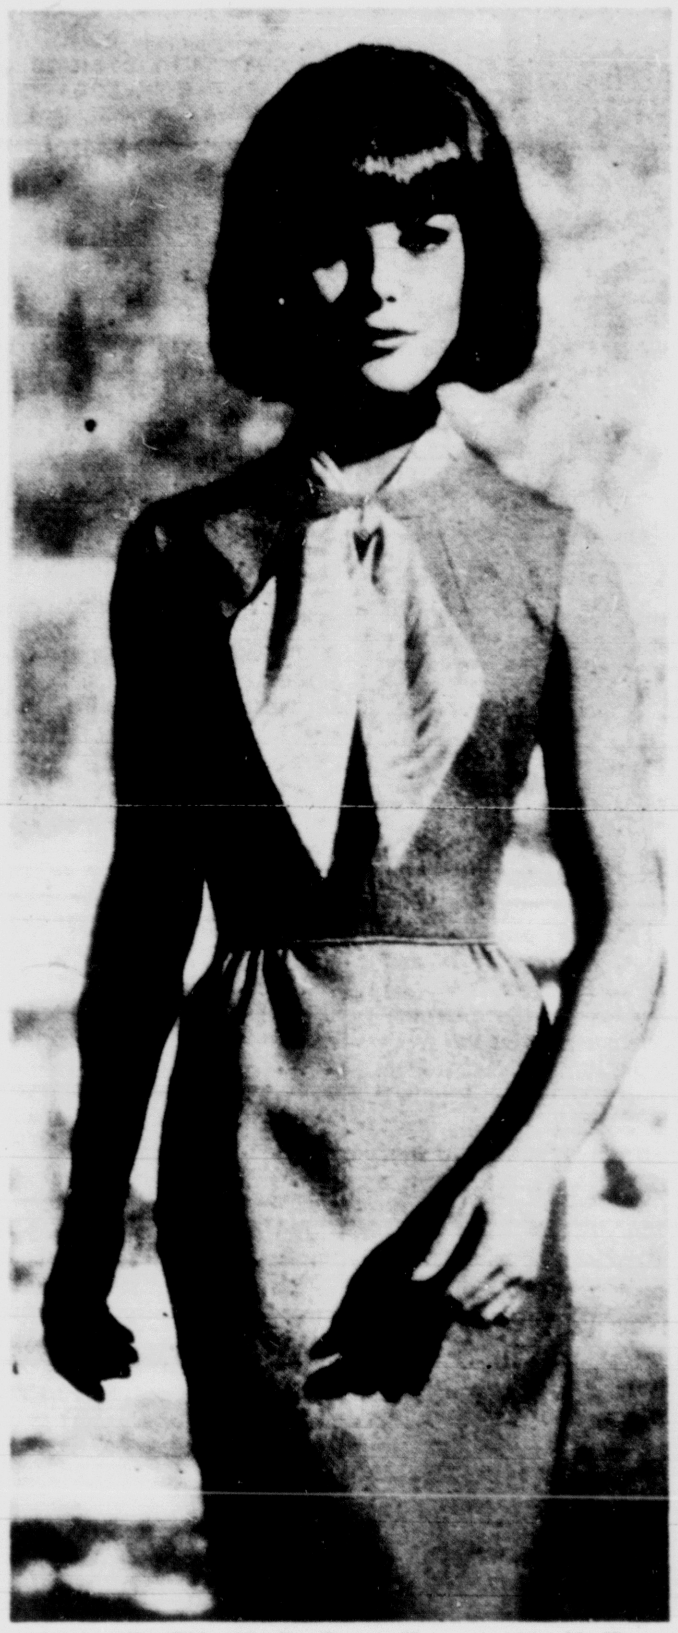
Boys Afoot

Best-dressed boys step into spring in neat grained and smooth leather oxfords, brogues and demi-boots.

For both play and school hours, the handsewn leather moccasin is popular with the grade-school male. At home in or out of class are comfortable, casual slipons of smooth or grained leather.

A-partying he will go, in sleek slipons that are sometimes smooth, sometimes grained, sometimes combine both. Side gores, monk strap details or side closings add fashion touches. Colors include a variety of browns, and black.

When sewing quilt blocks on machine, use a stitch tension that is a bit finer than for average use. Press the seams open in each quilt block and when the blocks are sewed together.



SLIM SHEATH—MacRu Dress Shop at 1434 N. Hancock St. in the Golf Acres Shopping Center features this Jonathan Logan creation in a slim sheath with debonair scarfing for light hours. After dusk, remove the scarf for keyhole decollette. The fabric is a new crisp textured rayon.

Wait until children are leaving a party to give them a balloon on a stick. This way, if they break the balloon there will be no tears while the party is going on.

Never sew with thread that is stronger than the material upon which you are sewing. The thread will cut into the material causing seams to pull apart.

Great Books Group to Meet At Public Library

The Wednesday evening Great Books group will meet from 8 to 10 p.m. in Mrs. Reid's office at the public library, 21 W. Ayn Rand's "For the New Intelectual."

Helen Rynning will conduct the questioning to keep the discussion directed from the text as assigned, to find out what the author says, what she means, how it can be applied or may be seen in application. Anyone may participate in the discussion who reads the book and bases his contributions on the fundamentals of the unique philosophy set forth in Ayn Rand's novels, such as "The Fountainhead" or "Atlas Shrugged," and particularly as set forth in this essay "for those who wish to acquire an integrated view of existence." In the title essay, she offers an analysis of Western culture, discusses the causes of its progress, its decline, its present bankruptcy, and points the road to an intellectual rennaissance; and she defines these new intellectuals as "any man or woman who is willing to think."

The discusion of Ayn Rand's unconventional views is another in the regular meetings on the second and fourth Wednesday evenings in each month. The next assignment will be given for March 25 and information about it may be obtained from Myrtle Allen, 635-8540, or Margaret Gibson, 633-3397, who are coordinators for this project in adult education, now in its eleventh year under the sponsorship of the public library.

BEATLEMANIA SELLS RECORDS

NEW YORK (AP) — The country's No. 1 selling long-playing record, "Meet the Beatles," had sold 1,800,000 copies on Feb. 13. It was issued Jan. 20.

Capitol Records, which issued the LP, expects sales to reach 2½ or 3 million. The company said on Feb. 13 it was behind 280,000 in orders in this city alone.

Color, Pattern Showing in Mens' Shirts

Colored and patterned shirts take over the spring style scene. Most men, evidently, have realized that colorful shirts are equally as correct for business wear as plain whites.

A year ago the big broad British-type stripes were introduced to widespread acceptance. The British-type stripes were accompanied by the narrower types, and those, too, met with approval.

This spring the assortment of stripes has been even further expanded by ranges of both white and colored stripes on colored grounds, double and triple stripes and multicolor stripes.

Red, blue, gray, olive, black, yellow and brown stripes are now repeated (except for black) in solid colors that range from deep tones to pale shades. All of those plus a revived interest in off - white linen shades will serve to add fashion interest to the lighter spring suits.

Collar styling puts the now usual emphasis on button-downs. In addition to the long point traditionals, there are button-downs with both moderate and short points.

Tab collars in regular and high neckband styles are also popular, while modified and wide-spread models are worn in high, medium and low slope types.

A very new "buttonless button-down" collar can be worn either pinned or plain. These have removable stays used when the collar is worn plain.

UPHOLSTERY HAS NEW STAIN RESISTANCE

Happy news for homemakers this spring is the abundant use of elegant upholstery materials with "built-in" stain repellent finishes. Manufacturers offer a wide choice of treated fabrics as upholstery for their lines of living room furniture.

Fabrics, when they have been given the stain-repelling treatment, are said to defy even oily stains. Spills can be blotted up with a tissue.

Junior Music Students To Be Auditioned at FAC

Three young people, from the 24 applicants, will be heard in junior music auditions Wednesday evening, to appear in concert on May 2. The auditions will be held at 7:30 p.m .in the Music Room of the Fine Arts Center. Three judges will hear each student perform for a period of six minutes. The first place winner will also appear as guest Artists at the April meeting of the Colorado Springs Music Club.

Members and guests are invited to attend the auditions. It is requested, however, that the audience refrain from all applause and that they plan to stay for the whole evening of auditions. This request is to enable the judges to listen without distraction and expedite the performances. There will be no business meeting. Regular meeting will be resumed in April.

The evening concert on May 2 will be held in the Music Room of the Fine Arts Center. Tickets will be sold by club members during the month of April for $1.00. The proceeds will be used to establish the Junior Music Club Scholarship Fund. With the community's help and with the funds raised by this concert, the club will offer a sizable sum to a member of the club who will be graduating High School to assist the young student's future musical studies. These auditions may serve the scholarship committee in the selection of the recipient of the scholarship, but it is not a requirement for qualification for the scholarship.

The aim of this new program is to enlarge the opportunity of the community to hear these exceptionaly gifted children to observe first hand the growing interest in good music among youth, to give the young artist the experience of performing in formal concert, and to allow the community-at-large to participate in a positive way in the development of the careers of young future artists.

The Junior Music Club would be pleased to accept any expressions of moral and financial support in this effort to recognize the accomplishments of these talented young people. The club's counselor, Mrs. Robert Kushnir, may be reached by phoning 632-4429.

Better Fit, Comfort Is Spring Promise

Better fit and more comfort in action are advantages promised by the many sportswear and dress fashions on the spring scene.

Shape-retaining stretchability has been imparted to a wide variety of fabrics, in solids and prints. Among them are denim, cotton, knits, sailcloth, twill, seersucker, gabardine and linen. Stretch lace appears for lingerie.

Vertical stretch in stirrup-styled pants remains important, but the newer horizontal stretch vastly increases the versatility of the fabrics.

Still another type is two-way stretch, in all nylon.

One use of stretch, seen again and again in spring sportswear collections, is the combination of boldly printed non-stretch with horizontal or vertical stretch pants.

In the stretch, too, are skimmer dresses, skirts, shirts, knit tops, culottes, jackets, pullovers, shorts.

AIRY FOOTNOTE — The light-hearted mood of spring fashion demands a bright, airy footnote — the open shoe. This fresh sling back silhouette by QualiCraft, combines uppers of gleaming black patent, a springtime classic, with strippy straps of black matte calf for a new note of fashion interest. This is just one of the many beautiful open looks you'll see in QualiCraft's spring collection at Baker's.

Jewell Tones Highlight New Suits

Few women can resist the lure of brilliantly colored gems, and even fewer will be able to resist the vivacious, new spring suits.

A far cry from the dull-toned suit of yesteryear is the newcomer in glowing facets of amber, from yellow to red; peridot yellowed greens; tourmaline, beigey through fiery pinks; lapis—the blue family into light navy; rich jades; amethyst and pearl tones. Two and three of these tones often appear in one suit for a newsworthy, refreshing look.

Approach To Color Is Daring

According to the National Board of the Coat and Suit Industry, "women are more daring in their approach to color—and the results are fresh, young fashions to greet spring and an early Easter."

Shapes move closer to the body — without sacrificing the favored Chanel-influenced ease.

Multiple pockets, brass buttons and cape-effects give suits the military look that is taking fashion command.

Tailoring has become a status symbol, with welt and bias seaming high in importance.

Raglans Preferred

Shoulders are slightly wider but soft, and raglans are preferred. Sleeves continue to move towards the wrists, sometimes covering them.

Collars on suits are small and neat. Frequently, they are convertible with shirtwaist ease. Sometimes suits are collarless but not as often as in past seasons. A new approach to neckline, in tailored as well as dressy fashions, is the deep-cut type that "takes the plunge."

Costume suits, pretty exponents of "togetherness," are enchanting. Shantung blouses often match or complement. Capelets or jackets top dresses; little overcoats match or contrast with suits, or skirts and blouses—delighting America on-the-move.

The suit with blazer jacket is gaining impetus.

Skirts Are Graceful

Skirts have more movement, often flaring gently. When straight, they are gracefully eased. Lengths remain status quo—and the fashion edict is "skirts covering the knees are more elegant than extremely short lengths."

Juniors Like Look Of Spring

Skirts are often fuller; fit is more so in spring fashions; styles are soft and ladylike, easy and elegant. All this suits the young set just fine.

For youthful junior figures, closer fit presents no hazards. The abundance of ruffles and bows, flounces and frills is equally easy for this group to wear.

As for fuller skirts, they have long been great favorites with juniors. The princess line skimmer, the empire look, the easy shift are inherently youthful and, therefore, particularly right for young set wardrobes.

New Notes In Chanel Looks Seen

Another fashion spotlighted for '64 has always been a delight to the junior-size devotee of sportswear. That's the blazer, appearing now in many variations as the blazer suit as well as in separate blazer jackets.

A winner, too, with juniors is the Chanel-influenced easy and elegant suit. One of many new notes for this look shows in gently ruffled collars. New pocket details, belting and buttoning distinguish other young suits.

Since young set shoppers frequently have youthful budgets, too, sportswear shops and departments are among the first on their list. This spring offers an attractive array of components for the three-part and two-part costume, in matching and contrasting colors and prints, plus plenty of ideas for active sports wear.

Members of the young set are well known for their role as trail-blazers for the new in fashion. Thus it's to be expected that they will be especially interested in spring's many styles in stretch fabrics, with the attendant advantages of greater fit and more comfort.

The same spirit of adventure and discovery will most probably be seen in their ready acceptance of fashion's explosion of color, from pale to brilliant, in coats and suits, in dresses and separates. On the other hand, the youthful look of white, as well as its spring importance, heralds a blaze of snowy shades on the junior horizon.

CAPT. AND MRS. JOHN NORRIS SMITH

* * * * * *

Smith-Anderson Wedding Held at Grace Episcopal

Grace Episcopal Church was the scene of the wedding of Miss Mary Elizabeth Anderson and Capt. John Norris Smith, at 3:30 p.m. Feb. 15. The Rev. John C. Mott performed the double ring ceremony against a background of white gladioli on the altar. Dr. J. Julius Baird at the organ played nuptial selections, including "Praise My Soul the King of Heaven, as the processional, and "Trumpet Tune in C" by Purcell as the recessional.

The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Vincent Rusell Anderson of 187 Stratmoor Dr., Stratmoor Hills. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Smith of Holly Springs, Miss.

Mr. Henry C. Duffield, grandfather of the bride from Colorado Springs, gave her in marriage. She wore a white wool suit with autumn-mink trim, white wool hat and small veil. Her flowers were brown-throated white orchids arranged in a spray with stephanotis.

Mrs. Frank Gress as matron of honor wore a red silk dress with matching hat and a corsage of white carnations with red sweetheart rosebuds.

Capt. William L. Anderson, cousin of the bride from the U.S. Air Force Academy, was best man, and the ushers were Whitney Brigham Anderson and Stewart Woodruff.

The bride's mother wore a rose wool suit with navy and white accessories, as she received the guests at the reception held at the home of the bride's grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Duffield, 620 Park Terrace. The table was covered with a lace cloth that belonged to the bride's great grandmother. Mrs. Edward Patrick and Mrs. Richard Boechman poured.

After a brief honeymoon at the Broadmoor Hotel, the couple left for Ft. Rucker, Ala., to make their home. The bride's traveling ensemble was a rose suit, and her corsage was a white orchid.

Soft Touch Shows in Handbags

Handbags present a well-rounded selection of softly detailed styles in many leathers and colors. The look most often reflects the new romantic trend in fashion.

Handbag shapes, from small to fairly large in size, are deeper than last year and softened in silhouette. Textures vary — smooth, grained, waxy, patent and suede.

In the daytime dress division, smartest handbags display dressmaker details, such as draping effects, overlays, scallops. Feminine envelopes, pouches and box bags complement the graceful lines of this season's dresses, coats and suits.

For daytime wear, casual category, it's still the satchel or tote—no longer oversized, but still roomy enough for those hundred-and-one essentials no lady would be without. Expandable sides and delicate colors endow these casual carryalls with an up-to-the-minute "soft touch."

Look to the light when it comes to colors. Pastels are bursting out all over—blue, pink, yellow, as well as off-white. Important, too, are bright shades, particularly reds. The "natural leather" colors and that spring perennial, navy, are other favorites.

Late-day and after-dark handbag styles spotlight envelopes, clutches and flat pouches with chains. They use a minimum of styling detail—burnished gold closings, a touch of jeweling, or perhaps a self-leather bow.

The late-day leathers range from distinctive reptiles to glossy smooth, glowing lustres and sleek suede.

NO RUN-OF-MILL HOME

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. (AP)—John Luongo, assistant dean of Southampton College of Long Island University, and his wife are at home to friends now—in a windmill.

The couple spent about 15 hours a week for three months fixing up the 250-year-old structure. Electrical units, plumbing and kitchen cabinets were installed by professionals.

The kitchen occupies the lower level, and the second floor has been converted into a living room. The bedroom is on the third level and an extension to the original mill, built in 1712, houses a bath, foyer and stairways.

Gary F. Nudson Will Address Credit Women

The Pikes Peak Chapter of the Credit Women's Breakfast Club will convene at 12 p.m. Tuesday in the Heidi Room of the Swiss Chalet. President Anne Barrett of the First National Bank will be in charge and will introduce new members.

The meeting is open to women employed in credit whose business, firm or professional office holds membership in the local credit bureau affiliated with the Associated Credit Bureau of America and, or, the International Consumer Credit Association.

Small Furs Display Ladylike Air

Pale and pretty might well describe the fashion picture for spring 1964. Colors for the season are soft and pale, pointing up the feminine look. Fur designers, too, believe in softness of line and lighter shades for spring, and the results are elegant, ladylike little furs.

Many small furs in American-bred Emba mink display pale, natural colors, such as pure white, blue-beige, lavender-beige, pale beige and taupe.

The new fur creations follow several themes. Popular is the casual, almost sporty, styling of furs—into cardigan jackets, for instance. A short peplum jacket is styled with plunging neckline and cinched at the waist with a calf belt.

One flaring jacket displays pelts worked vertically to below the waist, then horizontally, with pocket flaps set well back of the side seams.

Sleeveless jackets are seen in many collections. Among such styles is one designed to be worn open to the waist, gently bloused in back with wide, deep armholes.

Stoles for spring take on a completely new look. They are wrapped, have a softer line. Some are bloused; others are oval-shaped or triangular with hidden clutch pockets.

Little capes are a favorite fashion among many fur stylists. Some dip into handkerchief points in the back, others criss-cross in front, held by jeweled or fur buttons.

One small cape style is held in place by a fur bow.

For evenings, fur designers think in romantic terms. Little capes, boleros and wraps can dance balmy nights away.

BACTERIA IN SPACE?

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Bacteria, part of man's life on earth, may help him to conquer space.

Scientists at Battelle Memorial Institute think the microorganisms, particularly the Hydrogenomonas species, should thrive on carbon dioxide, hydrogen, oxygen and some nutrients.

The carbon dioxide would be exhaled by the astronauts, and the hydrogen would be a by-product of electrolysis cells which are proposed as a means of producing breathing oxygen.

If bacteria could be produced in sufficient quantity, scientists say, they might be processed into food or other useful materials. Among other things, the study seeks best conditions for the fastest possible growth rate.

Opening lead: Four of ◇

While the successful player must indulge in a certain amount of wishing during the play of a hand, it behooves him to keep a check on his emotions and to distinguish between genuine hope and idle dreams. On this basis, declarer of today's hand might have planned differently at the very first trick.

Holding 25 points and a balanced hand, South had a textbook opening of three notrump for which he earned at least the temporary gratitude of a partner who had mentally abandoned the rubber upon sorting his cards.

West made the conventional lead of the four of diamonds and East played third hand very high. South played the deuce, in the vague hope that the jack of diamonds would fall by the third round. This would convert North's ten into an entry and permit the cashing of three more club tricks which appeared to be languishing away in the far off dummy.

This was no real hope. It was an empty dream. It seemed quite evident that West had led from a four-card suit, making it clear that East's ace was singleton and that the jack couldn't be expected to fall.

A heart was returned and ducked by declarer. The suit was continued and declarer cashed his high hearts, diamonds, and clubs, throwing West in with a diamond and compelling a spade lead up to his hand for the eighth trick.

Gratification at having perpetrated an end play blinded declarer to the fact that he could have made the hand on straightforward methods, by simply taking the trouble to establish a sure entry to dummy. This he could have accomplished by playing the queen of diamonds under the ace. Not only would virtue have been its own reward but the apparent extravagance would not even involve the cost of a trick. South would still retain two diamonds tricks which is all he could have won in any event.

Now, when the heart comes back, the trick is taken and the high clubs cashed. The deuce of diamonds is then led toward dummy and whether West takes the jack or not is immaterial. The three of diamonds will be the key that will open dummy's door to the good clubs. This gives declarer the opportunity to take the spade finesse for an extra trick, if he is so inclined. But 10 tricks are there for the asking.

SPA'S DAYS NUMBERED

HARROGATE, England (AP) —Harrogate, the spa where gouty duchesses once went to take mud baths in water containing a mixture of sulphur and Yorkshire moorland peat, may soon be a spa no more.

It has long lost the fame it enjoyed in Queen Victoria's day when it was a center for ritual health treatment of the liverish upper classes. But until now it maintained a steady trade with patients sent by the welfare state's National Health Service.

The Health Service has decided to pay no more for spa treatment at Harrogate. After March 31, 1968, it will provide its own concentrated services in a hospital for selected cases, especially working people suffering from rheumatism whose livelihood is at stake.

Since the Health Service now provides 90 per cent of the customers for Harrogate's Royal Baths, a special committee has been set up by the town to decide what should be done.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jurgella of 405 Springfield Ave. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Sale of Denver.

White mums and greens were arranged in a large basket, and seven-candle candelabra lighted the scene. Miss Rachel Hatton at the organ played nuptial selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a street length dress of Chantilly lace, styled on simple lines, and worn with veil of silk illusion, gathered to a satin rose. Her flowers were white roses and carnations arranged in a shower with greens.

Miss Monika Parsons as maid of honor wore a street length dress of lace and chiffon, styled on simple lines, and small pink veil gathered to a white rose. Her nosegay was of pink and white carnations and fuschia.

Kathleen Jurgella 5, sister of the bride, as flower girl, wore a pink and white lace dress with brief pink veil gathered to a pink rose, and carried rose petals in a lace and satin basket.

William Rau was best man and Lavrene Ogg ushered.

The bride's mother wore a dress of white and silver brocade with patent accessories, and corsage of pink carnations centered with red roses.

The bridegroom's mother wore a dress of aqua satin with black accessories, and corsage of white carnations with yellow roses.

Pink roses and carnations with greenery surrounded the three tier cake at the reception which was held at the Moors. An arrangement of pink, white and fuschia flowers centered the main table, which was covered with a pink net cloth, as was the cake table. Assisting in serving were Mrs. Gertrude Parsons and Mrs. Shirley Campbell.

The couple left for Denver where they will make their home at 3150 W. 17th St. The bride's going away costume was an emerald green sheath with matching coat.

The bride attended the Krefeld Art Institute in Germany. The bridegroom attended the University of Denver and the University of Colorado.

Out of town guests included Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Sale, Mrs. Bridie Sale, Mr. and Mrs. Francis Campbell, Mr. and Mrs. Rae McLean, Mr. and Mrs. Alan C. Details Enhance Gloves

The spring glove story can be summed up in one word—ladylike. Dressier gloves have the fashion spotlight, and detailing runs riot. Embroidery, fagoting, openwork, lace inserts and trim, even patterns will enhance new gloves.

Soft pinks and purples, such as amethyst and hyacinth, make color news, and finer, delicate fabrics promote the romantic feeling.

Casual and tailored styles have new interest, due to bold textures and offbeat, unusual weaves. Among them are hand crochet and leather combinations in neutral tones. Stretch fabrics, including leathers, have gone to new lengths—formal ten button styles in stretch nylon are popular.

Designers have stayed away from strictly functional styling and gone all out to make this season's gloves an important part of the spring costume.

Plan Child's Room With Eye Appeal

Wallpaper is the easiest way to add style, warmth and character to a child's room.

When you start out to choose wallpaper, remember that children like designs which contain lots of things to look at. There are hundreds of such patterns available, ranging from pure whimsy to authentic historical scenes.

One charmer called "Carousel" has a design of merry-go-rounds against a shower of small blossoms.

Another, which would delight a child learning numbers, is called "One to Ten." This is a block pattern alternating numbers and daisies.

Stylized animals gambol merrily on "Calico Zoo," wallpaper designed for nursery decor. A companion paper of gingham is used on the ceiling.

The choice of charming wallpapers for girls is almost unlimited, and includes "Old Fashioned Garden," a collection of botanical sketches against a gingham background.

The boy's world of wallpapers ranges from "Collector," a miscellany of knots, antique cars, Scout Manuals, stamps and other objects, to plaid and striped papers and patterns illustrated with golfers, boxers and bowlers.

Historical scenes are popular with both girls and boys.

COOL PROBLEM

The judge agreed and added, "I really hope both sides will cool down and we can get it settled."

The rabbit proved to be the day's high scorer. Not counting the bunny's goal, the game ended 0-0.

SPOTLIGHT IS ON NEW IDEAS IN LOUNGEWEAR

A new breed of lingerie in the stores today is fast replacing the shapeless, 'styleless' dusters, shift and slips available till now. Lingerie and loungewear have finally come into the fashion spotlight and the range of styles and fabrics are limitless.

The exciting fashion that came to dinner and stayed on and on and on is fabulous new loungewear. Equally 'at-home' for entertaining or quiet evenings, these ultra-feminine styles bring individuality into leisure life.

Pajamas, long relegated to the bedroom, now double as loungewear and are every bit as comfortable as the oldest flannel bathrobe. Ruffled, lace and eyelet trimmed pajamas have sleepcoats to match, and gowns in bright, solid colors are topped by their own printed shifts and tunics.

Floor-length robes are especially effective in exquisite prints and soft, soft fabrics that bespeak femininity. Long, slightly shaped shifts with drawstring and empire touches in glorious prints and patterns are both flattering and comfortable. The flounce and ruffle are strongly in evidence, along with frankly feminine lace, eyelet and ribbon.

Full slips, once a problem to fit, are more and more popular due to the innovation of stretch lace. This beautiful, practical fabric will be seen in briefs and pettipants, as well as slips.

Slip bodices in stretch lace adapt successfully to any bra size, snugly hugging the bosom. A much needed style is the strapless slip with stretch lace bodice for more decollete fashions. Stretch straps, heretofore available in foundations, add to the smooth fit of new slips.

While giving no substantial support, stretch lace briefs and pettipants have a firmer feel and are perfect for less demanding fashions.

Lingerie pour le sport, both active and spectator, is making a strong play for fashion acceptance. Lightweight, sportive underfashions are now available in smart new colors.

MATCHING SHOES, BAGS — Inspired in Greece, but American crafted by Palizzio, these shoes and bags come in beautiful pastel combinations of crinkle kid and matching patent leather. Featured in Colorado Springs at Vorhes Family Shoe Store, 22 S. Tejon St. A crinkle kid handbag, touched with matching patent is the perfect coordinate. These are just a sample of the hundreds of new fashions in shoes and bags now being shown at Vorhes.

Young Is the Word for Bright Spring Coats

Bright-toned spring coats with multiple pockets and buttons inspire the thought that designers have discovered "a fashion elixir of youth."

Nothing is fashioned for shock effect — but the soft silhouettes are highly flattering, and the great variety assures individuality. There are slim coats as well as those that feature more width, in soft, wider shoulders, with raglan and set-in types sharing honors in skirt movements that include subtle flares or pleats.

Referring to the fashion picture of gentle femininity, the National Board of the Coat and Suit Industry notes that "easy softness is young, flattering and appropriate for the American way of life."

Necklines Look Relaxed, Too

This relaxed look is in necklines, too. They are sometimes lowered, following the lead of plunged necklines on dresses—they have shirtwaist ease — or they adapt Chanelisms such as the cardigan or small collar frequently edged with braid.

Waistlines wander from high-rising Empire to low-torso effects and are beltless, belted, sashed or tied.

Colors make a great splash, indeed. A great snow of white is everywhere. A tinge of yellow gives everything a golden glow. There are yellows into kelly through dark jade green. Amber goes through orange into red; pinks are the great contender for spring '64 leadership. Tons of iris and lilac, blues beginning with baby blue through sapphire and into navy show up importantly. When grey or beige appear, they are pale and almost no-color in tone.

One Mood Is Military

In a season of femininity, we have rediscovered "the military look," even to epaulets and "dispatch" pockets. It is dashing in fabrics with flattened surfaces such as men's wear worsteds, coverts, cavalry twill and gabardines.

Under a military classification, the many varied capes might be included. Newest looking is the full-length cape with slits for arms in lieu of sleeves. Cape effects are also fashionable and promise to flutter gracefully in the Easter parade.

Heralding the "Going Coat"

Other fabrics include classics and novelties in wools and blends—meltons and pin stripes; mohairs, especially in new multi-tones; glen plaids and bright, striking plaids; all kinds of tweeds, monochromatic, combining tones of one color or mixtures of many different yarns and colors; diagonals as well as ribs; and the linen look in worsted, wool or synthetic blends.

A word about the new "going" coat. This little overcoat, generally about finger-tip length, matches or contrasts with dresses or skirts and fills a need for active women. In town, whites look elegant over navy dresses. For travel or driving, in tones that will not easily soil, they go, go, go.

Jewelry Fits Spring Mood In Fashion

Spring jewelry adds just-right finishing touches to both romantic and tailored looks.

Spring's softened, more feminine silhouettes are accented by delicately designed and colored bib necklaces, dangling earrings, rings and bracelets. Emphasis is on the "real look" in heirloom-inspired pendants, earrings and brooches.

Fashion matches spring's tailored mood with classically styled jewelry "important" pins, earrings, bracelets and necklaces come in gold or colors complementary to spring's tweedy textures. White jewelry gives a crisp, clean effect with navy.

Other tailored touches are gold bangles, bracelets mixing gold textures, circle, initial and bar pins cuff links and casual chain necklaces.

TO BE AUTUMN BRIDE — Col. and Mrs. John A. O'Leary of Norton AFB, Calif. announce the engagement of their daughter, Elizabeth Margaret, to Vincente Anthony Brigante of Santa Clara, Calif., son of Mr. and Mrs. Vincente Brigante of Lancaster, Calif. Miss O'Leary is the granddaughter of Mrs. Frank E. Lachowsky of 2319 W. Colorado Ave. and the late Mr. Lachowsky. Miss O'Leary was graduated from Julienne High School, Dayton, Ohio and is a senior at the University of Santa Clara where she is majoring in Political Science. She is a member of the national Honor Society and is active in many school organizations at the university. Mr. Brigante is a graduate of Antelope Valley High School, Lancaster, and is now a senior at Santa Clara U., majoring in Electrical Engineering. He too is a member of the Honor Society, the Varsity Football team, and a number of other college oganizations. The wedding will take place next fall in San Bernardino, Calif.

The next day her husband came home and complained about something hurting his foot. Imbedded in his sock was his wife's diamond.

Top Spring Styles Translated for Future Mothers

This spring's mothers-to-be will be the prettiest in years, if it's up to designers of maternity fashions. Simple, uncluttered lines combined with emphasis on unusual fabrics and flattering pastels keynote styles for mothers.

The one piece dress, rather than choppy, distracting separates, is the favorite of future mothers for spring. Jumper, shift and A-line styles, so popular in regular fashion apparel, have been translated for maternity wear.

Easy, slenderizing styles with sleeve and hemline interest feature welt seaming, unusual collars and empire influence. Short sleeves are popular, as are lowered and V necklines.

Delicate mauves, whites and flax, as well as black and white combinations and checks spark spring maternities, as do textured, nubby and silk-look fabrics.

Big news for the smaller woman is the advent of petite sizes in maternity wear.

Sleeves, Neck And Waistlines In Mellow Mood

And what of sleeves, necklines, waistlines this spring?? ?? ?? Sleeves spread fashion's romantic message. They often billow, are often ruffled, and they are limber even when they're lean. Their softer look brings the ladylike air to the most dashingly dramatic costumes.

Necklines, too, subscribe to the mellow mood, gently draped and shaped, cowled, ruffled, bowed. Sometimes they're high and handsome, sometimes notched and neat, and sometimes non-existent.

Waistlines generally stretch downward, in suit jackets and in dresses with long and bloused or long and pocketed tops above fuller skirts. The high rise look prevails in princess and empire styling.

Frequently, the important dress-with-coat combines an empire coat and long-torso dress —or vice versa.

For evening occasions, necklines are particularly dramatic. They're beautifully bared.

Clothes hangers will slide more easily in your closet if the rods that hold them have been waxed.

When trying to remove rusty screws or bolts from an object, try saturating them first with lighter fluid and then waiting a few minutes.

APRIL NUPTIALS PLANNED — Mr. and Mrs. Clarence W. Adams of 4 Alsace Way announce the engagement of their daughter Lauralea, to James Lee McMurran, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Girls' Shoes Are Colorful, Light, Smart

The new crop of shoe styles for little girls sports more lightweight textures, brighter colors and smarter styling than ever.

Joining the standard blacks, browns and whites are poster-bright shades and pretty pastels in a host of lively leather textures. The friskiest feet of the spring school and social season will be shod in glossy smooth and patent leathers, sturdy grained and brushed leathers, sporty waxed leather, and silky suede leather.

The continuing trend to simplicity in adult footwear is reflected in children's shoes. Most important style points are trim lines, little or no ornamentation, and an opened-up look in girls' dress shoes.

A pair of new saddle shoes brings a welcome change of pace in the school year. The latest look in this classic style is dazzling white leather with colored patent leather or suede leather saddles.

The everyday leather oxford doubles its surface interest by using two tones or two textures of leather. A second leather or color — such as smooth with brushed leather, or mountie red with chino is introduced as applique, overlay or underlay.

Party-time, Sunday visits and circus outings call for charming patent leather or polished smooth leather shell pumps and sling sandals in a flower garden of colors—yellow tulip, raspberry, sprout green. Straps—some with nailheads or cut-out designs — are seen on many of the prettiest styles for spring.

BLOOD FOR THE BRIDEGROOM

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Tuxedo-attired, Jim Plunkett and Bob Ande, attendants at the wedding of Farnsworth R. May and Linda Cockriel staged a "Blood for the Bridegroom" campaign immediately after the ceremony. Going to the Red Cross Blood Center they donated blood in his name. The wedding took place in a hospital after the groom broke his leg in an auto accident the day before the marriage.

Use a small terrycloth hand, towel as a spread for the bedside table of a sick person. It's good for absorbing spills and is easily washed.

You can remove a ring from around the bathtub by rubbing with a few drops of kerosene oil. Wash off the kerosene with warm, soapy water.

Going Casual

The "look of winter" carries over into styling for spring-summer in men's sportswear, especially in garments designed for beach and for boating.

This means an "after water ski" look as ski parkas are translated for wear afloat and on the beach.

The nautical look burgeons for '64, with the solid, practical aspects of real sea-going gear taking precedence over mere decoration and coloring.

"Western influence" continues in new expressions in outerwear jackets, shirts and slacks.

Tailored sportswear, represented by sports jackets, makes the most of widespread acceptance of lighter and brighter colors and vibrantly bold patterns.

Seersuckers of all types head for the top in the sportswear picture. The look of linen is on the upswing, too. Denim look appears in many shades.

Dear Abby--

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

Still Firm!

DEAR ABBY: You have always insisted that the white wedding gown and veil are symbols of chastity and virginity and should be worn only by brides who have earned them. Now you quote from St. Thomas Aquinas, and seem to have wavered from your original stand.

I certainly believe in the forgiveness of sins; that even the sin of unchastity can be, and is, forgiven by the Lord if the sinner is truly repentant. But this forgiveness does not remove the consequences of the sin. The unchaste woman may be forgiven by the Lord, but she still loses her right to the symbols of virginity. I urge you to remain firm in your original position. Our young people must learn that there are certain penalties for unchastity and rewards for purity. —A CONCERNED PASTOR

DEAR PASTOR: I remain firm in my stand, and waver not the slightest. I printed the Catholic point of view, though it is not my own, in fairness to my readers.

DEAR ABBY: My son has been married approximately six years, and so far all they have been able to raise are dogs. They seem very satisfied, and there is never any mention of their having children. They have two Boston bulls at present and they treat them like babies. Should I ask my daughter-in-law if that's the best she can do? —DISGUSTED MOTHER-IN-LAW

DEAR DISGUSTED: Ask your son. But don't be surprised if he tells you he'll "do better" when he's doggone good and ready.

DEAR ABBY: Our father is a surly, argumentative type who could never get along with anybody. Mamma was an angel, and even she couldn't please him. She died two years ago and now Father is 59 and lives alone. He tried living with each one of us (we are all married) but he never lasted over two months with any of us. He left every place mad! Just before Christmas he wrote each of us telling us not to buy him anything because he wasn't buying us anything — not even the grandchildren. My oldest sister was so ashamed she bought her children gifts and put "Love from Grandpa" on the cards. Now he has sent us each another letter saying that when he dies he doesn't want to "bother" any of his children with the burial—that he has everything fixed up with the Veterans' Burial Association. Should we ignore him or try to make the peace? —SPEAKING FOR THE FIVE OF US

DEAR SPEAKING: It is sometimes difficult to tell whether a person is sick, or just "acting ugly." Someone in your family should keep in touch with him because he appears to need help. Try to keep the peace even if you must go 95 per cent of the way. You won't regret it.

Flowers Add Fresh Touch

Flowers are an effective way to dress up even the most simple spring costume.

Florists can create delicate, clever arrangements of favorite flowers that can be worn in many ways. The conventional corsage is one way, of course. But fresh flowers can also be pinned on a spring hat, tucked in hair, tacked to a bag, or fastened at the waistline.

The softness of flowers close to the face has a particularly flattering effect. A single blossom can be pinned to the lapel, or Florists' Telegraph Delivery designers suggest curving a garland of tiny carnations around the collar.

The feminine flattery of flowers is particularly important this season, when so much fashion emphasis is softly placed on pretty, ladylike look.

Today's fashionable is carrying on an old tradition by using flowers to add the perfect final touch to her costumes.

Great ladies of all ages knew the effect of flowers, and wore or carried fragrant blossoms on every important occasion.

Garlands go back to ancient Greece, and the lure of glorious fresh bouquets played an important part in the romantic court of Louis XIV

During this colorful period, the rose bloomed to great acclaim. Empress Josephine chose the rose as her official flower.

Pianist Strikes Outdoor Note

Piano players are striking a new note in outdoor party entertainment by arriving with their instruments in tow, ready to play almost everywhere.

Electronic pianos are popping up at such unlikely playing sites as beaches, boats and backyard barbecues. The electronic piano packs its own battery power and weighs about 81 pounds. With its legs tucked into a built-in case about the size of a two-suiter, this party-goer can travel anywhere—except, of course.

Since it is electronic, humid- activities such as a long hike. ity and temperature do not have an adverse effect on its tone. It can be played in such diverse sites as the tail-gate of a station wagon or the sun deck of a swimming pool.

Members of the piano-playing set who live in apartments or are shy about practicing can do so privately, with the assurance that they will not be overheard. Earphones plugged into the piano direct sound from the instrument to the player only.

Lighter Look Stars In Suits

The trend to lighter colors in men's suits, heralded last year by the return to popularity of silver grays, has gathered real momentum for the spring and summer of 1964, according to the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear. The emphasis on lighter colors is so strong that it virtually dominates the style scene. It is evident in all three types of clothing: traditional; conventional and high style.

In both the high-style and conventional suits many of the new lighter colors will have a definite iridescence. Those shimmery surfaces are achieved in the weaving of the cloths by using yarns of one color in the warp (the length of the fabric) and of another color in the filling (the width).

Some of the iridescents are brilliantly obvious, others more subtle. The colors range from the very popular light grays to combinations of green and blue, blue and gold, tan and olive, blue and gray, as well as many others.

Darks Still Correct and Desirable

Traditional natural - shoulder suits, while avoiding the iridescents for the most part, also swing to the use of lighter colors. The traditionals also use lighter grays, olives, tans, blues and myriad mixtures of the same.

The trend to lighter colors, however, does not obviate the wearing of darks. There are, of course, times and occasions when dark suits are both correct and desirable. Nevertheless, darks will no longer dominate the style picture and men will welcome the opportunity to add wardrobe spice and variety.

In both the conventional and high-style suits the trend to two-button suits also continues and increases. The high - style use both the high placement and regular placement of the two button while the conventional group prefers the regular stance with the top of the two buttons placed near the natural waist line.

Provide More Comfort, Freedom

The vast majority of traditional suits will continue in the three - button model; and there are still quite a few one-button suits for the warm weather seasons. The latter are found mostly in the high-style models.

While many changes have been made in existing models, they are in construction rather than in style. For instance, designers have maintained the much wanted trim lines of current styles while providing more room in the interior for added comfort and freedom of movement.

PO LOST OWN CHECKS

LOUISVILLE (AP)—It was an embarrassing, and upsetting, incident for the Post Office staff here.

Approximately 100 paychecks for government workers in the federal building were mailed from Chicago to Louisville. One week later, they still hadn't arrived.

John Daley, an official of the General Services Administration, flew in from Chicago in an effort to track down the checks.

He found them. They had been delivered to Internal Revenue Service, two floors above in the same building.

LOOKS LIKE A HALF SLIP — Behaves like a panty! Olga's all-in-one Panti-Slip has divided leg construction which gives complete freedom of movement, can't twist or turn on the body, won't ride up or down, and gives lovely, smooth lines. The Corset Shop, 113 N. Tejon St., has them in small, medium, large and extra large sizes — and the colors for Spring are lovely: White, black, beige, pink, lemon, and rose red. To be sure, always be fitted at The Corset Shop!

New Trend Sees Young Shoe Styles Go Softly

For the teenager, the newest trend in footwear is the "pretty" look. Soft, Feminine styling in a variety of stunning, supple leather textures—smooth, suede, grained, patent, brushed and waxy—is calculated to make the liveliest teen tomboy convert into a lady.

The young shoe look has softened all the way down the line, reports Shoe Fashion Service of Leather Industries of America.

From glove leather mocs to polished leather dress pumps, teen toes are shod in footwear delicately touched with graceful openings, tiny perforations, elegant bows and many other fashion details. Lightweight leathers make these spring shoes as airy in feeling as they are in appearance.

Color selection should pose no problem for the shoe-buying teenager. The color line this spring is a flowing one, not at all rigid. Anything goes soft pastels, clear dramatic tones, or subtle neutrals. The colors of her spring clothes impose the only limits to her choice of shoe shades.

Study halls and soda shops provide a showcase for smart leather shoe styles. Grained leather strap pumps, pale glove-leather mocs with pinhole perforated trim, and brushed leather booties with split throatlines swing down school corridors. Spring's leather boots look flatteringly feminine.

Perched on malt-shop stools, shoe - happy show-offs display delicate T-strap flats in fine grained leather, multi-colored suede kiltie sling-backs, and smooth leather pumps in bright colors with discreet buckles or bows. These leather lovelies cradle the foot comfortably, and boast flexible leather soles for needed support and protection.

Going all-out for the romantic look are leather dress shoes for those red - letter dances and dates. Sling-backs and stripping sandals are devastating in refined smooth and lustre leathers, kitten - soft suede, sleek patent leather and very fine-grained leathers.

Leather pumps cut low at sides or front, or opened up at the sides, are sometimes untrimmed, sometimes adorned with old-fashioned jeweled buckles or large flat bows.

Lengths, Hues Are Topcoat Spring News

Topcoats and raincoats bow in keyed to the new lighter suiting shades, in appropriate lightweight fabrics and in shorter lengths.

In topcoats the suiting-weight fabrics, introduced last year, are ready in expanded offerings that include both solid shades, led by sleek sharkskins, and patterns bold and subdued.

Camel colors, a classic favorite of days gone by, are making a strong comeback. Most popular for spring are the single-breasted models, but the familiar double-breasted polo coats in slimmed down shortened versions find many admirers, too.

Look for new grays, natural shades, blacks and browns in both flat colors and iridescents.

Style leaders are beginning to view the real raglan models with new interest, but the split-raglans maintain a good lead on other styles.

GINGHAMS CHECK INTO FASHION — Cool, crisp, refreshingly young arnel ginghams combine solids and checks in exciting new ways. Neufeld's Apparel Shop, 23 S. Tejon St., invites you to choose them now — kookie blouses, new Italian collars, soft fold skirts, sheath skirts, kneecappers and Jamaicas with tricky new details like the sleeve "pocket" for sunglasses or compact! Neufeld's is positively running over with adorable new Easter fashions!

Danny W. Mahr Weds Miss Jacqueline Faye Cook

Miss Jacqueline Faye Cook, daughter of Command Sgt. Maj. and Mrs. Jack Cook of Ft. Carson, became the bride of Danny Warren Mahr in a candlelight double-ring ceremony Monday evening at Ft. Leavenworth.

The bridegroom is the son of Lt. Col. and Mrs. Warren C. Mahr. Colonel Mahr, a student at Command and General Staff College, was information officer at Ft. Carson for more than two years prior to his transfer last month.

Chaplain (Major) Parker C. Thompson officiated at the Baptist ceremony in the Fort Leavenworth Post Chapel in the presence of members of the immediate families. The couple was attended by Major and Mrs. Harold G. Lloyd.

The bride wore a beige suit and a corsage of white carnations. After a wedding trip to Topeka and Kansas City and a visit to Ft. Carson, the newlyweds will make their home in Santa Ana, Calif., where the bridegroom will be enrolled at UCLA.

The bride is a 1963 graduate of Fountain - -Fort Carson High School and has been working in the Purchasing and Contracting Office at Ft. Carson.

Her husband is a 1962 graduate of Widefield High School and has been a student at Colorado State College.

All Shades of Spring Win New Popularity

Pick a color — any color — and pick a fashion winner!

The spectrum sparkles from light to bright, with both pale pastels and bold, striking shades sharing attention. Since this is a season when nature springs into new life, the colors, appropriately, are plucked from land, sea and sky.

Bursting into bloom are such fashion colors as lilac, pink, poppy, marigold, iris, carnation, crocus, azalea. There's a veritable salad of greens, while blues show shades of sea and sky in everything from cloud-touched lights to deep - sea brights — including aquamarine and other green - influenced hues.

From the sea, too, comes coral to influence many fashionable colorings.

Prints, bold and dashing or pretty and feminine, appear on the spring landscape, often in combination with solids.

In the midst of color, neutrals are both eye-resting and arresting. To lead the way are whites and not-quite-whites — rice and flax, for instance. Beiges grow from the inspiration of bamboo and sandalwood, then darken into pecan and cocoa.

With fashion going to sea for spring colors, navy is a must. Black casts a long, cool shadow, looking impressive alone or as an accent to white.

SUSPICIOUS PARCEL FROM HOME

FULTON, Ky. (AP) — When Mrs. Mary Arrington answered the telephone, a man asked if she had a son in the Navy.

"Yes," she replied a bit fearfully.

The caller, identifying himself as a postal inspector in Centralia, Ill., then barked:

"What are you sending him in a package that ticks and buzzes?"

It was a battery - operated toothbrush with the switch turned on accidentally.

Spring Into a New Wardrobe

Men's clothing, furnishings and sportswear enters a new, colorful and vibrantly patterned era this spring and summer season with the widespread acceptance of the lighter and brighter shades that were introduced last year.

In addition to the light grays, clothing colors include bright iridescents; topcoats score in lightweight suiting fabrics in new shorter models, and interest is being shown in real raglans in both topcoats and raincoats.

Colorful business shirts in stripes and solid shades have achieved tremendous popularity that carries over into sport shirts which also boast plaids and prints.

Two new hat silhouettes will top off many outfits, while a variety of cool, lightweight shoes completes the picture.

Soft Look of Spring Appears in Leather

The romance that is spring is reflected this year in the world of leather fashion. Softly-styled leather suits, jackets, dresses and coats have a fresh, feminine look that will appeal to every woman with a streak of romance in her nature . . . and which one hasn't?

The total apparel picture puts femininity into soft focus, reports Leather Industries of America. Dresses and suits are moving closer to the body. Colors are pale, or bright and clear.

Whether the silhouette clings or flows, leathers are light, mobile, supple. Sleek, smooth and grained leather, velvety suede leather, glistening lustre leather and gleaming patent leather are available in an eye-filling parade of graceful costumes.

In lightweight suede and smooth leathers, stunning two and three-piece ensembles are tailored to enhance the wearer, with matching slim skirts.

Back are double-breasted suits in leather with their own leather scarves to tie or tuck in at the throat. Pretty leather-and-silk combinations are available — case in point: a raw silk blouse with leather skirt and a leather vest trimmed with silk applique.

Springs coats in exciting leather textures and a full range of colors offer a variety of silhouettes — fitted, arrow-straight or A-line. Mostly full-length, these elegant leather coats feature many individual touches, such as unusual buttons, contrasting leather piping or binding, self-ties or sashes, and varied neckline treatments.

Although shifts and A - lines are still on the scene, the empire dress is most important to the new look. With its emphasis on the bust - line, the leather empire is quietly devastating in delicate shades of peach, lemon or sand. The versatile two-piece dress is seen with slim, A-line or draped skirt, and fitted or crop top.

Leather separates accomplish wonders in the wardrobe-stretching department. Easy jackets in buttery suede and supple grained leathers lead many lives. Straight - cut or semi - fitted, they cover the spring scene in tandem with skirts, dresses, jumpers and pants.

Other smart leather separates include overblouses, skirts and pants.

HINTS FROM Heloise

By HELOISE CRUSE

Dear Heloise:

It really makes no difference what you are, widow, bachelor mother with a bunch of kids, or just afraid . . .

Those little old night lights that you can buy in any dime store are fabulous for lots of places (besides the baby's bed). This is the type light that you can plug into any socket but people "always" think they are only for babies.

I keep one burning in my kitchen all night and it takes "very" few kilowatts. I just plug it in where my waffle iron and coffee pot go!

I keep another one in the bathroom at night without turning on the big light.

I keep another one in the stairway socket so that those who walk up and down the stairs at night can "see" each step.

And I have found that it saves money by unplugging that big kilowatt light in our closet and screwing in a socket, then plugging one of these little lights in.' This can burn all day and all night since it's only around seven kilowatts (And, dear Heloise, don't ask me "what that means". I've been down to the light company and they told me it means it costs less money than those other lights.) I do not have to pull that chain or punch a switch everytime I go into a closet. It gives off just enough light.

Believe me, any man who pays the electric bill will appreciate this. It's inexpensive to run and costs practically nothing. Just look in your dime store for a night light. There are types to fit anyone's fancy. —Oldster

Dear Heloise:

To separate a package of small paper doilies, give them a good whack against the edge of the table. They will come apart very easily. —Arvilla C. Jensen

Dear Heloise:

While most of us "try" to buy sheets that are long enough for our beds, on occasion some are just a trifle too short.

I solved that problem by putting the bottom sheet on the mattress and placing it so that the bottom hem of the sheet comes "only" to the foot of the mattress itself with "no hang-over at all."

This leaves that much extra sheet to tuck in "at the top." If the sheet is pulled quite tightly when tucking it in, it will stay in place.

For Hollywood beds with no headboard; I miter the corners at the head of the bed. —A Reader.

Thanks. —Heloise

Dear Heloise:

One does not have to be a seamstress to beautify a tablecloth that has a hole in it!

Take a left-over scrap of colored percale and simply snip out a flower . . . a monogram . . . or a picture of a teapot, etc., and sew it daintily over that unsightly hole. You will be quite pleased with the new look. —Florence B.

NOW THAT THE BABY IS GROWN

LOUISVILLE (AP) — On a cold, rainy night in February 1934, Dr. U. R. Ulferts delivered a baby but made no charge because the family was poor.

Recently, he received this letter from Oklahoma City:

Inclosed you will find a check for $50 in payment for an old doctor bill of $15. Although we were grateful for the medical care, we were unable to pay. I hope the extra $35 will be enough for the interest."

The letter was signed by that mother of 30 years ago.

MARRIAGE ANNOUNCED — The marriage of Miss Bonnie Jean Sainsbury and James Frederick Page took place recently in Provo, Utah. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eldon J. Sainsbury of Toppenish, Wash. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Page of 1349 Bennett Ave., Colorado Springs. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. Eli Evasovic. After a wedding trip to Toppenish, the newlyweds will live in Colorado Springs. Both attended Brigham Young University in Provo.

Feminine Fabrics Match Gentle Theme of Fashion

Fabrics for dresses match the soft mood of spring fashion, with many chiffons, lacy wools, crepes and silks. Lace looks very new and important in fresh young styles.

In marked contrast, are the crisp fabrics such as silk twills, ottomans, textured cottons and linens that are used for spring's more tailored styles.

Colorwise, the spring spectrum is pale and pretty with emphasis on pinks, yellowed and clear pale greens, china blues, aqua, and the apricot-melon range.

Contrast colors are important for spring dresses, with black and white looking especially right use together as solids or mixed in prints.

Spring is a study in contrasts, and nowhere is this better seen than in the new costumes and co-ordinates where a single outfit may mix color, pattern and texture.

For example, a black and white silk polka dot dress has an oatmeal linen coat; navy blazers are worn over white crepe dresses; print linen blouses top lacy tweed suits and tri-color odd - jacket, skirt and blouse outfits abound.

It's Smart to Be Yourself, Says Spring Style Message

Spring sends this fashion message: Be perfectly dashing, be purely romantic and, best of all, be yourself.

What it adds up to is that fashion's growing trend to individuality no longer just blossoms but blooms in full force. Gone is the time when fashion decreed just one "right" look for one season, and, theoretically at least, everyone rushed to follow fashion's decree.

Now it's a multiplicity of looks, beautifully varying, blending and contrasting. And "be yourself" means, of course, that each woman can select her preference in several styles, so that she, too, may vary her personal fashion impression according to need, occasion, mood.

Although the dashing and the romantic highlight spring's many looks, most fashion influences are by no means all one or the other. Capes, for instance, are dashing — in suit jackets with a buccaneer look and in swashbuckling coats either full length or travel-wise shorter lengths. But when it comes to dresses, dashing capes go romantic, in separate jackets or jacket-effects and ruffled, bertha-like collars.

Ruffles Everywhere

Ruffles, indeed, show their wiles everywhere, not only on collars and sleeves. They plunge down the fronts of dresses and blouses; they flounce hemlines, for a look that's feminine, romantic.

Romantic, too, is the way shape swings into fashion. Fit is more so in many of spring's new styles — still gentle, caressing, but quietly expressing another happy message: Girls are girls.

Along with the swing to shape goes a move to fuller skirts, seen in new versions of the princess and the A line, in plenty of pleats, gathers, flounces.

Freshly Sportive

In a dashing manner, fashion takes the sportive mood and freshens it for spring with new interpretations, new soft femininity. Borrowed - from-the-boys ideas, such as pin stripes, blazers, cutaways, military styles, are transformed into delightfully ladylike looks.

Some dashing styles with much bravura are pirated right from the pirates of old, for a buccaneer effect — cape, skirt, blouse, weskit and calf belt. Military epaulets and seaming add the dash to still other styles, and so does shoulder emphasis through greater, but not exaggerated, width.

An idea evolved from men's fashions is the two-skirt suit, there are also two-jacket suits. The two - skirt thought is: Short for day, long for evening, since fashion's liking for the long look flourishes in the spring.

In the two-jacket suit, the blouse on its own or under a sleeved jacket.

Colors Are Varied

Colors and fabrics offer as much variety as styling. Hues are lively and bright, lovely and light.

Fabrics are floaty and fluffy, in crepes, laces and surface-textured wools, silks, blends, or clear-cut and crisp, in linens, twills, meltons, gabardines.

Sportswear Goes for Color

Sportswear blazes with color and sparkles with variety for spring 1964. There are the pale and pretty pastels. There are bold, brilliant shades. There are prints, from neat and demure to big and vivid—striking combinations of such shades as purple, yellow, red.

There are muted hues, such as the grays and grayed greens. There is white, shining forth in shades from snowy to almost-beige.

Styles Appear in Amazing Diversity

As for the range of styles, the word "sportswear" continues to encompass an amazing diversity. It includes, as the word implies, fashions for active sports, but that doesn't begin to tell the story. Costumes and costume components for any and all occasions come from sportswear departments — casual and not-so-casual dresses, coordinates of every imaginable kind, skirts, jackets, blouses from strictly tailored to frilly and feminine, knits, jumpers, pants—everything to put together a complete spring wardrobe.

Costumes Come in Three Parts

A particular favorite among coordinates this season is the three-part costume, composed of skirt, blouses and jacket or weskit, often in contrasting colors or in stripes or other prints combined with solids.

Two-part outfits, too, make a strong showing. Dresses take toppings from weskits to sweaters to jackets. Jumpers become dresses, frequently in shift or skimmer styles, but they have their own blouses so that they can also be coordinates.

A favorite jacket is the blazer, with new softer styling. Important Chanel-look jackets take on added ease, and sometimes they are ruffled.

Ruffles and flounces are a prevailing theme in latest sportswear. Cascades of organdy or eyelet adorn blouses designed for a young, feminine spring. Lots of lace, supple cowl collars, bows and poufs carry out the ladylike mood in dresses nd coordinates.

Include Pettis

Some combinations include their own petticoats or petti-pants — lace, embroidery or dainty prints to peek through a wrap skirt or side-slit dress.

Stretch fabrics are a sportswear story in themselves. Stretch cotton, denim, knits, sailcloth and stretch fabrics of every type appear in skirts, shirts, tops, pants, culottes, shifts and jackets.

The idea of sportswear for active living is fully developed. There are groups of coordinates designed specifically for sports such as golfing, bowling, tennis, sailing. One group of tennis separates is composed of tennis dress, pleated skirt, shorts and top, and an after-the-game blazer.

Pretty Look Liked

The ski influence continues and is transformed into "after water-ski" fashions. These include parka-like shirts, jackets and turtleneck tops.

Not-so-casual dresses favor the soft, pretty look, with more feminine detailing for the shift, the skimmer, the A-line. Smocked empire "baby dress" styles and long torso types with flounced hemlines get fashion attention.

To make a foil liner for a baking dish or pan, first shape the foil over the outside of the inverted utensil, then place inside.

S' Influence Shows n Variety of Fabrics

Signing in for spring is the 'S" influence in fabrics. They re smooth smart, souffled, upple, sporty and striped. And hey often stretch — but not out of shape.

When they're smooth, they have crisp, flat surfaces that show off the tailored but feminine look of fashions — linens and linen looks, meltons and men's wear type worsteds, for instance.

Particularly smart and newly important are the slubbed and the slightly or strongly ribbed weaves, such as gabardines, twills, cords, herringbones, shantungs and rustic silk.

Soft and souffled, spongy and lacy fabrics make much of mohair, tweed, bubbly wools and blends of all sorts. Lace itself is a most attractive part of this airy, thoroughly feminine look for spring.

Sporty for the active life are spring's styles in sailcloth, poplin, cotton suede, seersucker, denim.

Supple fabrics take to the many gracefully draped and shaped fashions now entering for the new season. Important in this group are crepes and sheers of silk, rayon, whisper-weight wools, cottons and blends.

Stripes set the pace for spring styles from soft to sporty —pin, blazer, mattress and free-form stripes in shades light to bright.

Stretch fabrics acquire new eminence as science brings discoveries in these lines out of the test tube stage into real fashion practicality. Sportswear is still the stronghold for most use, but there is an increasing variety of other styles which take advantage of the active comfort and shape - retaining smartness of stretch fabrics.

Fashion's Garden Grows for the Girls

The flowers that bloom in the spring have nothing on the fashions that big and little girls will be picking for dress, school and casual wear.

For spring, fashion grows a garden of fresh, young designs with a simplicity that lends itself to fabric and color interest.

Fashion goes free-form for spring, with skimmy and high-waisted shapes dominating dresses, coats and suits.

In dresses and jumpers, the newest interpretations are tent shapes, with fullness falling in voluminous folds from a drawstring neckline or a wide, rounded yoke.

Occasionally, the waistline is dropped, for a slimming new "stretched-out" look.

Many dresses are costumes with their very own capes, jackets or coats. The coatdress and the pleated - skirt dress with blazer jacket are favorites with the younger-than-springtime set.

The cape's the shape of many of spring's smartest coats for girls. It can be a real cape, or a coat with detachable, reversible, short - cropped or other variety of capelet. Capes also appear as jackets for spring suits.

Besides cape coats, the spring coat line-up includes demi-fitted styles, "military" looks, stretched-out styles and collarless coats with a dressmaker look.

The Chanel-influence is reflected in coats, as well as suits, with such "Chanelisms" as brass buttons, braid binding and quadrupled pockets. Very much in the Chanel mood are cardigan - collared styles and blazer-jacketed suits and costumes.

Very often spring coat and suit sleeves are soft shirt-sleeves with cuffs.

With girl's spring styles so simple, fabric and color have never been more important.

For spring, girls will be wearing linens and linen-like blends, dotted swiss, seersucker, pique, muslin, pima, twill, barkcloth, rayon blends and, of course, cotton.

Colorwise, it's a happy spring for girls with plenty of lights and brights to choose from. Bold floral prints, big and little polka dots, potent pinks and parrot greens appear alongside paler mauve, beige, yellow and pastel shades.

The nautical influence is seen in combinations of navy with white, and white with red or navy trimming.

Little girls will play it pretty for spring, with plenty of stretch and knit fashions in the active sportswear picture.

For summer, girls will be getting in the swim with blouson swimsuits, bikinis, and rugby-striped tank suits. Imaginatively styled beachwear features wildly printed coverups with hoods or hats.

Hot vinegar helps remove paint stains from glass.

The Look Is Lovely At Weddings

Spring's bride will walk down the aisle in a romantically feminine bouffant, princess or empire gown styled of soft fabrics such as silk, chiffon, organza and cotton lace.

Trims will be more luxurious than ever, with bridal fashions featuring a new heavy Swiss lace embroidery.

The color, of course, will be white because, traditionally, white belongs to brides.

One newsworthy variation on the bridal white theme this spring will be the fully color-coordinated wedding, with attendant's gowns, all the flowers and even the mother of the bride's gown in one color. The bride will set the color theme of the wedding by wearing traditional white with a touch of the prevailing shade, perhaps at the waist.

Also new for spring is the revival of the babushka or kerchief hood for both the bride and her attendants. There will be many beautiful headpieces such as the very short or very long mantilla, or a veil that puffs out from a frou-frou of fabric perching atop the head.

White bridal gowns and veils became a tradition early in 1800. Today, a white bouquet, white rice and wedding cake, and even the white diamond hiding beneath a white glove are time-honored customs with twentieth-century brides.

White flowers, such as lilies, orchids, roses and lilies-of-the-valley all signify beauty and purity. Orange blossoms also symbolize fruitfulness, since the blossom, bud and fruit are on the tree at the same time.

White rice, the symbol of health and wealth, means "May you have a full pantry."

White frosted wedding cakes once were made in sets of twos; one for the bride and one for the groom.

Ever since white satin slippers made fashion news on January 6, 1759, they have been popular and a part of "bridal white." On that day, Martha Washington wore large diamond buckles on her wedding slippers—a steal from men's buckled shoes!

Remove prespiration odor from clothes by adding a little vinegar to the final rinse.

Many bridal "traditions" are really superstitions.

But it isn't bad luck for the bride to move her diamond engagement ring from her left to her right hand a day before the ceremony. It's just a practicality, leaving her left hand free for the wedding band.

Later, perhaps during the reception, the diamond ring can be returned to its place in front of the wedding band.

Wearing both rings on the fourth finger of the left hand stems from an early Greek belief that the vena amoris, or the vien of love, ran directly from that particular finger to the heart. The Greeks called a white diamond a constant flame of love.

Fresh Touch Shoes in Boys' Spring Sports, Dressy Togs

There's something new for the boys this spring.

It's a lighter, brighter look that adds a fresh touch to little boys' dress and sport wear.

The newest colorings are white and off-white. But there are plenty of brights, with coppery reds, pinkish browns, deep pinks and orange.

Also new and news for spring is an "athletic look" in boys' sportswear. This includes not only nautical but also rugby, baseball and tennis-influenced styles.

Boys' spring suits are traditionally styled, and reflect the trend to lighter, brighter colorings. Many are subtly striped.

Besides the light, textured sport coats, boys will be wearing blazer, awning and denim striped coats in rich, soft pastel tones with white or color-cued slacks.

Boys' spring slacks are either belt-loop Ivy styles or continentals.

Both dress and sport shirts show their stripes for spring. Boys will be wearing stripes of all widths, in every color and fabric.

For their sporting life, boys will want striped rugby shirts, as well as stretch shirtings in solids, stripes and madras plaid. Knit sport shirts follow the athletic look trend.

Baseball jackets, with or without fleece or flannel lining, Western-influenced styles, rugby looks, collarless cardigans and mandarin collar styles, and poplin bush jackets with roomy pockets hidden under all-around self-belts appear in the spring jacket selection.

SMOOTH TEXTURED KNITS—Lightweight knits fit into the resort scene or spring activities at home with equal aplomb, especialy the new Nantuk knits combining two kinds of orlon acrylic. The texture is smooth, close-knit and slightly crisp, as in Blairmoor's good-looking sleeveless dress and Chanel jacket, trimmed with miniature cable stitch. Colors are pretty pastels. Acceptance for Stretch Is On the Grow Among Men

Pessimists who say that men's wear never changes need only look around them at the abundance of lighter and brighter shades, bolder stripes, checks and patterns that are enlivening the masculine world this spring.

And while they're looking, they'll see still another exciting development—it's stretch, real news for men's fashions that is now spreading from shirts and slack to suits and even rainwear.

Better fit, which means less alteration, comfort at points of stress, and shape retention are just a few of the advantages claimed for stretch fabrics.

Stretch is used most frequently in slacks and shirts, and is said to give a slimmer, more youthful look as well as neatness and comfort. Stretch lends itself well to the tapered look in shirts and slacks demanded by men today. Shirts don't ride up or bunch, even after hours of wear, manufacturers claim.

The newest innovations in stretch apparel are raincoats and walk-shorts, in new jamaica length, as well as laminated stretch linings, claimed to preserve the shape of the garment. Suits, also, are being introduced in stretch fabrics and are said to eliminate binding and sackiness.

If widespread acceptance of stretch apparel continues, it may become a menswear classic in its own right. More will be on hand for fall.

ARTFUL ABSTRACTION — Emphatically taking over the entire fashion picture here is a talented little impressionistically-printed knit dress that collects favorable reviews wherever it shows. Soft, Pretty Dresses Take Over for Spring

A soft spring is in the air for dresses.

Fashion enters an era of romance, with the mood of the new season reflected in the gentle fit and feminine details of softer shifts, shirtwaists and skimmer styles.

Blousing, bias cut, ruffle, pleats, softly drawn necklines and sleeves, droopy collars and big floppy bows are sure to make every woman look and feel her prettiest this spring.

Easy-skirted styles have new swing and flare, while fuller skirts make a come-back.

In a spring of romantic dresses, it's only natural that many of the most feminine and flattering styles have soft empire shaping.

But the dropped waistline is youthfully important, too, in "stretched-out waistline looks" that often end in a flounce or flare.

The natural waistline makes a fashionable reappearance for spring in dresses with soft, blousey bodices and fuller skirts.

Spring's new costume concepts include stetched-out pleated skirt dresses with blazer jackets, dresses with capelets, and sleeved dresses with sleeveless coats.

The gently-shaped coat dress and pseudo-suit, which is really a one-piece dress that just looks like a suit, complete the spring dress picture.

Spring's sleeve is long and skinny, deep and wide, funnel or cape shaped. Although the sleeved look is most feminine, there will be plenty of sleeveless dresses for women who prefer them.

Necklines make news for spring. After the sun goes down, daring dresses really go to town with beautifully bared U-shaped scoop, circular and plunge necklines replacing the "covered-up look."

The long dress is now an evening essential for elegants, and spring will see a romantic array of to-the-floor chiffons and laces.

Pin stripes are starred for spring in dresses that play up contrast with a schoolgirl white collar and big bow, or a complementary print.

Who's afraid of the big, bold print? Nobody it seems, for fashion has gone all-out for the spectacular this spring, and many of the smartest dresses around are in beautifully important abstract and floral prints.

AMA Reports Note Single Men Tops In Work Loss

Among unmarried employees, men stay home from work because of sickness more days than women.

The sick absence rate among single men was found to be 4.3 days per person per year compared with 3.9 days among single women, according to a report in the current Archives of Environmental Health, published by the American Medical Association.

Single women have higher rates than single men only at ages under 35 and thereafter have lower rates than men, with a markedly lower rate at age 45 and over, the report showed.

Among married persons, however, women had a higher rate of sick days than men, 6.1 days per woman per year compared with 4.7 per man per year.

"From this it would appear that the important factor in high sick absence among females is related to marriage rather than to the fact that females are females." Philip E. Enterline, PhD, U.S. Public Health Service, Washington, D. C., concluded.

Dr. Enterline reported previously unpublished data on sick absence by age, sex and marital status for the United States during a two-year period, ending in June, 1961. The data on a random sample of about 35,000 households originally was collected in monthly interviews for the U.S. Department of Labor. The sample represents the experience of about 56,000,000 wage and salary workers.

The sick absence of women, presently or previously married, is roughly 50 per cent higher than that of single women, Dr. Enterline found.

"This contrast declines slightly with age but nevertheless remains sufficiently constant to suggest that, whatever factors are involved, they exist throughout the working life of women who have married," he commented. "This seems to rule out, for example, high sick absence due to pregnancy and childbirth since these events occur mostly at the younger ages."

The highest sick absence among women appears where the spouse is absent or the marriage has been dissolved, either by death or divorce, he pointed out.

The responsibility of caring for children offers a reasonable explanation for the higher sick absence among married women, he said, adding:

"Possibly interacting with this is the likelihood that married females are often less dependent upon their jobs for economic support or as a career than are males, or single females, and therefore are more likely to stay away from their work because of illness."

Were it possible to remove such socio-cultural factors, he added, women would no doubt have a superior sick absence record when compared with men.

Carson Picked As Site for Gun Matches

Ft. Carson, Colorado will be the scene of marksmanship matches to be held Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday. Representing Post and the 5th Infantry Division (Mechanized) the marksmen are preparing for the Fifth Army rifle, pistol and automatic rifle championship tournament April 20 to 24 at Ft. Riley, Kansas.

From those competing in the Fifth Army matches, a team will be selected to represent Fifth Army in the U. S. Army championships at Fort Benning, Georgia, in June.

From that competition will come the team to represent the Army in the national rifle and pistol matches at Camp Perry, Ohio, in August.

Army marksmen are expected to comprise a major portion of the team that will represent the United States in Olympic competition and world championships.

The marksmanship program is designed to provide a keenly competitive situation and produce skilled marksmanship instructors for the Army.

HAYWIRE

Fats Domino Will Appear in Springs Tuesday

One of the modern music greats, Fats Domino, will be at the City Auditorium with his orchestra Tuesday to play for a dance from 9 p.m. to 1 a.m.

As a recording artist, Domino has sold over 10 million records in the past three months alone, including his renditions of "My Blue Heaven," "When My Dreamboat Comes Home," and "Blueberry Hill."

The sales of his current releases, "What's the Reason I'm Not Pleasing You," and "Blue Monday" are not included in that tally. These discs are expected to add another million sales to his credit.

Many of Fats Domino's greatest successes have been with tunes that he composed, and are best described as folk songs with a rhythm and blues beat. He takes his titles from colloquial expressions that have become a part of everyday speech, like "Ain't That a Shame," "Poor Me," "Don't Blame That On Me," and "I'm In Love Again," "Wait and See," "Big Beat." Like most folk songs, they tell a story.

Fats Domino was born Antoine Domino on Feb. 26, 1928, in New Orleans. Altho he was the only one of nine children to show an interest in music, the family was not an unmusical one. His father was a violinist, and his uncle, Harry Verett, had played with such famous jazz aggregations as those of Kid Ory and Oscar Celestin.

By the time Fats was 10 years old, he was playing the piano and singing for pennies in the local honky tonks. Unfortunately, his early career as a caberet entertainer was shortlived. When he was old enough to get a proper job, he went to work in a bedspring factory to help support his family. He continued, however, to play the piano at night.

Altho Fats didn't mind the rigorous schedule of working night and day, an accident almost put an end to it and to his piano playing as well. One of the heavy springs at the factory fell and injured his hand. For some time there was some question of whether he would be able to move his hand again. By sheer force of will and adherence to a rigid set of exercises, he gradually regained use of his fingers and went back to his piano.

From the beginning, Fats was a recording success. His sales skyrocketed and his early training in the New Orleans clubs made him an ingratiating and much sought after night club entertainer.

At 28, Fats Domino has managed to become one of the top artists in his field.

He still makes his home in New Orleans and is happily married and the father of six children.

Carson Using Newly Developed Training Course

Ft. Carson has started using a newly developed training course in advanced land navigation for advanced individual training. The course was developed by the Human Resources Research Office (HUMRRO), a nongovernmental agency at George Washington University.

HUMRRO's mission is to conduct studies and research in the fields of training, motivation, leadership and man weapons system analysis. The new land compass procedures and terrain analysis

Men of A and B companies of 2nd Battalion, 61st Infantry Regiment set up a course about 2,200 meters in length in an area southwest of Ft. Carson Hospital. Trainees must traverse various types of terrain to complete the course.

The exercises involved include a distance determination course, and day and night navigational exercises. The trainees are required to apply techniques in compass reading, distance determination and map interpretation to traverse the course and arrive at the correct check points and objectives.

Classroom instruction reviews deadreckoning procedures, provides practice in holding, reading and sighting the compass and provides the necessary basic skills in correct map interpretation.

Sgt. York Goes Back To His Home Farm

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

JAMESTOWN, Tenn. (AP)— Tough old Sgt. Alvin York has fought off another illness and gone back to his farm home in Pall Mall, Tenn.

The 76-year-old hero of World War I entered the Jamestown hospital two weeks ago, suffering from dehydration and in a semicoma. It was the eighth time he has been in the hospital in 18 months.

Dr. Guy Pinckley said York hasn't fully recovered, but that his condition is much improved. He was discharged from the hospital Friday.

York won the Congressional Medal of Honor in 1918 after he single-handedly killed 25 Germans and captured 132 in the Argonne Forest.

Bates Attends Annual Bakery Engineers Meet

George Ed. Bates, a prominent Colorado Springs businessman, recently attended the 40th annual meeting of the American Society of Bakery Engineers held at the Edgewater Beach Hotel in Chicago. The meeting was attended by over 1700 men from all parts of the world.

Discussions during the Chicago meeting included many phases of the baking industry, baking technology, and the science of baking. New machinery — the continuous bread producing machinery, for example, which is now being introduced in the United States — was a main topic of discussion.

Bates is a graduate of Siebel Institute of Technology. He was formerly the superintendent of Whiteside Bakery in Louisville, Ky., Schulzes Bakeries, and the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Company in Chicago and Detroit, and several others.

At this time, Bates is the proprietor of Bates Court in Colorado Springs. He hopes to resume his participation in the baking industry, and to extend his vast experience and knowledge in the industry.

MANCHESTER — Some $5,000 has been found in the walls of a chapel being demolished nearby.

Salida Tops Tribe For District Title

By CHARLIE DREUX
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

The towering Spartans walked off with the Pikes Peak League District Tournament championship crown when the Salida roundballers poured on the gas in the final period to wallop Cheyenne, 84-66, Saturday night at the City Auditorium.

In the consolation game, the determined Huskies of Florence turned back Harrison, 64-62, in a nip and tuck contest which saw the southern team pull out the victory in the last period.

Both Cheyenne and Salida will compete in the State Class AA Tournament this week in Denver at the Auditorium Arena. The Indians, which won the PPL title undefeated, are slated to clash with Cortez this Thursday at 8 p.m. during the opening round. The Cheyenne aggregation will compete in the lower bracket.

Don Schmidli's Spartans, which won their second straight District Tourney championship, qualified for the state tournament for the fifth consecutive time. The Salida crew is slated to face La Junta in Thursday's state tourney opening round at 5:15 p.m. and the Spartans will compete in the upper bracket.

Altho the Cheyenne - Salida championship encounter was a close fought contest in the opening half, the giants from Salida took over the boards in the latter half to pound out the impressive win. The Spartans jumped ahead, 14-13, at the conclusion of the first quarter, but the Tribesmen enjoyed a hot hand from the field in the following period to take a 33-32 slim lead at intermission.

The Salida basketballers came back strong in the third period to accumulate 28 points while the Indians kept pace with 20 points. Cheyenne's Jack O'Brien sank two points in the final second of that third period to close the gap, 60-56.

But the Indians ran into foul and scoring difficulties in the final quarter whereas the Salida group maintained its rapid scoring pace to collect 24 points while containing the Cheyenne squad to a mere 10 points. With 3:22 remaining in the game, the Spartans shot out in front 76-62 and the Salida team racked up seven points in the last two minutes to cinch the win.

Dean Champlin tossed in 35 points to spearhead the victory for Salida while teammate E. J. Dunckhorst contributed 33 points to the winning cause for the only two Spartans scoring in the double figures.

For Cheyenne, Gary Graham pumped in 27 points before leaving the contest with 4:22 remaining in the fourth period. Joel Folk added 11 points while O'Brien hit for 10.

It was a decisive triumph for Schmidli's cagers as the Salida crew took complete charge of the boards collecting 47 rebounds to Cheyenne's 26. The Spartans also enjoyed a hot hand from the field sinking 32 of 54 attempts, while Champlin led the Salida team hitting a whopping 13 of 18 field goals.

Herb Woolsey engineered the Florence victory as the Huskie cager scored 25 points in addition to clearing the boards for 12 rebounds. David Zamarripa hit for 21 points while Manuel Alvarez added 10 points for the Florence victory.

Danny Gieck fired in 24 points for his usual outstanding performance for the Panthers, while teammate Fred Stephens pumped in 13 followed by Mike Obert with 10.

The Huskies led thru the final period until Harrison encounter a rally to come within two points of Florence, 62-60, with 1:01 left on the clock. But Woolsey hit for two points to put the Huskies out front, 64-62, while Eddie Hook scored the Panthers last goal with six xeconds left which put the game on ice for Florence.

Lincoln Downs Track Suspends Activities

LINCOLN, R.I. (AP)—Lincoln Downs called off racing indefinitely Saturday because of a muddy track.

A spokesman said, "The jockeys were hesitant to ride and some horsemen were hesitant to race because of the mud. The warm sun made the mud worse."

The mud problem, produced by a quick thaw and rains, has kept the track idle since Wednesday.

Tech Nips Tigers in OT, 9-8

By LOY HOLMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Editor

Michigan Tech's Fred Dart put an end to Colorado College's hockey season Saturday night with the Huskies' winning goal with 6:45 gone in the sudden death overtime period to give the visitors an exciting 9-8 victory.

CC had several good chances to wrap it up themselves aftergoing thru regulation time with a tie game, but the Tigers were unable to penatrate Tech's fine defensive corps for the vital tally. There were about 1,500 fans at the Broadmoor World Arena to see the final game.

Coach Bob Johnson's Bengals went into the 10-minute final period still thinking they might slip into the Western Collegiate Hockey Association playoffs should they win in this finale to the regular season. However, in Minneapolis, North Dakota had earlier in the evening gone ahead of the Tigers no matter how the game ended here when the Nodaks scored a 3-1 decision over Minnesota in their final game to give Dakota fifth place in the final standings.

CC finished up in sixth place, a step out of the cellar held by Michigan State, as the Tigers wound up with a 4-11-1 league record. Over the entire year, the Bengals just missed a break-even mark as they ended with a 12-14-1 record.

Tech, which managed to come from behind in Saturday's game on the strength of two late unassisted goals by defenseman Norm Wimmer, ended up in fourth place, with Michigan, Denver and Minnesota finishing ahead of them in order. The Huskies have a 9-7 league mark.

It was set up before the game that had CC won and North Dakota lost to put the Tigers in fifth, they would have found their way thru the back door of the league into the WCHA playoffs. Minesota earlier declared its team could not participate because of a conflict with final examinations. This allowed the fifth place team into the playoff.

Tech elected to retain its fourth place postion for the playoffs and next Thursday and Friday will meet Michigan at Ann Arbor in a two-game, total goals series. Meanwhile, North Dakota (taking over the third spot for the playoffs) will be meeting Denver University in Denver in the same type of series. Had CC finished fifth this would have been the situation for the Tigers.

Besides Wimmer's two crucial goals in the third period which threw the game into overtime, Tech was paced by All-America center George Hill who scored the three-goal hat trick. Dave Palm scored twice for the Tigers.

Tech was playing without their other All-America, goalie Gary Bauman, who was taking a night's rest after playing CC on Wednesday and Denver on Tuesday and Friday of this week. In his place was sub goalies Phil McVittie, who contributed to the wild-scoring game much more than would have been the case had Beauman been in the nets.

McVittie ended up with 37 saves for the game, while CC's Art Warwick, having one of his less speactacular nights in the final game of his collegiate career, had 41 stops.

Friday's Results

Denver 3, Michigan Tech 2 (OT); Michigan 9, Michigan State 4; Minnesota 5, North Dakota 3.

Saturday's Results

Michigan Tech 9, Colorado College 8 (OT); North Dakota 3, Minnesota 1; Michigan 13, Michigan State 4.

In the only other game which finished up the regular season for league teams, Michigan capped it's championship year with a 13-4 victory over Michigan State. That gave the Wolverines a WCHA record of 12-2, compared to second place Denver's 7-2-1 and third place Minnesota's 10-6 records.

Michigan Tech opened a two goal lead early in the game but it was evident that without Bauman in the nets for the Huskies it wasn't to be a repeat of the shutout of last Wednesday. CC put on pressure all the way thru and soon was on even terms with the visitors.

Roy Heino popped the lid-opener on a good shot from the right side on a three-on-three rush from 15 feet away, which caught the upper corner on the far side. The Huskies went up by two three minutes later on one of the team's specialties an interception in CC's defensive zone — and Hill got the first of his goals again hitting the opposite side of the cords.

CC kept right in the battle, however, and at the 6:21 mark converted defenseman Roger Simon slapped one in from 40 feet and the puck slipped right under the goalie's pads.

Tech went out in front by two shortly afterward on Hill's second of the evening, on a difficult backhand as a CC defenseman was trying to ride him away from the goal. This one, too, just barely caught the corner and bounced in.

Palm kept the Tigers close pounding in his own rebound with less than two minutes left in the period as the Bengals really put the pressure on McVittie. But the Techmen got their third two-goal lead a minute later with only 15 seconds left in the stanza on another good job of forechecking which resulted in an interception and a pass to the middle where Dan Chivers stood alone in front of the goal.

Soon after the second period started the Tigers went on their four-goal rampage which saw them go to the front by two in the span of 11 minutes.

The first was a picture goal with teamwork between Jeff Sauer who made a perfect drop pass to Wayne McAlpine and the latter slapped it past the Tech goalie from 20 feet out. This was followed up two minutes later on a tip-in by Warren Fordyce on Bob Otto's slap and it just managed to nip the side of the net.

At the 11:48 mark, sophomore Steve Ebert put the Tigers into the lead for the first time on another tipin of Sauer's slap from far out. And three minutes afterward Palm got his second of the game on a fine job of hustling. Otto fired away with a lob from the red line and it bounced away from McVittie, but Palm was right there and banged it back in.

Tech narrowed the count to only a one-goal margin, 6-5, late in the second period with their only tally of the chapter. CC was shortlanded via a penalty and Hill got his third of the contest on the power play from the left faceoff circle.

The Tigers continued to push for the win in the third period and in a short 33-second span they had two more to increase their margin to 8-5. Dave Peterson first hit paydirt at 4:38 on a hard shot from 12 feet out while driving hard toward the goal, and at 5:11 Otto scored unassisted on a 15-footer from the left side.

Tech came storming back midway thru the final period and trimmed the margin to but a single tally with seven minutes remaining. Al Holm first punctured the CC goal with a rebound from point blank range and then at 12:32 Wimmer scored Tech's second of the night off the power play when the Tigers were again short by penalty.

The Michigan team sent the game into a deadlock at the 16:24 mark on a mis-judged attempt to save by Warwick. He fired from 25 feet and the CC goalie kicked at it too soon and the disc slid under his skate and into the net.

Greeley, South Meet At Palmer Gym Monday

PUEBLO — Pueblo South and Greeley will meet at the Palmer Gymnasium in Colorado Springs Monday night in a 7:30 playoff game to decide one of the two remaining berths in the State AAA Basketball Tournament.

The Colts qualified for the contest with the Northern League club Saturday night by whipping Trinidad 74-59 to wind up a brief two night playoff series to break up a three-way tie for second place in the South Central League. South, Trinidad, and Centennial had finished in a deadlock and the Colts had eliminated Centennial Friday before polishing off Trinidad Saturday.

South unloaded on the crippled Miners in a third period burst Saturday. Trinidad, playing without ace center, Mike Vecchio, trailed only 33-30 at halftime but the fast-breaking Colts ran up a 21-10 advantage in the third stanza and coasted in. Vecchio was sidelined with a broken hand following his final regular season game against Wasson Wednesday night.

South will be attempting to gain the state tournament for the fifth straight year in the Monday game with Greeley. Pueblo Central, the SCL champion, has already qualified.

Holy Family Trips Pirates' Great Bid

By DICK FOSTER

DENVER—The Pirates of St. Mary's and Holy Family battled to the wire Saturrday night. The Bucs just couldn't hold on to the reins after coming from a nine point deficit to a seven point lead and their hopes for a state championship vanished with a 60-58 victory by Holy Family at the Regis Field House here.

Holy Family thus advanced to the finals of the State Parochial Tournament against the winner of the Regis-Canon City Abbey game which was played later Saturday night. The championship tilt will be at 8 p.m. tonight. St. Mary's will meet the loser of that game for third place at 3:30 p.m.

It appeared in the early minutes Saturday that Holy Familyl's Tigers would make a picnic of the contest. After a brief warming up, the Denver five went to work. Marc Potter sank three straight field goals within one minute and Holy Family had the first portion of its nine point bulge with 4:03 left in the first quarter.

Chris Kostiuk poured in four points as did Jim Calloway and the Tigers held a nine point lead at 21-12 over coldshooting St. Mary's after the first period had ended.

The Pirates closed the gap before halftime when Holy Family cooled from nine fielders in the first period to only two in the second. The Bucs were aided when Family's Mike Coffee turned on his Tigers early in the frame and tipped in a Pirate free throw to give the Bucs two points. It rattled Holy Family and that along with an applied St. Mary's press closed Denver's five down to eight second quarter points, and they got to the locker room with only a two point lead at 29-27.

St. Mary's bombed the Tigers early in the third frame but Steve Bailey countered for Holy Family, keeping the Tigers within striking range. Bailey sank six points but the Pirate defense stopped his eye at 3:56 when the score stood at 37-35. Dick Pfalmer and Tom McCarthy shot four points apiece and at 2:33 to go St. Mary's had its 47-40 margin.

From there it was a Holy Family comeback story. The Tigers took advantage of St. Mary's attempt to protect its lead thru a pressing defense and racked up 20 points in the closing 10 minutes. The Bucs let a dozen chances for overtime play, or perhaps even a victory, slip thru their hands on short or rushed shots.

Pfalmer's timely contributions gave him top scoring honors with 17 points. Holy Family had three players crowded at the top; Mike Potter with 16, Bailey and Kostiuk with 14 each.

SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

By Bob Foss

Here's one I bet you didn't know . . . There was one season in baseball history when a pitcher had to throw more than three strikes to get a strike-out! . . . Back in 1887, the rules-makers decided to experiment . . . That season a batter was permitted four strikes! . . . The rule lasted only one year.

• • •

How's this for an oddity . . . There are 94 men in baseball's Hall of Fame . . . Among the 94 are the great players and developers of the game . . . Yet, the man who many believe invented baseball, Abner Doubleday, is not in the Hall of Fame!

• • •

Here's a real basketball oddity . . . The inventor of basketball, James Naismith, was not a successful coach in the game he originated! . . . After establishing the game, Naismith coached basketball at Kansas for nine seasons, but his overall record was only 53 wins with 56 losses.

Palmer Leads Balloting With Two on First Unit

By TOM CUSHMAN
Gazette Telegraph Sports Writer

The 1963-64 All-City Basketball Team, selected by the combined sports staffs of the Gazette-Telegraph and KRDO, includes one of the most representative fields since the two local news medies initiated their selections in the late 1950s.

Palmer's Terrors, seventh place club in the AAA South Central League, topped the balloting by placing two men on the first unit and a total of three on the first two teams. Wasson, Cheyenne Mountain, and St. Mary's each claim a single first team pick while the T-Birds, Air Academy High, St. Mary's, and Fountain all placed a single choice on the second unit.

Palmer, despite a 6-12 season record, came in for the heaviest first team voting. Bobby Joe Williams, the 6-4 senior center, and Walt Hylton, 6-0 forward, both earned berths on the top five. Other choices were 6-0 Jack O'Brien, the playmaking guard from Cheyenne Mountain's Pikes Peak League champs, Jim Smith 5-9 fireball guard from Wasson, and Dick Pfalmer, 6-3 center for St. Mary's.

Second team choices were Bill McCalvy, sharpshooting outcourt performer for Palmer; Lance Jense, the top scorer for Air Academy High; Fred Romero of Fountain, the leading point-maker in the Pikes Peak League this winter; Dave Grantz, rugged forward off St. Mary's towering front line; and Charlie Steel, fast-coming front line performer for Wasson.

Altho Palmer was the only club to place two men on the first unit, Wasson captured the unique distinction of having a pair of juniors voted to the top two teams. Both Smith and Steel will be back next winter. The only other junior among the top 10 is Palmer's McCalvy.

A total of 11 players were also cited for honorable mention as the sports personnel of the voting media kept in effect a policy of choosing only the lads who were felt to be the most deserving candidates, thus making the honor a more significant one.

Palmer also had a pair of athletes make this list, junior guard Mike Romero and junior forward Bob Pearson. Wasson's two senior standouts, John Wickham and Ron Nighswonger, were also among the group as were Joel Folk and Gary Graham of Cheyenne Mountain, Joe Jezek and Tom McCarthy of St. Mary's, Dan Gieck of Harrison, Chuck Rushmer of Widefield, and Kay Morey and Jim Rigdon of Manitou Springs.

The first unit is an outstanding collection of all-around ability. Hylton is one of the area's finest outside shooters and a ball-player who is capable in all areas. Pfalmer and Williams provide a pair of rugged rebounders who also contribute heavily to the scoring. Pfalmer was the leading point-maker for St. Mary's while Williams was a close third to Hylton and McCalvy in that department for the Terrors.

Smith and O'Brien give the club a pair of sound all-around stars. Smith, in addition to being a top scorer for the T-Birds, is extremely quick and agile, a fine defensive player, and a rapidly-improving ballhandler. O'Brien was voted the Pikes Peak League's most valuable player by the coaches for his outstanding leadership of the Cheyenne Mountain club.

First team selections will all receive certificates at appropriate ceremonies at the various schools during the coming weeks.

Loyola Five Opens Defense Of NCAA Title on Tuesday

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer

Chicago Loyola, surprise winner of the national collegiate basketball championship last spring, begins defense of its title Tuesday as one of 37 teams seeking top honors in two major college post-season tournaments.

The 25-team NCAA tournament, which includes top entries from all major conferences, climaxes a season of scrambling for titles which weren't all decided until Saturday's last regular-season games. It opens with sectional competition at four locations Monday and Tuesday.

A tripleheader at Philadelphia Monday and doubleheaders at Dallas Monday and at Evanston, Ill., and Eugene, Ore., Tuesday will send the nine winners into four regional tournaments Friday and Saturday. Loyola, rated only ninth this season in The Associated Press poll, plays its first tournament game at Evanston against Murray State, the Ohio Valley Conference champion.

The 27th National Invitation Tournament at New York's Madison Square Garden, oldest of the post-season events, begins Thursday with 12 teams but without a defending champion. Providence, the 1963 winner, is in the NCAA tournament this year.

Both tournaments wind up Saturday, March 21. The four winners of the NCAA regionals next weekend will gather in Kansas City for national semifinals and final March 20-21. The NIT has afternoon and night sessions scheduled next Saturday in the first round; and quarter-finals; more quarter-finals are scheduled March 17; semifinals March 19, and the final the afternoon of March 21.

In addition to the big ones, smaller colleges have their two national tournaments scheduled for the coming week. The 32-team NAIA tournament opens in Kansas City Monday with Pan-American of Edinburg, Tex., as the defending champion. The final is Saturday. Eight survivors of the NCAA small-college sectionals will play off at Evansville, Ind., Wednesday through Friday.

UCLA, ranked No. 1 nationally in The AP poll through most of the season, must be tabbed as favorite for the NCAA title although the Bruins play in a tough regional group.

UCLA, after a first-round bye, likely will meet sixth-ranked Oregon State Friday night. The Far West section also includes San Francisco, whose late-season winning streak recalled the days when the Dons won the NCAA championship in 1955 and 1956, and Arizona State, a strong entry from the Western Athletic Conference.

Arizona was designated as the WAC entry when New Mexico, which could have tied for the title, accepted an NIT invitation. Four New Mexico players—two of them starters—had been declared ineligible for the NCAA tournament.

Blocking Loyola's path to the finals are Kentucky, the No. 3 team nationally and Southeastern Conference champion, as well as the Big Ten winner.

Fifth-ranked Wichita won the Missouri Valley Conference berth Friday by beating Drake 58-50 in a playoff and earned a place in the NCAA Midwest regionals with such teams as Kansas State and Texas A&M. Drake immediately was named as the 12th NIT entry.

That left the NIT field with only one nationally ranked team, DePaul, No. 8 in The AP poll. DePaul, Bradley and Duquesne, all former NIT winners, and newcomer New Mexico were seeded in the draw and start play in the quarter-finals.

Six National League catchers worked in more than 100 games in 1963. John Edwards of Cincinnati was the fielding leader. He led in total chances with 1,101 and made only six errors.

Westminster or Manual Will Oppose Englewood

DENVER (AP) — Top-ranked Englewood, Northern League champion, plays either Denver Manual or Westminster in the opening game of the Class AAA Colorado High School Basketball Tournament Thursday.

The opener is scheduled at 5:15 p.m. in the Denver Coliseum. Manual and Westminster playoff Monday night to decide who enters the state meet against Englewood.

In the other Class AAA games, Pueblo Central plays Alameda at 6:45 p.m., East Denver plays either Lakewood or Wheat Ridge and Littleton meets either Greeley or the second place team from the South Central League.

Greeley meets either Pueblo South or Trinidad in a Monday night playoff with the winner going into the state meet. Lakewood and Wheat Ridge also are matched in a playoff Monday.

La Junta in Class AA is the only one of the 1963 champions that has already clinched a tourney berth.

Yuma, last year's Class A champion, met Julesburg in a district qualifying final late Saturday. Last year's Class B titleholder, Middle Park, was ousted in district play.

The Class A division opens the 1964 tournament Thursday at 10:30 a.m. at the Coliseum. Castle Rock meets Eaton in the opener. The Class B and Class C tournaments begin at 1:15 p.m. The Class B starts at Aurora Central gymnasium while the Class C contests start at the Adams City High School.

The Class AA meet starts at the Auditorium Arena at 5:15 p.m. Thursday with Durango and Fairview starting the action.

Colorado Five Clips Iowa State

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — Colorado hit seven of its first eight attempted field goals Saturday night and went on to a 90-70 victory over Iowa State, clinching at least a tie for second place in the Big Eight Conference basketball race.

Four Colorado players hit in double figures, with Bob Joyce's 22 points the top performance.

Colorado held a 46-33 halftime lead and with 3:45 left in the game was ahead 88-62.

The game gave the Buffs an 8-5 conference record. They will end their season Monday against Nebraska.

A 45.2 shooting percentage for the game and a 51-45 rebound lead helped Colorado to its victory. Jack Lintz pulled down 13 of the rebounds and Jim Davis 12. Iowa State had a 39.5 shooting percentage and its top rebound grabber, Tom Peterson, got eight.

Peterson also was Iowa State's top scorer with 19 points. For Colorado, leading scorers behind Joyce were Mike Frink, 19, Davis, 18, and Lynn Baker, 15.

Simla Ends Monument Win Streak

ELBERT — Simla ended Lewis-Palmer's long winning streak Saturday night by dumping the Monument team 51-47 in the finals of the District Six Tournament here Saturday night.

The victory sends Simla into the Class "C" State Tournament at Denver next weekend.

In other games Saturday, Woodland Park defeated Kiowa 59-50 for the consolation title and Cripple Creek downed Elbert 48-40 for third place.

Ansten Samuelstuen Wins Jumping Event

REVELSTOKE, B. C. (AP)— Ansten Samuelstuen of Boulder, Colo., won Class A honors Saturday in the O'Keefe Tournament of Champions, a jumping event held in conjunction with the Canadian Nordic Ski championships.

Samuelstuen, a member of the U.S. Olympic team, scored 227 points. Kaare Lien of Revelstoke, a member of the Canadian Olympic team, was second with 259.1 points.

Denver U. Retains Skiing Crown

FRANCONIA, N. H. (AP) — Middlebury's John Couth swept both NCAA Alpine ski titles Saturday, winning the slalom and giant slalom races to wind up the harrassed championships.

Denver retained its team crown for the fourth straight year although runner-up Dartmouth closed within 1.4 points at the finish.

Clouth, a 21-year-old senior from New London, N. H., conquered a treacherous giant slalom course in the morning. He edged Dave Gorsuch of Western State of Colorado by one second over the icy and wind-swept Cannon Mountain Trail.

In the two-run afternoon slalom, his margin was more decisive as Gorsuch, his nearest competitor again, was disqualified for missing a gate.

Jennings Cress of Western State won skiemeister honors for best all-around performance with 336 points in the four event telescoped into two days by postponements and weather problems.

Dartmouth's Dick Durrance was runner-up for the second straight year, with Utah's Dave Engen in third position.

Denver's Pioneers, who have won the NCAA title eight times in 11 years, totalled 370.2 points to 368.8 for host Dartmouth.

Gusts of wind up to 80 miles per hour did not deter a 42-man field from 16 colleges in the giant slalom race in the morning. However, icy patches and a testing 59-gate course took its toll.

Such outstanding racers as Middlebury's Roger Buchika, St. Lawrence's C. B. Vaughan, Rocky Mountain champion Ken Phelps of Western State and Dartmouth's Durrance fell during the race.

"I heard that some of the boys were having troubles on the lower half, so I skied it a bit gingerly," Clough admitted. His winning time for the 4,000 foot trail with a 1,300 foot vertical drop was 1:24.5.

Gorsuch, who had tied for this title a year ago, was timed in 1:28.8.

Two sophomores, Colorado's Sandy Limon and Middlebury's Peter Ruschp, tied for third with Wyoming captain Jim Guest in fifth position.

Rounding out the top ten in order were: Don Brooks of Denver, Peter Buchanan of Western State, Dartmouth capt. Jim Jacobson, Dartmouth sophomore Adrian (Skip) Bryan and Bill Berrier of Montana State College.

The summaries:

Giant slalom, top 10 individuals (total seconds):

Indians' O'Hare Chosen Top Coach

Don O'Hare, who led the Cheyenne Mountain basketball team to the Pikes Peak League championship undefeated, was the unanimous choice for the Coach of the Year award selected by the sports departments of KRDO and the Gazette Telegraph.

After a 12-year successful coaching stint at Lamar High School, O'Hare assumed command of the Cheyenne basketball program last fall to direct a fruitful campaign. In addition to leading his team thru an undefeated PPL slate, the Cheyenne mentor qualified the local squad for the Class State AA Tournament this week in Denver.

While at Lamar, O'Hare took his teams to the state tourney four times during a seven-year span, winning one state crown and coming in as runner-up twice.

One trip to the Cheyenne gymnasium and a chat with the amiable mentor cleared up two points: O'Hare is a master of basketball techniques, and his taking the Cheyenne job stemmed from the offer of a new challenge.

O'Hare related that he felt his building program at Lamar was established, whereas Cheyenne afforded new horizons because of its growth and scope.

The Cheyenne pilot received a B.A. college degree from Park College, Mo., and O'Hare attended Tulsa University for his teaching certificate. During that year at Tulsa, O'Hare received additional coaching instructions under Clarence Iba, Tulsa's head basketball coach. Altho O'Hare wasn't eligible to play in scheduled games, he worked out with the Tulsa varsity squad and it was there, under Iba, that his coaching philosophy was formed.

O'Hare said he applied Iba's coaching techniques during his first year at Lamar, but he soon adopted his own individual style of coaching which proved highly successful.

And one glance at the 8-0 league record and the 14-2 won-loss overall record the Cheyenne team has compiled this season justifies the school's selection of O'Hare to guide its basketball program.

Six Players Selected On WAC All-Star Team

SALT LAKE CITY (UPI) — Six players, one from each member school, were named Saturday to the 1964 United Press International Western Athletic Conference all-league basketball team.

Balloting for the all-conference team was just as tight as the league's pennant race with two players receiving the same number of votes for the fifth position on the team. The tie resulted in selecting a six-man honor squad.

The all - conference team, picked by coaches in the circuit, is led by Joe Caldwell of Arizona State University.

Caldwell, who led the Sun Devils to an NCAA playoff berth, was the only unanimous choice of the coaches.

Utah's Doug Moon and Warren Rustand of Arizona tied in the balloting and both were named guards on the honor team. The other guard spot went to Flynn Robinson of Wyoming, the league's highest scorer.

The other positions went to center Ira Harge of New Mexico and John Fairchild of Brigham Young University. Caldwell, Harge and Robinson all are repeaters from last year.

The coaches named Bob King, head man of the New Mexico squad, "Coach of the Year." King beat Utah's Jack Gardner and Arizona's Bruce Larson in close balloting for coaching honors.

Caldwell, a jack of all trades for the tourney-bound Arizona State club, was named "Player of the Year."

Caldwell, a nimble 6 ft. 5 inch senior from Los Angeles, was the big man in leading Arizona State to the top of the standings and an overall 16-10 record. He averaged 21.6 points a game.

Harge, while not a prolific scorer because of New Mexico's style of play, was one of the top rebounders in the league and was the guiding light in New Mexico winning a post-season berth in the National Invitation Tournament in New York. He is also a senior.

Fairchild, a junior, was a big surprise for Brigham Young and pulled the Cougars through on a number of occasions. He averaged 20 points a game while playing on a comparatively inexperienced team.

Robinson displayed his scoring prowess in a number of games, including the encounter with Arizona State in which he set a league record of 48 points. He averaged 25 points for the campaign.

Moon was considered one of the best clutch players in the league and was instrumental in Utah's excellent showing during the season. He averaged 17 points per contest.

Rustand played a similar role in helping carry Arizona to its best season in 11 years.

The second team consisted of Al Johnson of Arizona, Claude Williams of New Mexico, Art Becker of Arizona State, Skip Kroeger of Utah and Skip Kruzich of New Mexico.

Palmer, Player Tied For Lead at Pensacola

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP)—Arnold Palmer and Gary Player, two of the biggest names in modern golf, and Miller Barber, a tour regular who has never won, were tied for the lead Saturday in the third round of the $30,000 Pensacola Open with 11-under-par 205s.

Palmer, the defending champion, shooting for his third Pensacola title, and the 31-year-old Barber, shot four-under-par 68s. Player moved up with a 66 on a dreary, overcast day at the 6,380 - yard Pensacola Country Club course.

Fred Hawkins rallied from a shaky start with a 71 for 206 and just missed a five-foot birdie putt on the final green to join the leading threesome.

Mason Rudolph who won the New Orleans Open last Monday, joined the pack with an eight-under-par 64, the lowest round of the tournament. He is just two strokes off the lead at 207 with former PGA champion Jay Hebert and veteran Gardner Dickinson Jr. Hebert shot a 67 and Dickinson 68.

Freshman pro Chuck Courtney and Bert Weaver with 208s and five others at 209 remain within striking distance of the $4,000 first prize.

Player had a chance to move in front as he went eight under par for the round with his third straight birdie at the 14th hole. But par putts at the 15 and 18th greens hit the cups and failed to drop.

Palmer, who came from four strokes off the pace to win here last year, also ran into trouble in the stretch when his seven-iron approach hit a bunker at the 17th hole, the only green he missed all day. He eagled the eighth hole, canning a 15-foot putt, and picked up birdies at the third, 12th and 14th holes.

Reminded that he was four strokes better than after 54 holes last year Palmer said, "There are a lot of other guys closer too."

Neither Palmer nor Player has scored a victory this year. Barber has never won on the tour.

coach at the University of Tennessee.

The announcement was made Saturday by Col. Edmund A. Rafalko, athletics director at the academy, and Bob Woodruff, holder of the same position at Tennessee.

Rash has shared line coaching duties here with Joe Moss. In his new position, which he will assume at the end of March he will have the offensive line as his special responsibility as head coach.

Rash was granted a release from his Air Force contract, signed last month. He said he and his family had enjoyed their association with the academy but that he could not pass up the job at Tennessee "As I feel it is a big step in my personal coaching career."

Air Force Coach Ben Martin said he would immediately start looking for a replacement for Rash and hopes to have one before spring practice opens on March 31. He said Rash had done an outstanding job at the academy.

Walt and Yogi . . .

Oldest and Newest of Managers on the Spot

NEW YORK (UPI) — The oldest settler and the rawest rookie face the toughest tasks among the major league baseball managers for 1964.

Pick a guy riding the hottest seat in the majors and the answer almost always comes up: Walt Alston of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

Good old Walt, who has survived more storms than a Navy hurricane hunter in the 10 seasons that make him the oldest manager in point of service with one club, again is a prime candidate for the snipers.

And you can add rookie pilot Yogi Berra of the New York Yankees, whose predecessors (Casey Stengel and Ralph Houk) accounted for 13 American League pennants in 15 years.

Neither, presumably, is in as critical danger of losing his job as some others in the fraternity, but life can be rugged for them in '64 nevertheless.

As managers of defending champions, they are directing clubs of which much is expected. And each has plenty of problems.

The Dodgers still have not resolved their infield problems. In fact, most spots on the inner line are up for grabs.

Further, there will be plenty of pressure on ace Pitcher Sandy Koufax every time he goes. Will he or will he not have another big year? And if he starts slowly, there will be yelps that he wore himself out picking up honorary hardware at trophy presentations during the off-season.

You cannot win pennants with last year's trophies.

For a topper, there is the NL jinx that insists there be a new champ every year. At least there has not been a repeater since Milwaukee in 1957-58.

However, if the wolves start landing on Alston for any possible Dodger shortcomings they are in for a tough fight. Only last year, Alston survived that almost certain kiss of death — a vote of confidence from his owner.

Berra's staying qualities belong in the unknown category.

His owners did not hesitate to drop the club in his lap when Houk was upped to general manager, but Berra the player is a far better known figure than Berra the manager. He has had one year as a player-coach and that is it for the brain department.

In addition, Yogi made the unprecedented move of naming ace pitcher Whitey Ford to serve as pitching coach as well.

The club itself probably will have to depend more on Mickey Mantle and Roger Maris than it did last year when reserves filled in superbly for those injured stars. It is a lot to ask for reserves to repeat such a performance.

Still, the Yankees — and Yankee fans — are accustomed to asking a lot.

LISTENING TO THE BOSS — Mickey Mantle, who recently signed his second consecutive $100,000 contract with the New York Yankees, listens to manager Yogi Berra before taking batting practice at the club's spring training camp in Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., on Saturday. Berra, left, is in his first year as manager of the club. (AP Wirephoto)

Oklahoma State's Hank Iba Named U. S. Olympic Mentor

BOULDER, Colo. (AP)—Henry (Hank) Iba, veteran Oklahoma State University basketball coach, Saturday was named head coach of the U.S. basketball team that will compete in the Tokyo Olympic Games next October.

Russ Lyons, chairman of the U.S. Olympic Basketball Committee who will manage the U.S. squad, also announced that an assistant coach will be selected after the Olympic trials at St. John's University in New York April 2-4.

A 12-man squad, plus six alternates, will be selected, IBA will meet with the Olympic committee to select the team members.

Lyons said plans are being made for a State Department sponsored tour of Russia and other European countries by a U.S. team selected from the Olympic squad.

Regular Olympic squad members who are available will be on the touring team, plus alternates necessary to fill out the squad.

The team will leave for Europe April 18 and play eight to 12 games in a three-week period before returning to the U.S.

Iba, 59, has been coaching basketball for 37 years, 30 of them at Oklahoma State. Among the titles his teams have won are national collegiate crowns at Oklahoma State in 1945 and 1946.

Iba's current Oklahoma State team is battling for a second or third place finish in the Big Eight Conference.

The Olympic team will be reassembled for training at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii, starting Sept. 1, Lyons said. The squad will return to the mainland Sept. 20 to play four exhibition games before leaving for Tokyo from Los Angeles Oct. 1.

Baseball's Expansion Wearing Out Old Timers

By STEVE SNIDER
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Baseball's major league expansion, instead of providing a haven for older ball players past their prime, is wearing 'em out faster than ever.

That monstrous 162-game schedule designed to fit 10-team leagues has driven out all but three old-timers who admit they've passed the ripe old age of 40.

And each of the three is an exceptional character:

Warren Spahn of the Milwaukee Braves, who'll be 43 on April 23, is the leading graybeard listed on official rosters this spring. Spahnie is a marvel. His 23-7 record last year matched the best he ever had in a career packed with mighty deeds.

Art Fowler of the Los Angeles Angels, age 41, kicked around the minors for 10 years before he got up to the Cincinnati Reds in 1954 for four seasons and twice since then has fought his way back after being exiled to the minors.

Hoyt Wilhelm of the Chicago White Sox, who'll be 41 on July 16, is a knuckleballer who puts so little strain on his arm he may be around long enough to have his Social Security checks delivered to the pitching mound.

Expansion, so the expansionists asserted in their original campaign, would be a boon to both veterans and the kids as 10 clubs instead of eight scrambled for playing talent. It hasn't worked out that way.

Most ball players, excepting the very young and eager, have been beefing about the clogged schedule, the odd-ball airplane connections required to meet the demands of that schedule and the great number of spring exhibitions.

Only a few graybeards can take it. All seven players at 38 or over are pitchers who have worked out a rest schedule for themselves. Only four of the 12 at 37 or over are non-pitchers and two of those are part-timers.

Included at the top behind Spahn, Fowler and Wilhelm are Skinny Brown of Houston (39), Harvey Haddix of Baltimore (38), Cal McLish of the Phillies (38), Bobby Shantz of the St. Louis Cardinals (38), Robin Roberts of Baltimore (37), Lew Burdette of the Cardinals (37), Charlie Maxwell of the White Sox (37), Duke Snider of the New York Mets (37), Roy Sievers of the Phillies (37) and Smokey Burgess of Pittsburgh (37).

Maxwell is a part-time outfielder. However, Snider and Sievers are called upon for more or less regular duty and Snider, for one, isn't too happy about it. Smokey does about half Pittsburgh's catching.

In the 36-year-old age group are five pitchers and four who are not.

The pitchers are Stu Miller of Baltimore, Dick Donovan of Cleveland, Bill Henry of Cincinnati, Johnny Klippstein of the Phils and Roy Face of the Pirates. Day-to-day hands are Joe Adcock of the Los Angeles Angels, Nellie Fox and Pete Runnels of Houston and Don Hoak of the Phils.

At 35, are seven pitchers and only one regular—Jim Gilliam of the Los Angeles Dodgers. Whitey Ford, pitcher-coach of the Yankees, is in that age bracket.

How accurate baseball ages are these days is hard to prove but it's not likely there's as much fibbing now as in the old days when ball players automatically lopped off a few years in an effort to fool their employers. Automation in the accounting department both locally and in Washington makes fibbing somewhat precarious.

But only three admit to 40 or more—and that's a dwindling breed.

AFA Runner Murhpy Has Nation's Top Time

According to official NCAA timings, the Air Force Academy has the fastest indoor two-mile runner in American college ranks—sopohmore "Mercury Jim" Murphy.

During the Western Conference NCAA Indoor Track meet held in Portland, Ore., Murphy shocked the track world by upending Oregon State's great runner Dale Story, beating him to the finish marker and clocking a stunning 8:50.5 time in the process.

Meanwhile, at the Eastern Conference NCAA meet in Louisville, Ky., the best two-mile timing was turned in by Andy Schramm of Miami of Ohio, who came in over 11 seconds slower than Murphy — 9:01.7.

While others may have waxed wonder at Murphy's distance running, sporting confidants at the Air Force Academy were not in the least surprised. Murphy, they knew, has never lost a race, either as a freshman or sophomore, and has broken more records than a nervous disc jockey.

A native Chicagoan, Murphy made his mark at the Academy last year as a freshman track star. Undefeated during the season, he left the Academy's last dual meet as holder of new track records for the one-mile (4:35.5) and the two-mile (9:45.9), both set the same day.

When the cross country team took to the sod, Murphy (now a sophomore) again set the winning pace. In his first five meets, he not only won, but in each case set a new course record. When the season ended on a happy 8-1-1 note, much of the credit was given to the undefeated, record smashing "Murph."

Having amply demonstrated his talents, even better things were expected of Murphy as a sophomore indoor trackman—as usual, he came thru. Altho his win in the Western Conference NCAA's was the high point of his career, just previously—against Colorado's Big Eight two - mile champion, Bob Griffith—Murphy had run the fastest two miles ever recorded in the state of Colorado, 9:23.9, during the Feb. 15 meet in Boulder.

Next stop for the Chicago flash is the Outdoor NCAA Track and Field Championships, slated for June 18-20 in Eugene, Ore. According to Coach Arne Arnesen, the Academy's track coach, Murphy—facing the nation's best—will have to cover the three-mile course in at least 13:30 to even qualify. But Arnesen, who has carefully coached and directed Murphy to his present abilities, feels that Jim is more than equal to the task.

"Jim," he says, "is small for a runner. He's only 5-7 and weights about 110 pounds. But 90 pounds of that is 'heart' and the other 20 is willpower.

"There is no doubt in my mind," he adds, "that Jim is the finest prospect in this country for any run from one mile to six miles in length."

Connolly and Wife Olga Getting Set for Games

By A. E. PEDERSEN
United Press International

TAMPERE, Finland (UPI) — A hole nearly six inches across, about 20 feet up the wall of the old frame barn, marks the spot where an iron ball emerged.

The barn is the makeshift gymnasium where world hammer throw champion Harold Connolly is getting ready for his last Olympics.

"The first iron net we had wasn't strong enough," said Connolly, as he went into his windup.

The ball thudded into the net and fell to the barn floor with a resounding thud.

The barn was provided by the city of Tampere, where Harold has been teaching English classes for nearly two years. Every day Harold or his wife, Czechoslovakian-born Olga, can be seen here training. Olga Fikotova Connolly uses the net to catch her discus throws.

This will be the last Olympics for the couple who won their gold medals in Melbourne in 1956, fell in love and got married the following year.

"We're going to quit after Tokyo," said Harold. "That's definite. You've got to stop sometime."

Connolly won the event at Melbourne in 1956, but did poorly in Rome four years later. He holds the world record, however, with a throw of 231 feet, 10 inches, set nearly two years ago, shortly before he came to Finland.

After a gold medal in in Melbourne, Olga likewise did poorly in Rome. One reason for her showing there was family worries.

But a six-year struggle with Czechoslovakian authorities to get her parents out of the country has finally ended. The elder Fikotovas arrived here early this month and will accompany the Connolly family to California in May.

With this worry out of the way, Olga Connolly will have more time to concentrate on her discus-throwing. Harold believes that Olga should turn in her best performance yet at Tokyo.

Although the U.S. team has not yet been selected, it is a foregone conclusion that both Harold and Olga will be Tokyo-bound this summer.

Connolly finished his throwing session amid piles of hay and dismantled farm machinery. He locked the barn door and ran a few laps around the barn before driving back to Tampere.

"It should be a great Olympics," he said. "We got a very good impression of this when we were in Toyo last autumn."

Indiana Schools Forced to Play Nine Overtimes

MARION, Ind (AP)—Swayzee and Liberty Center set a longevity record for Indiana high school basketball Saturday, playing nine overtime periods before Swayzee won 65-61 in the Marion Regional tourney of the annual state championship.

The previous record was a seven-overtime marathon in which Camden defeated Delphi 22-19 in a 1938 sectional tourney game.

Swayzee and liberty center were tied 52-52 at the end of regular time. Neither scored in the first six overtimes as they held for last - second shots and missed.

Oklahoma To Start Grid Drills

By JACK WILKINSON

NORMAN, Okla. (UPI)—Gomer Jones, treating his new role of head football coach at the University of Oklahoma with a great amount of enthusiasm, sounds his first call for spring practice Tuesday.

Jones, who succeeded Bud Wilkinson last January when Wilkinson resigned to run for the U.S. Senate, said he expects 85 candidates, including 28 lettermen.

Gomer will be on somewhat of a spot this fall, as would be any coach who succeeded the remarkably successful Wilkinson. But, he contributed mightily to Wilkinson's successes, building powerful line after line through his 17 years as Bud's "second banana." And, he knows all the inner workings of the Sooner attack and the well manned team he inherits.

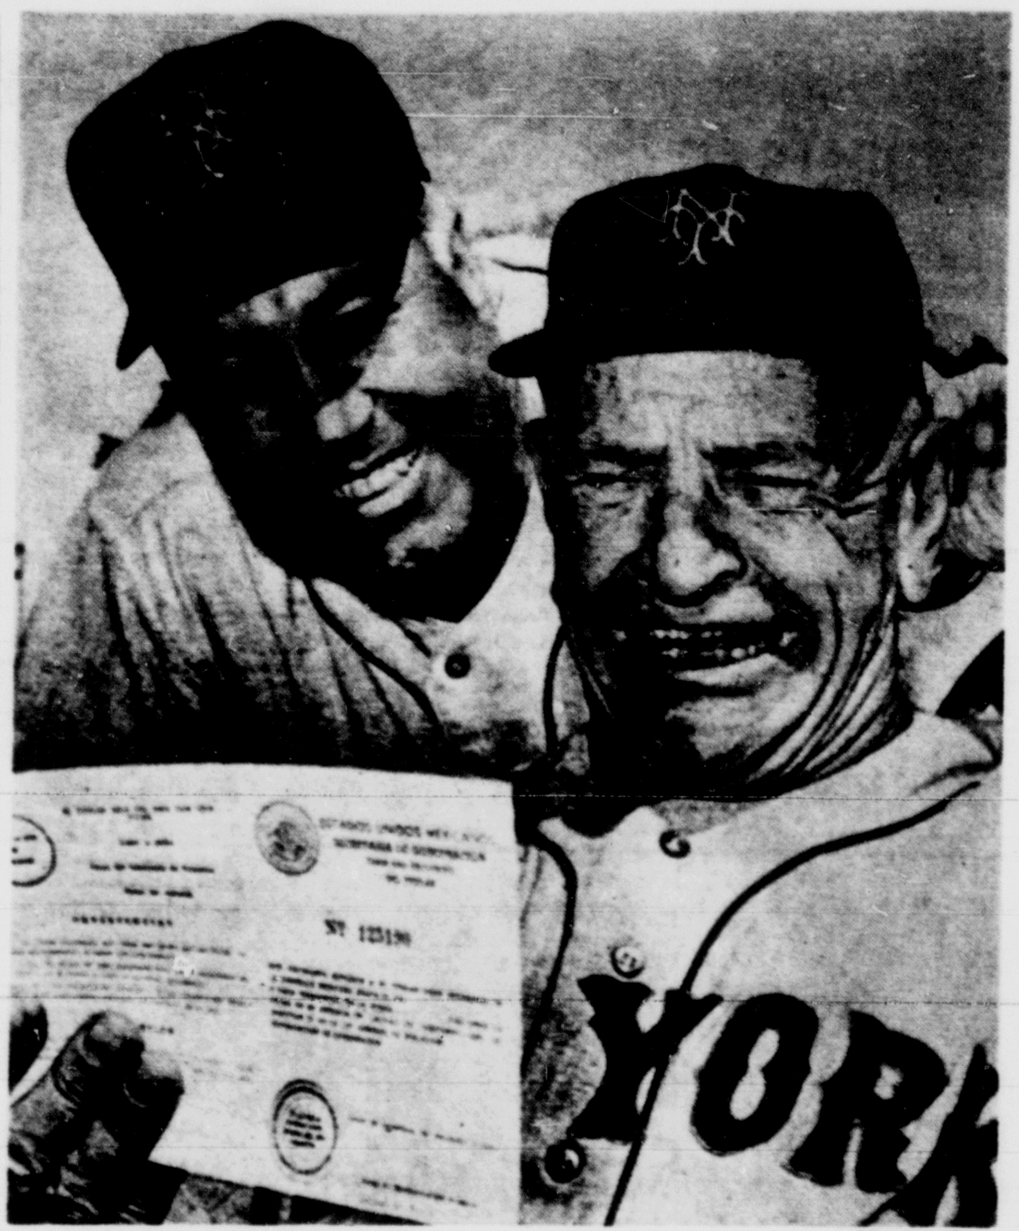
Jones says he will practice two weeks, four days each, and then take a week off for Easter vacation. The squad reassembles a week later and continues drills until the annual alumni game April 18.

Eight starters are back. These include fullback Jim Grisham and tackle Ralph Neely, who were named to the second team of the 1963 United Press International All-America squad.

Other starters returning include guards Newt Burton and Ed McQuarters, ends John Flynn and Rick McCurdby, center John Garrett and quarterback Bobby Page.

Nine alternates are back, including end Allen Bumgardner, tackles Jerry Goldsby and Glen Condren, center Carl McAdams, guard Carl Schreiner, quarterback Tommy Pannell, halfbacks Larry Shields and Lance Rentzel and fullback Larry Brown. Defensive specialists Charlie Mayhue and David Voiles also return from the 1963 Sooner team that finished 8-2 and second to Nebraska in the Big Eight.

Mike Ringer, who was the starting quarterback at the beginning of last season, appears to be recovering from an elbow injury that forced him to miss most of the campaign. But, he is not expected to scrimmage until after the Easter break.



CASEY THE LINGUIST — Manager Casey Stengel of the New York Mets delights Duke Snider with his interpretation of the Mexican form required by the team for their visit to Mexico City this weekend. The Mets were to meet a Mexican team in three exhibition games. (AP Wirephoto)

Casey and Mets Invade Old Mexico

By MURRAY CHASS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Casey Stengel and his adventurous New York Mets are in Mexico in what may be the wildest invasion there since Gen. John Pershing went looking for Pancho Villa 48 years ago.

Stengel, though, hopes his forces come out of it a little better than Pershing's. Several of the general's 12,000 troops were killed, and they never did capture Villa.

The Mets certainly are in a bad enough way that they can't afford to lose any of the 24 players and officials who arrived in Mexico City Thursday night. They also are looking forward to conquering the Mexico City teams they play in a series of three exhibition games starting tonight.

New York, of course, has a secret weapon going for it — Casey's mouth — if you can call that secret.

Still, the Mets face numerous hazards, more, it seems, than Pershing's expeditionary forces did.

According to mimeographed plans, the Mets were warned to "drink nothing but bottled water." Whenever you have a mixed drink, soft or otherwise make sure that the ice cubes are made of bottled water."

Pershing undoubtedly didn't have the luxury of bottled water, but he also certainly wan't faced with some of the other dangers confronting New York.

"Mexican fans are ardent baseball souvenir hunters," the Mets were advised. "Hold on to your hats and everything else you may have, particularly when leaving the ball park.

"The team will dress at the Hotel Alameda, where it will be staying, and go to the ball park in uniform. All equipment will be brought back to the hotel after each game and will be placed under lock and key."

No sooner had the Mets arrived in Mexico City than Stengel experienced what he was in for. Some 300 persons enthusiastically greeted the team at the airport. The welcoming committee, or the advance force, became so enthusiastic that police had to rescue Casey from the midst of a group of them.

In other training camp developments, General Manager Buzzie Bavasi of the Los Angeles Dodgers indicated that base-stealing shortstop Maury Wills may have to get into shape without pay when the Dodgers open their season next month.

Ring Comeback Rumor For Marciano Denied

By OSCAR FRALEY
UPI Sports Writer

MIAMI (UPI) — Fearless Fraley's facts and figures:

In the limburger memory of the Sonny Liston-Cassius Clay thing it has gotten so bad that even the society and saloon reporters are breathlessly spreading the word Rocky Marciano is being sought for a comeback.

As reported in this corner last week, the Rock has spoken a very definite "no" to two entreaties for his services. While Liston admits "I didn't train hard enough," the forthright Marciano says he doesn't have the drive, "and the way I feel it would be a fraud to try to put on the gloves."

It's a wise move on the 40-year-old Marciano's part. He's balding and has a break basket which bears honest testimony to his admission that "I love to eat." Remaining retired and undefeated preserves a record of which he is rightfully proud.

Gulfstream race track is trying to lure George Pope's Hill Rise and Rex Ellsworth's The Scoundrel out of the West to tangle with Northern Dancer and Calumet's Ky. Pioneer in the April 4 Florida Derby. If they manage it, the contest would take a lot of icing off the Kentucky Derby cake.

Meanwhile, Willie Shoemaker's reason for down - playing Northern Dancer after riding the chunky colt to victory in the Flamingo becomes more apparent. "The Shoe" said he thought the Canadian colt "needs more seasoning" but it may be a case of not boosting the opposition. . .Willie is committed to Ellsworth and may have to ride The Scoundrel in the big three-year-old stakes.

It seems highly probably that the National Football League and the American Football League are doing some behind-the-scenes expansion shopping. One site frequently mentioned is Miami—but one loop or the other seems destined to come up with an Atlanta-New Orleans entry. Atlanta tobacco magnate Jim Clay and New Orleans realtor Dave Dixon are working hand-in-glove as a one-two punch and with them it'll be first come, first served.

Baltimore Oriole president Lee MacPhail sees "closer competition" for the New York Yankees from among Baltimore, Minnesota, Chicago, Cleveland and Detroit as ending the American League's attendance decline . . .But Yogi Berra might have dented those hopes when he analyzed with his cast-iron philosophy:

"Sometimes you try harder because you're a Yankee." And try harder with more talent.

Baltimore's Boog Powell is kind of a case in point as to how frustrating some of the ballplayers find it in spring training. He reported weighing 251 pounds. Manager Hank Bauer wants him to play at at 235, so the six-foot, four-inch Powell spent two days working in a rubber suit and carefully watching his diet.

The third day he weighed 253.

Calumet Farm Duo Captures Stakes Race

MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — The heavily favored Calumet Farm entry of Ky. Pioneer and Kentucky Jug finished one-two Saturday in the $17,900 Hutcheson Stakes at Gulfstream Park and Ky. Pioneer established himself as a strong factor in the Florida Derby April 4.

Both Calumet colts came from far off the pace, with Ky. Pioneer moving up along the rail and Kentucky Jug closing fast on the extreme outside. They are Calumet's chief hopes for an eighth Kentucky Derby Victory May 2.

Ky. Pioneer, ridden by Larry Adams, started his rally from seventh place at the quarter pole and was in front with one-eighth of a mile to go. He won easily, by two lengths, with Kentucky Jug one-half length in front of Buz On at the wire. Saltville finished fourth.

Ky. Pioneer ran the seven furlongs in 1:24 and the entry paid $3.60, $3.20 and $2.20. Buz On paid $2.80 to show.

Henry Moreno, rider of Saltville, claimed foul against Adams and Ky Pioneer but it was not allowed.

Ky. Pioneer has been nominated for the Florida Derby. Kentucky Jug is not in the race.

Stan Gross Rolls High 278 Game

The highest single game bowled to date in the current 1963-64 bowling season at Ent Lane was rolled recently by Stan Gross, Air Defense Command radar coverage analysis officer. Gross now holds high single line honors thus far in the season with a 278 game bowled in Saturday's Father-Son League.

Bowling with his son Steve, 13, along with Ed and Tommy Atkinson, on the Blat team, Gross toppled the pins to the tune of 11 strikes and one spare. The latter came in the fourth frame as Gross left the "5" and "8" pins following a cross-over hit.

A 170 average bowler, Gross also became eligible for a centurn patch from the American Bowling Congress for rolling more than 100 pins over his average.

He also rolled a 181 and a 192 for a nifty 651 series. His son, Steve, helped the team along with a 419 series.

Besides the Father - Son League, Gross rolls in Tuesday's Blue League, and holds down a 170 average in that loop.

With 10 years of bowling under his belt, Gross had only one explanation for the phenomenal game. He said, "I just lost control of my ball.".

He is married to the former Dora F. Frankel of Easton, Pa., and lives at 2123 Clarkson. They have two children besides Steve; Barbara 17 and Joan 7.

Tony Lupien, former major league first baseman, has been coaching Dartmouth baseball since 1956.

Fight Aftermath

To the Editor:

The aftermath of the recent Windbag vs. Stool Sitter Championship fight produced this Clay epic:

"I yelled come on chump, come on chump,
But Liston's no fool,
He says, 'I'm staying' here on this stool.'

This poem, by the Muslin Mauler, is one of three things wrong with boxing today.

Categorically the three things are: the fighter who has never been floored, the fighter who has never been knocked out, and this fighter who writes the above lines. These three things, plus other incidentals, gamblers, fixers, commercially-timed television fights, etc: are fast making the world of boxing into a dinosaur—extinct.

Consider the fighter who has never been floored. He creates, to the public, a false image; the public thinks perhaps this fighter is a great one, forgetting that perhaps the reason for this feat is ridiculously simple: he hasn't fought anyone who could actually floor anyone.

Naturaly a boxer should strive towards this end, not being floored. But competition is healthy too; real competition. Examine the past records of some previous fighters.

Included you will find a gentleman by the name of Joe Louis; he was decked by Braddock, Schmeling, Buddy Baer, Galento, Walcott—and, as a matter of fact, Louis was put down seven times in his first amateur bout, in Detroit, by Johney Miler. Louis became Heavyweight Cahampion, tho I must confess, he certainly does not belong in the same classification with the present champion.

Tommy Loughran, one-time Lightheavyweight king, was downed numerous times by various fighters; he generally bounced back to box their ears off. Then, there was once a fighter by name of Bob Pastor, a heavyweight. He was down five times in his bout with Eddie Sims—still Pastor earned a draw. Jimmy Bivins floored him twice in the first round, but Pastor came back to win.

Turkey Thompson decked him six times in the initial frame—but Pastor won. Tami Mauriello floored him, and Maruiello lost. Buddy Scott floored him, and lost. Lem Franklin put Pastor down and was ko'd himself in the eighth round. Joe Louis floored him three times in the opening round, but Louis couldn't fnish him till the 11th.

Firpo, the Argentino, challanged Dempsey thusly: "If I am knocked down again and again, I will get up again and again." Firpo hit the canvas six times, but he fought like a true warrior, knocking Dempsey out of the ring.

Joe Jeanete, Heavyweight, was down in his Paris bout with Sam McVey, a grand total of 27 times; Jeanette won it in the 49th.

Sugar Ray Robinson was not perfect. He was floored by Tommy Bell for a seven-count; Jake Lamotta had him down for nine in one of their fights; Artie Levine had Sugar Ray down for nine; Robinson won all of those contests.

Some fans will say that this doesn't mean a thing. It stands to reason, they will contend, that a fighter who is floored will sometime or another, stay there—on the canvas.

How true; but examine the record. Does this really mean too much? Joe Louis had been ko'd, but he won the title; Tiger Flowers, the Georgia Southpaw, was ko'd a total of eight times, before winning the middleweight title; Jersey Joe Walcott lost knockouts to Al Ettore, Tiger Jack Fox, Abe Simon, Louis, plus losses too numerous to name, but he finaly won the title.

Mickey Walker was put away for 10 by a substitute battler, Phil Delmont, in 1919. Walker went on to win the world Welterweight and Middleweight title, obviously forgetting the first round knockout—perhaps not forgetting it, but not being discouraged.

And then, there was Jack Dempsey—knocked out by a 37-year old man, Fireman Jim Flynn.

Then we come to Liston and Clay; Liston had never been floored, never been ko'd. Clay, altho not a complete stranger to the ring-floor, had never been ko'd. All records were kept intact; neither gladiator was floored—neither puglist was actually knocked out.

I don't say that a fight has to be gory, or that a fighter has to be "knocked out," but when it comes to the third Boxing-Spoiler on my list, I must rule an exception. It is Clay's poetry. Almost everyone wants to see him get mussed up.

But, even tho his poetry is sometimes quite "barbed,' quite quaint, and etc.; it doesn't compare to the little ditty composed way back in 1922 by an unknown author. It goes like this:

"Fate with your iron-bound fist;
Lord of the tenet of might;
Grant us this boon, we insist;
Give us some Champions who'll fight."

Arnie Palmer Also Wonders What Has Caused His Slump

MIAMI (UPI) — Arnold Palmer admitted candidly today that he had absolutely no idea what had happened to his errant golf game.

One thing is certain. Palmer as of the moment definitely has lost the magic touch which over the past few years has made him the golden boy of the fairways.

And you get the idea that underneath a calm exterior he has arrived at the point where he is a man whistling past a graveyard.

It is easily understood, if he is about ready to push the panic button. Arnie has some 15 companies as satellites to his parent Arnold Palmer Company, which has been producing his own brand of golf clubs for less than four months.

Palmer's golf in tournament play is the dog which wags all these tails. Let him become just another also-ran and a lot of those financial walls will come tumbling down.

There is no doubt here but what Arnie will recapture his touch. He hungers for and loves the acclaim which goes with victory almost as much as he likes the challenge of winning. And this is a guy who enjoys the competitive battle more than most.

"He isn't hungry any more," Paul Runyan said recently. "And you have to be hungry to win."

"I'm possibly not 'hungry' if you use the word in its proper sense," Palmer admitted. "But anybody who knows me knows that I like to win anything I'm playing in, and nobody is going to try harder."

Why then hasn't he broken through — in his usual gangbuster style — in any of this year's early events?

"It surely beats me," Palmer admitted on a visit to Miami. "I honestly don't know what's wrong, but I don't think it's anything permanent."

Palmer stopped smoking eight weeks ago, he said, "and maybe that has a little to do with it because there's no question in my mind but that smoking eased my nervous tension."

When he ponders on his inability to hit the winner's circle, Palmer, who looks more fit than he has at any time in the last five years, frowns with deep concentration and shakes his head in puzzlement.

"Maybe I'm too rested, " he shrugged. "A year ago at this time I was tired already with the whole summer ahead of me. It was a long year. Now I feel great."

He looks great, too, for this is a man bubbling with energy and bright prospects, feeling so good that it is almost impossible for him to stand still.

"I worked hard at New Orleans and it looked like I might be hitting the ball just right, but a 76 ruined me," he looked back. "I'm just going to keep on working hard on my game.

I'll try to be ready for Doral in Miami.

"If I can't get may game right there, then I'll work hard getting ready for the next one, like say, the Masters. If I miss there, I'll just keep busting at it in the next one, and the one after that. Sooner or later all the pieces will drop into place and everything will be all right."

Ken Boyer and Curt Flood of St. Louis, Ron Santo and Dick Bertell of Chicago and Frank Robinson of Cincinnati were the only National Leaguers to get five hits in one game last season.

President Plans Major Speech on Latin America

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson is planning a major speech on U.S. Latin American policy focused on the Alliance for Progress.

The President also is expected to send to Congress in the next few weeks a message on U.S. foreign aid plans and operations which will cover the work of an interdepartmental committee given the task two months ago of planning a shakeup in AID. The committee is headed by Undersecretary of State George W. Ball.

The occasion for the speech on Latin America will be the initial meeting March 16 of the Inter-American Committee on the Alliance for Progress. The Organization of American States announced Friday that Johnson will speak on that date to the committee, which is designed to function as the permanent executive organ of the alliance.

In both the alliance speech and the foreign aid message Johnson, according to informed officials, will place a heavy new emphasis on the theme of "self help" by the countries receiving U.S. assistance.

He is also expected to report how the staff of the Agency for International Development has been to a considerable degree integrated with the State Department staff so that a closer coordination of AID activities and diplomacy can be developed over the world.

Informed officials say that radical changes in the AID operation, which were initially given serious consideration by the Ball committee, have largely been eliminated.

In the two sesons Pete Liske was Penn State's No. 1 quarterback, the Nittany Lions compiled a 16-4 won-lost record.

Penn State intercepted 15 enemy passes during the 1963 football campaign. Don Caum and Junior Powell intercepted four each.

Free Distribution Of Surplus Food Stirs Big Storm

By JOHN WOODFIELD

CAMBRIDGE, Md. (AP) — A federal program of free surplus food for the needy has Democratic officials of this Eastern Shore community fuming at Gov. Millard Tawes and U.S. Sen. Daniel B. Brewster, both Democrats.

More than 120 persons, certified by the welfare department of Dorchester County, of which Cambridge is the seat, lined up for the food here. At least as many more will receive it today. Most of them are Negroes.

Winter closure of food canning plants and a cut-back in farm labor have swelled relief rolls here.

County officials are angry because Tawes and Sen. Brewster requested the food from the U.S. Department of Agriculture after county commissioners had decided the food wasn't needed.

"It seems the only person who wants it is Gloria Richardson," said Richard M. Matthews, a member of the county's all-Democratic delegation to the Maryland House of Delegates. He referred to Gloria Richardson, Negro chairman of the Cambridge Nonviolent Action Committee, which staged a demonstration here last week that resulted in the arrest of 18 persons.

National Guard troops still patrol Cambridge, which was rocked by racial violence last summer, and demonstrations are banned. Last week's picketing had been to protest the county commissioner's decision not to request surplus food.

M. Baker Robbins, president of the all-Democratic county commissioners, commented: "I don't think they had any right to bring this food in here without consulting county officials, and I'm going to do everything in my power to get it taken out.

"Monday afternoon after the Cambridge Human Relations Commission returned from a meeting with Gov. Tawes they told us he spent two hours apologizing to them and discussing how to get off the hook. Then they decided they would have to go along with it to keep Gloria from demonstrating again."

Both the Human Relations Commission and the Dorchester County Welfare Department have recommended against applying for the food.

James Hampton, director of the welfare department, said problems of distribution and administration "more than balance the benefits from the program."

Robbins said it would cost Dorchester County $24,000 to set up and administer the program.

He said Rep. Rogers C. B. Morton, a Republican who represents the Eastern Shore, had promised a full investigation of the situation.

County commissioners have vowed that no county funds will be used for the program. The National Guard is distributing the food.

"This is not a racial thing with us," said Robbins. "But I think that it was a racial issue with Gov. Tawes and Sen. Brewster because I think they absolutely listen to Gloria Richardson."

Multi-Million Dollar Mining Suit Reported

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) — A multi - million dollar suit, the outcome of which may have a wide effect on the mining industry, is under way here.

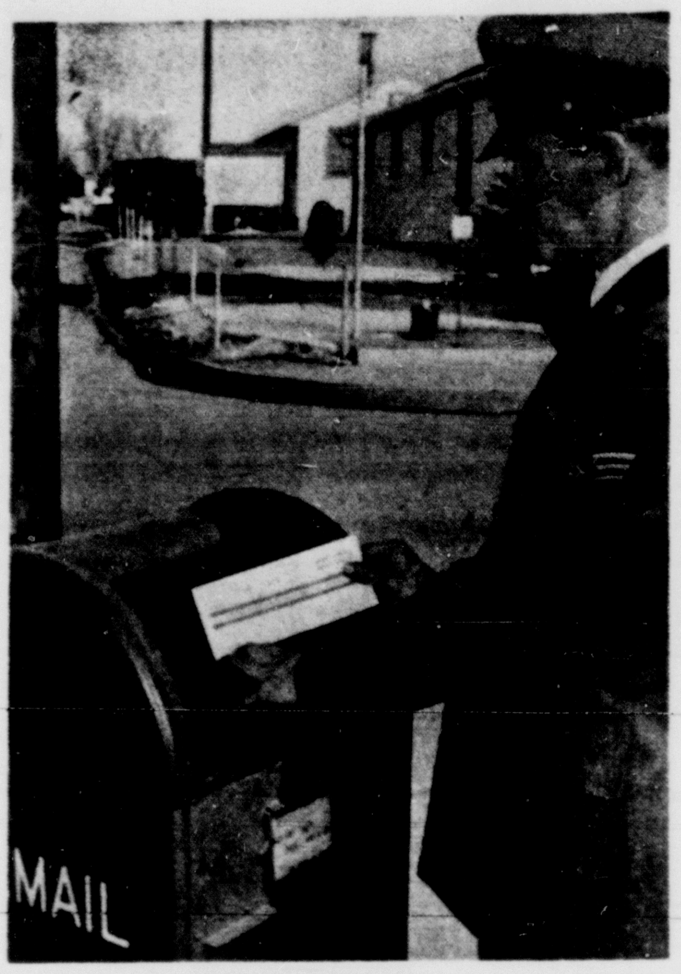
Robert Akre of Linton, Ind., brought the suit against Peabody Coal Co., Maumee Collieries, Alva Coal Co. and E. I. Du Pont De Nemours Co. The case is being tried before Judge S. Hugh Dillin. A Court observer said it might last for another week.

Akre is the investor of a process for blasting which is said to save millions of dollars in the mining industry.

No specific amount was named in the suit but the inventor contended he is not receiving any royalties under his contract, which originally was with Maumee. This firm's control later passed to Alva, but Peabody was named because it has a corporate link with Alva.

DuPont had an exclusive license to manufacture and sell the invention, which consists of chemicals in a plastic bag which are dropped in drill holes.

Bill Bradburn, a member of Army's rifle team, two years ago equaled the U. S. Military Academy record with a 295 score. The mark was set by Gordon Rogers in 1959.



BALLOT REQUEST—With the deadline for many state primary elections closing in fast, Airman 1.C. The Future Homemakers of America are selling dessert cookbooks. Each cookbook sells for $2.75.

Thirteen students and sponsor, Jerome Stratton, attended the Pikes Peak League Speech Festival held in Leadville Feb. 29. FHS placed third in an over-all rating of the Festival.

Those participating in interpretive reading were: Laura Nugent, given a rating of two; Jan Malone, one; Carlyle Nerdahl, two; Kay Rutledge, two; Valerie Waidler, one; Judy Olsen, one.

Participants in the radio reading events were all given ratings of two. They were Coretta Gollehon, Myrna Spencer, and Jim Hughes.

Linda Laughlin, Dan Dailey, Marie Bowen, and Gil Taylor participated in the one act play. Marie Bowen received honorable mention for best actress.

Practice for the Senior Class Play, "Come To Dinner," was held at the home of Diane Kraus Feb. 29. Because most of the play cast members were at the Leadville Speech meet, substitutes read their lines.

The group, consisting of John Hughes, Harold Burns, Kathy Ward, Pat Florea, Ginnie Leonard, Mark Pevotaux, Sylvia Erickson, and Sharon Skidmor, tape recorded the play for the benefits of hearing their mistakes.

A spaghetti dinner was served after the meeting.

Posters have been distributed and tickets are now on sale for the Senior Class Play, "Come To Dinner." Price of the tickets is 75 cents for adults, 50 cents for high school students, and 25 cents for children and junior high students.

The play will be presented March 20, at 8 p.m. in the FHS gymnasium. Tickets for the play may be purchased at the door the night of the play or from any senior class member.

FHS welcomed 10 new students the week of March 2. They are sophomores — Helen Okken, Nancy Elrod, Alex Victor, Thomas Petefish, Joan Johnston; juniors — Mary Ellen Okken, Patricia Swan, Susan Victor, Eva Graham, John Bingham.

SETS HIGH GOALS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Shortstop Jim Fregosi, 21, has set three goals for himself during 1964.

He would like to bat .300 — as who wouldn't? He will be striving for an All-star berth on the American League team, and he hopes to steal 20 bases.

Fregosi hit .287 in 154 games last year. He ranked third in American League double plays with 90 and ranked fifth in fielding efficiency. He stole only two bases in four attempts.
